Congress Gets Bills Piecemeal.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—In the face of steadily mounting opposition to Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to pack the Supreme court, administration leaders in congress decided tonight to call up in the house tomorrow bills embodying two of the less controversial features of the President's judiciary reform proposals.

These measures, which have been approved by the house judiciary committee, are the following:

1. A bill providing that the attorney general shall intervene in cases between private parties in which constitutional questions are involved and permitting a direct appeal to the Supreme court if the law in question should be held invalid by the court of first instance.

2. A bill authorizing Supreme court justices to retire upon reaching the age of 70, and completing 10 years of service, at full pay [now $20,000] the remainder of their lives.

Committee Approves Both.

The measure embracing a part of the procedural reforms recommended by Mr. Roosevelt last Friday in his sensational move to gain control of the Supreme court was perfected and approved at a meeting of the house judiciary committee at which the President's message was read but not discussed. The retirement bill had been previously reported favorably.

The committee decided to postpone consideration of the other features of the legislation sought by the President until Thursday. Few members of the committee displayed any enthusiasm for that part of the Roosevelt measure proposing to authorize the President to appoint a new member of the court for every justice over 70 who fails to retire.

The Republican members are solidly against the scheme and many of the Democratic members, including Chairman Hatton Sumners of Texas, adopted a noncommittal attitude.

Decide at Conference.

The decision to bring up the two bills tomorrow was reached at a conference of Speaker Bankhead [D., Ala.], Majority Leader Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], and Chairman Sumners. The action is in line with the attitude of most of the opponents of the President's proposals who say they will vote for procedural reform that will reduce the congestion of court dockets and expedite justice but will fight to the last ditch any packing of the Supreme court for the purpose of getting decisions desired by Mr. Roosevelt.

Although the measures to be brought up are the least controversial of the President's proposals their consideration is bound to provoke general debate on the Roosevelt move to pack the court.

Such is the widespread condemnation of the President's bold stroke to gain domination of the Supreme court that state legislatures, even in Democratic states, are beginning to go on record against Mr. Roosevelt's project. Such action was taken today by the Texas, South Carolina, Maine, and Connecticut legislatures. Similar moves are reported afoot in a score or more of other legislatures.

Connally Breaks with President.

The action of the state bodies is calculated to exert a profound influence upon the attitude of the national senators and representatives of such states. The Texas legislature urged the Texas delegation in congress to oppose the packing of the Supreme court. Shortly after this action Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] announced that he had broken with the President on this question.

"I am opposed," he said, "to an increase in the Supreme court to fifteen judges in the method and under the circumstances proposed.

"In the matter of the inferior courts I am of the opinion that there can be reform in the matter of expediting business and providing for government representation in cases in which the government is interested and favor proper action in that regard."

Representative Maury Maverick [D.], upon hearing the action of the legislature of his home state, Texas, went on the air and told Texas to mind its business. Maverick outdistanced all the other New Dealers in introducing the President's judiciary bill last Friday. He simply de-

LAUNDRY OWNER BUYS MACHINE TO MAKE MONEY

Slick Strangers Use Old Racket.

Benjamin Fishbain, a wealthy laundry owner, living at 1050 North Spaulding avenue, is the victim of a $100,000 swindle which has caused the police to extend a search into all parts of the country.

Fishbain first reported his loss to the detective bureau on Dec. 19, but it was not until yesterday that the activities of the detectives became public. He reported that he had paid $100,000 to a clique of confidence men on no more complicated a swindle than the ancient device known as the money making machine.

The victim is the owner of two laundries. One of these is at 3122 West Armitage avenue and the other at 4252 West Lake street.

An Interesting Proposition.

On Nov. 19 Fishbain met a friend who, he said, operates a resort in Michigan. The friend told him about two men, former guests at the resort, who had a "most interesting proposition." He took Fishbain to a hotel at 426 Belmont avenue to meet them.

In room 203 the friend introduced Fishbain to two suave gentlemen—a Dr. Morhoff and a Mr. Morgenstein. Mr. Morgenstein, it seemed, was an exile from Germany. Before being ousted, it seemed, the government had confiscated from his uncle $100,000—all in $1,000 United States bills—but Mr. Morgenstein had the serial numbers.

Dr. Morhoff said he was a noted chemist and had devised a plan to regain the lost wealth. He had perfected a machine which would turn $1 bills into $1,000 bills, using the serial numbers taken from the confiscated currency. In this way there would be no possible danger of detection, because the original bills bearing those numbers were still in Germany.

Out Rolls Easy Money.

Dr. Morhoff offered to show just how it was done. He produced a small machine, consisting mainly of two rollers like the wringer on a washing machine. In it the doctor placed two $1 bills and turned the crank. Out came two bright, crisp $1,000 bills.

"There you are," said the scientist. "Just take those to any bank."

The four men went to a nearby bank, where the cashier promptly exchanged one of the $1,000 bills for smaller currency. Much impressed, Fishbain offered to buy the wonderful machine. Dr. Morhoff and Mr. Morgenstein offered to sell it for $100,000.

Fishbain went to his bank vault, took out $100,000, his life savings, and turned the money over to the chemist and his partner. Then he put the machine under his arm and carried it home to start making money.

Something seemed to be wrong. No matter how he varied the dyes and chemicals the $1 bills he put in always came out $1 bills.

In the Rogues' Gallery.

Fishbain went to his friend, the resort owner, who appeared indignant, but advised him to wait a while before going to the police. Fishbain waited a month, then went to the detective bureau. In the rogues' gallery he was shown pictures of famous swindlers.

A picture of Micha Pach, 39 years old, who has bilked the gullible both here and abroad, Fishbain identified as Dr. Morhoff. He recognized a picture of Morris Weisberg, on record as a confederate of Pach, as Mr. Morgenstein.

The police recalled that last July Pach and Weisberg were arrested when an explosion of chemicals occurred in their room in the New Lawrence hotel. At that time a money making machine was found in their possession and confiscated, but they explained it was toy.

Fishbain obtained warants in the Felony court charging the two men with operating a confidence game. Police said they believe the pair are in Europe by this time.

News of the search for them was made public yesterday following the arrest in Brooklyn, N. Y., of Max Renner, 45 years old, who is listed on police records as an associate of Pach and Weisberg.

Fishbain refused to discuss the matter last night.

SKETCHES OF THE NEWS

Thomas L. Parker, short, bald, and 53, vaguely recalled the highpoints of a four year romance with his "Maizie," Miss Marie B. Mazonas, 34 years old, yesterday in the office of her attorney, Emmett F. Byrne. His recital was interrupted by choking sobs from the plaintif, who a month ago presented testimony in support of her claim that he owes her $100,000 for breach of promise.

The testimony for both sides is being taken under the new practice act, which provides that parties to a suit can take statements from each other before the hearing. Parker is treasurer of the Standard Electric Manufacturing company, and resides at 1625 Ridge avenue, Evanston. Miss Mazonas is a bookeeper, living at 6500 South Fairfield avenue.

Affair Starts at Stoplight.

With studied indifference to her stifled sobs, Mr. Parker blandly told of Maizie's aggressive courtship and denied that he had ever returned her ardor. Their friendship, as he referred to it, began when he pulled his car up for a stoplight on Michigan avenue and two girls asked him for a ride north. One of them was Maizie. A month later he halted for another stoplight and there she was again. Maizie was like that, he declared.

Then followed a round of evenings together at night clubs and weekends with friends. When he misplaced her phone number, he counted on her to call him up. And, he says, she did.

"But I never mentioned love or asked her to marry me," he protested. "I never even thought of such a thing. To be sure, I gave her a few presents now and then, little inexpensive gifts at Christmas and her birthday, just tokens of friendship." The tokens were presented to him for identification. He looked at a diamond wristwatch, a jade necklace, diamond earrings, and a fitted case, and dismissed them with a wave of his hand.

Gifts Demanded, Says He.

"Those, now," he pointed out, "they aren't really gifts. She asked me for them, every one."

Parker was asked if any of the presents were his own idea.

"Well," he countered, with a glance at Miss Mazonas, "that bar pin there, and a dinner ring or two. I think that was all. If I forgot to get her what she wanted, I'd hear about it, you bet."

Maizie, he admitted, had also given him gifts. He scarcely remembered just what they were, but it seemed there was an inkwell set that she had forced on him, and which he returned to her. He did not think it proper, he said, to receive such gifts from a lady.

Enter the Demon Rum!

Aside from gifts, Parker [she called him Tom] said Miss Mazonas also forced liquor on him. He is not a drinking man, he averred, but liquor seemed to come in the course of things. He met her brother, Joseph, and her mother. She met his friends, and he met hers. She supplied feminine company for his bachelor acquaintances, whose names he refuses to disclose. She bade him farewell on his frequent train trips and was right there on the platform to welcome him when he returned. But never, he stoutly maintained, never did he mention love.

As to his finances, he denied he had ever mentioned money to Maizie.

Transcripts of the testimony will be presented to Judge Paul McWilliams of Litchfield, in Superior court here when the case is tried. The case is one of the last filed before heart balm suits were outlawed by recent legislation.

N. Y. COURT ADJUDGES EDWIN MARKHAM TO BE MENTALLY UNFIT

A temporary guardian was appointed for the poet Jan. 15 on the petition of his sister-in-law, Miss Mary Murphy. He suffered a stroke while returning from a visit to Mexico last fall.

In an all-day hearing today two Manhattan doctors, Carl Kingsley and Samuel Reback, testified Markham was subject to lapses of memory and at times could not grasp mentally what was going on.

Miss Murphy's petition said he owned property worth $52,000. He was given a special award of $5,000 by the Academy of American Poets in December.

Clipped Wire Balks Trotzky 'Dare' to Reds

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—A scheduled speech by Leon Trotzky, exiled bolshevik leader, by telephone from a Mexico City suburb to an audience in the Hippodrome in this city tonight, was prevented by the cutting of a telephone wire somewhere south of Monterey, Mexico, according to an announcement by Charles Harrison, a member of the American committee for the defense of Trotzky.

LEON TROTZKY.

Trotzky was to have begun his address at 10:10 p. m., and his words were to have reached the big audience here through loud speakers.

Pledges Voluntary Surrender.

In copies of the speech given out in advance of the meeting Trotzky offered to surrender to the soviet executioners if an impartial commission of inquiry should find him guilty "in the slightest degree" of the crimes Moscow courts have imputed to him.

Trotzky reiterated in trenchant phrase his innocence of "absurd" and "frightful" conspiracies attributed to him during the recent trial of Karl Radek, journalist, and sixteen other Russians, thirteen of whom were executed.

Calls Alleged Plot Absurd.

Asserting he could not have been implicated in "such an absurd, inconceivable, senseless alliance" as the one alleged with Japan and Germany for dismemberment of the soviet union because it could yield to revolutionary Marxists nothing but "disgrace and ruin," Trotzky reiterated his demand for a "public and impartial commission of inquiry."

He said he could present "an enormous amount of testimony and documents" that would "demolish at their very foundations the confessions of a whole series of defendants" at the recent Moscow trials.

The executions he declared based "exclusively on forced confessions."

Quin O'Brien's Bride Tends to Her Knitting

Quin O'Brien's blonde bride is knitting tiny garments, she said yesterday. That's why she persuaded him to marry her. It isn't money she wants but a name for her baby.

MR. AND MRS. QUIN O'BRIEN.

It's the old melodrama in a 1937 setting of banquets and official receptions, with suave, urbane Mr. O'Brien winning her heart by the lofty manner in which he welcomed visiting dignitaries as Chicago's representative and assistant corporation counsel, the way Mrs. Marguerite Eustice O'Brien and her relatives tell it.

O'Brien Seeks Annulment.

But Mr. O'Brien seemed to have no such tender sentiments yesterday. He filed suit in the Superior court for annulment of the marriage on the ground that the persuasion was done by four men who carried guns and tied him up with ropes that even an assistant corporation counsel like Mr. O'Brien couldn't bite in two. Young Mrs. O'Brien's attorney, Alfar M. Eberhardt, said that would necessitate her filing suit today or tomorrow for separate maintenance.

If legal considerations forced him to file suit Mr. O'Brien nevertheless paid his bride the most flattering compliment in his répertoire. He said he had never seen her looking so slender, even as he was explaining that there really was no reason for her doing the knitting.

Affirms Love for "Dad."

In her luxurious apartment at 3202 Sheridan road, two floors down from that of her silver haired bridegroom of 66, Mrs. O'Brien called her husband "Dad" affectionately and said that she still loves him, although he did jump out of the car as she was driving him back from the wedding at Morrison, Ill.

"Would you take him back?" she was asked.

"Yes," she answered promptly, but demurely.

"You still love him?"

Mrs. O'Brien smiled. And then she disclosed that family discord can develop even in a marriage of six days. Hers she attributed in part to her husband's son, Brendan, an assistant state's attorney.

Gumming the Works.

"Well, I'll tell you this," she said. "If my stepson Brendan would step out of this, everything would be all right. He has been the dis—the disserting influence in the whole business."

"You mean he has gummed up the works?" the former Senn High school librarian was asked.

"Yes, that's it," Mrs. O'Brien said. "He has stood between Quin and I.

"He doesn't pay a cent of rent. He drives Dad's car and Dad buys the gas.

WRECKED PLANE FOUND; FEAR 11 ABOARD DEAD

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Calif., Feb. 10—(Wednesday).—(AP)—Without apparent signs that any of 11 persons aboard was alive, the United Airlines plane which plunged into south San Francisco bay last night was found early today, 5 hours after the crash. Patrol boat No. 257 reported finding the twin-motored liner, its nose rammed into the bottom of the bay. Eight feet of the plane's tail jutted out but the cabin and pilot's compartment were submerged in 18 feet of water. It was five miles off shore, much farther away than at first believed.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A big United Air Lines plane plunged its 11 occupants into San Francisco bay tonight and the inky waters were searched in vain within an hour for bodies.

The speedy twin motored craft sank a quarter or half mile off the shores of the airport, its destination, after a flight from Los Angeles. An eyewitness said it hit the water with terrifice force.

Coast guard boats from San Francisco and Oakland sped to the scene. Nearly two hours after the ship fell, shortly before 9 o'clock, the wreckage had not been located. Police and coast guards said the eight passengers, pilots and a stewardess undoubtedly were dead.

Air line officials said the plane, piloted by the veteran Tommy Thompson, asked for and received landing instructions by radio at 8:44 p. m.

The ship came in a little too high, the spokesman said, then circled to the east and south to try it again.

Here's List of Passengers.

MARK FONTANA, 2440 Union street, San Francisco.

H. D. FREETLANDER, 2602 East avenue, Los Angeles.

J. F. GILMORE, 3855 Santa Fe street, Los Angeles.

J. GRENNAN, 41 Sutter street, San Francisco.

MISS GERTRUDE GRENNAN, 41 Sutter stree San Francisco.

M. LORGE, 2100 Hauser boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

R. MARGARSON, San Bruno.

R. MEYER, Ridgewood, N. J., representative of a New York manufacturing company.

The three members of the crew were:

JOE DE CESSARO, co-pilot, North Hollywood.

RUTH KIMMEL, stewardess, Oakland, Cal.

A. R. THOMPSON, veteran pilot, Oakland, Cal.

R. E. Neghirbon, an express company employé, who witnessed the crash, said the plane struck with a terrific "wham!" and disappeared.

"She came in from the south," he said, "and then for some reason she circled around east and started back south. The plane had no landing lights turned on.

Sees Ship Drop Into Bay.

"I saw her get lower and lower and says to another fellow, 'She's going to hit.' There was a big 'wham!' where she struck and disappeared.

"We got a boat and went out there, but couldn't find any sight of her."

Airport attendants immediately summoned emergency aid, notifying the coast guard, San Francisco police, and officials of nearby peninsula communities.

Within an hour four coast guard boats, floodlight batteries from the San Francisco and South San Francisco fire departments, ambulances, and coroners' deputies were at the scene.

Sixty Men in Boats Join Search.

More than sixty men put out in small boats kept near Mills field, fifteen miles south of here, for such emergencies. Several planes skimmed low over the water in search of the ill fated airliner.

Passenger planes have been using the Mills field airport for several years without any serious accidents. Although it borders the bay, it is unobstructed for several miles in every direction and is out of the heavy fog belt.

fore it crashed. The weather was clear, but it was very dark at the time of the accident.

Pilot Thompson was a veteran of the skyways. For fourteen years he operated a flying school in Salt Lake City and flew the mails between there and Cheyenne. In 1933 he went to Los Angeles to take over a ship on the Los Angeles and San Francisco run.

Theodore Martin, dispatcher at Mills field, had instructed Thompson to use the north-to-south runway for landing. The plane then was over Belmont, a few miles south of the airport. Thompson a moment later asked if he could use the east-to-west runway, Martin said, and the dispatcher asserted he gave the pilot the usual reminder to see the landing gear was down.

Martin said he was amazed when the big ship crossed the field and headed toward the bay beyond.

OTHER PLANE DISASTERS

During the last year there were a number of other commercial airplane disasters in the United States in which pilots and passengers lost their lives. Twice during the year airliners were wrecked, but almost miraculously those aboard escaped with minor hurts. The list follows:

Jan. 15—Seventeen persons, including a crew of three, were killed when an American Airlines Douglas DC-2 plowed into a swamp near Goodwin, Ark.

April 7—Ten persons were killed or fatally injured when a Transcontinental and Western airliner struck Chestnut ridge in the Alleghanies near Uniontown, Pa. One passenger and the stewardess survived.

May 31—Twelve passengers and a crew of three escaped death when a TWA Douglas DC-2 was dropped into a city lot at 6045 South Kilbourn avenue, Chicago, less than half a mile from the Municipal airport. One engine ha failed and the pilot was attempting to land on his remaining motor.

Aug. 6—Eight persons, six of them passengers, were killed in the crash of a Chicago and Southern Air Lines plane four miles from St. Louis, Mo., airport. Fog was blamed for the accident.

Sept. 5—A sightseeing tri-motored airplane crashed and burned near the Allegheny county airport at Pittsburgh, killing nine persons. An 18 year old girl who was thrown clear was the only survivor.

Dec. 15—A Western Air Express plane carrying seven persons and bound from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City disappeared after encountering snowstorms in the wild and rugged Wasatch mountains 190 miles from its destination. The ship has not yet been found.

Dec. 18—A Northwest Air Lines plane carrying two pilots and a load of mail crashed in northern Idaho after flying for hours through fog and snow. Both men were killed.

Dec. 23—Six employés of the Braniff Airways were killed when the airliner they were test flying crashed and burned half a mile from Love field, the Dallas, Tex., airport. One of the motors failed and the ship apparently stalled when the pilot was forced to circle the airport on the remaining engine.

Dec. 27.—Nine passengers and a crew of three killed in a United Air Lines plane crash near Newhall, Cal.

Major air disasters already have marred the 1937 record.

Jan. 12—Five persons died from injuries suffered in the crash of a Western Air Express skyliner when it plunged into the foothills north of Los Angeles while feeling its way through thick weather. Among the victims was Martin Johnson, famed big game hunter. Mrs. Johnson was among the injured.

Jan. 15—The Mexican Aviation company announced that an airliner missing three days had been found in a dense jungle near Playa San Vicente, Vera Cruz, with all its nine occupants apparently dead. The plane had burned. Soldiers still are cutting through the jungle in an effort to reach the wreckage.

BOMBING PLANE DODGES CROWD, CRACKS A WING

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—An army bomber, one of a squadron of nine returning from a flight to the Canal Zone, was damaged today when the pilot swung it from the municipal field runway to avoid striking parked automobiles and spectators.

The pilot, Lieut. Eugene P. Mussett, and others in the bomber, Lieut. Clifford H. Rees, Corporal Seidl, and Private Holmes, were uninjured when the big plane ground-looped, smashing landing gear and one wing. The accident was the only one on the round trip flight to the Canal Zone.

HOPE FOR AUTO PEACE HELD OUT BY GOV. MURPHY

'Not Far Apart,' He Says; Reconvene Today.

BULLETIN.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—The twelfth session of Gov. Murphy's strike conferences recessed at midnight to reconvene at 10 o'clock in the morning.

"It is not quite the same situation," the governor said. "There is not a great deal separating them now." He indicated that both sides are making concessions.

BULLETIN.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 9.—(Special.)—Special police, armed with shotguns, were called out here tonight by Mayor Harold E. Bradshaw, who yesterday was given command of all city forces. The police, whose mobilization was a surprise, were placed on guard duty at the city water works and the dams over the Flint river.

"We've heard no threats to wreck the water works," said Mayor Bradshaw, "but after all a city's water is vital and we thought it would be a good idea if the works were properly guarded."

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Frank Murphy's auto strike conference tonight was reported studying a "new formula" which it was hoped might lead to peace in the far-flung struggle.

The exact terms of the new plan, said to have been fathered by Murphy, were guarded, but reports from sources heretofore authoritative were that it is based on the terms under which the recent glass strikes were settled.

That some new plan was before the conferees seemed certain. General Motors last night issued a statement indicating that it was through with conferences that got nowhere, and its mere attendance at tonight's session was considered evidence that Gov. Murphy had something new to propose.

Put Up to Antagonists.

What that plan is was laid by James F. Dewey, federal conciliator, before John L. Lewis this morning. Lewis is chairman of the committee for industrial organization, with which the striking United Automobile Workers are affiliated, and heads the strikers' delegation at the Murphy conferences. After leaving Lewis, Dewey went to the offices of General Motors and discussed his new proposal with the corporation's executives. General Motors' conferees then met later in the day, agreed to enter the new session tonight, and made their plans for action there.

It appeared probable that the kernel of the new proposal was contained in General Motors' defiant statement of last night. In that declaration it was pointed out that the Federation of Flat Glass Workers, also a C. I. O. affiliate, had settled the recent strikes brought against Libbey-Owens-Ford and the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company "on the basis of recognition for their members only, as offered by General Motors corporation."

Recognition the Problem.

With this for a starting point, Gov. Murphy labored long and patiently today over the language in which to draw a formula which would settle the problem of union recognition, a big stumbling block in the negotiations from the beginning.

First the governor is said to have been advised by the union that the Libbey-Owens-Ford contract was made under circumstances differing materially from those surrounding the present strike. According to the union, the glass contract, so far as its actual wording goes, permits the company, if it wishes, to deal with any group other than the union. This is subject, however, to the written pledge that it will not discriminate, interfere with, restrain, or coerce any employé because of his union membership.

The union, in effect, indicated to the governor that from General Motors it would have to exact some form of clarification or possibly a guarantee that for a stated period, at least, the corporation would follow the practice of the glass companies and deal with no other groups in collective bargaining.

Works on "Clarification."

Such "clarification" is now the problem of Gov. Murphy. This is said to be the "formula," which, if accepted by both sides, would insure early and peaceful settlement of the dispute on collective bargaining. Once this phase of the conference was concluded, the union would order the strikers back to work pending the outcome of further parleys.

Another proposal of General Motors which was discussed widely today was the offer to submit the question of representation by way of a secret ballot conducted by Gov. Murphy. This was rejected by the union, which asked whether it would mean that if a majority of votes were cast for the union General Motors then would recognize the union as the bargaining agency for all employés. Hitherto the corporation has offered to recognize the union for its membership and to deal separately with other groups.

Demands a Guarantee.

"We are not willing to have the vote because we have no guarantee from General Motors that it would be a fair election," said Lewis on this point. The corporation's view is that an impartial ballot under the governor's auspices would assure this.

"Our position is substantially this," said Mr. Lewis. "These plants are shut down and operations are suspended. General Motors and the governor in these negotiations are recognizing the United Automobile Workers as the bargaining agency to start this industry going again. We are the only agency in this conference. There is none other qualified to negotiate.

"If we are the bargaining agency to start these plants in operation we must be the bargaining agency after an agreement is reached. That is very simple, very concise, and perfectly understandable."

"The corporation offered to submit to a vote the question of union membership in the plants without binding itself to abide by the result of the election as far as collective bargaining is concerned," Lewis declared.

Question of Sole Agency.

"The issue is not the question of union membership, but the right of the United Automobile Workers to become the sole collective bargaining agency for the employés in twenty General Motors plants. If we were sure that the union men would be protected we could take the union lists into the conference room and settle the point of union membership right there without an election."

The corporation's statement declared that it could not "agree to deliver its workers into such bondage."

43,000 ON RELIEF

Flint, Mich., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Nine thousand families were on relief in Flint tonight and officials predicted the load in this strike-torn city might reach an all-time peak of 12,000 soon. The previous peak was in December of 1933.

Miss Ella L. Cowgill, field representative of the relief administration, said the best estimate she could make would place the number out of work at 43,000, which she said was 12,000 more than at the peak of the depression in the county. She said a very high percentage of these are out of work because of the General Motors strike.

Same Number as Jobless.

Counting 4.3 persons to a family, she estimated that the relief agencies are supporting some 38,700 persons, about the same number as those known to be idle because of the strike.

The cost of relief at the present is about $10,000 a day to care for the 9,000 families. Miss Cowgill said her division is prepared to handle 15,000 cases if necessary.

An emergency relief appropriation by the state legislature "saved us from financial embarrassment," she added. Union headquarters reported that the United Automobile Workers had been assisting its members until they can get on the relief rolls.

National Guard officers today admitted that they have completed plans for the rule of Flint should martial law be declared by Gov. Frank Murphy. Such action has been expected hourly, but it was believed that as long as the "peace" conferences in Detroit continued military rule would not be necessary.

Predicts Big Steel Strike.

A steel strike "that will shake the foundations of the capitalistic system of this country" will follow the settlement of the auto strike, Ray Edmundson of Springfield, Ill., president of the Illinois Mine Workers, declared tonight in a speech at U. A. W. A. headquarters. The steel strike will come about April 1, Edmundson said, and it may be accompanied by strikes among the United Mine Workers who now are prepared to demand raises in pay and a six hour day.

"We know your fight here is our fight also," Edmundson said. "Your strike is the vanguard of a steel strike, and when I say strike I mean a strike which will shake the foundations of the heartless, ignorant, capitalistic structure of the country."

There was a roar of applause from the 500 strikers and their families—nearly half the hall was filled with militant strikers' wives—who heard Edmundson.

Edmundson stopped here on the way to Washington to confer with other mine worker leaders upon plans for the forthcoming anthracite negotiations, scheduled for about April 15. He was greeted as a "brother" by the automobile workers.

His first words were a bitter attack upon William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Green's name was greeted by loud boos.

Before ending his speech Edmundson also informed the assembled strikers that they need not fear the court injunction ordering them to leave the General Motors plants.

"Before this next term of congress is over the labor injunction from which the miners and other labor unionists have suffered for so many years will be outlawed," he declared.

Ouster Still Pocketed.

For the fifth day the injunction order of Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola and the attachment he subsequently issued for the arrest of all sitdown strikers and pickets outside Fisher Body plants No. 1 and 2 remain unexecuted. The sitdowners at both these plants and Chevrolet No. 4 remained quiet and there were few pickets or sympathizers outside these factory buildings.

Sherif Tom Wolcott, whose duty it is to execute Judge Gadola's ouster orders, said he had received no word from Gov. Murphy and reiterated his intention of making no move to eject the strikers until he has the governor's support and aid of the troops.

Evanston Woman Robbed of $4,000 Coat in Boston

Mrs. Adele M. Roloson, 1114 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston, reported to police of Boston, Mass., that a $4,000 mink coat was stolen last night from her room in a Boston hotel, according to a dispatch. The thief also took some neckties she had purchased for her son, Robert Marshall Roloson Jr., a student at Harvard, but did not touch another valuable coat and a toilet set she valued at $7,500. Mrs. Roloson's husband, an investment broker, died in 1935, leaving an estate estimated at $1,500,000.

FLOCK ABSOLVES PETTING PARSON, BUT JAIL WAITS

Two hundred members of the Christian Assembly church of Zion held a prayer meeting and "vindication service" last night for their pastor, the Rev. Finis Jennings Dake, who earlier in the day was sentenced to six months in jail for his "one mistake," a violation of the Mann act. Dake took part in the service, having been granted a brief respite before going to jail.

Before Federal Judge F. A. Geiger of Milwaukee Pastor Dake threw himself on the mercy of the court, pleading guilty of the charge that he took a 16 year old girl from Kenosha, Wis., to East St. Louis, Ill., registering with her at several hotels as "Mr. and Mrs. Anderson."

Accuser and Wife Present.

His accuser, Emma Barelli, former Kenosha high school girl, and his wife, the mother of his daughter, 8 years old, were in court as Dake stood shamefaced and silent before the judge. Assistant United States Attorney E. J. Koelzer told of Dake's meeting with the girl last April 26 and how he subsequently had petting parties with her in hotel rooms in Waukegan, Bloomington, and East St. Louis.

The pastor's attorney, Eugene Sullivan, told the court that Dake had made "an unfortunate mistake," but insisted that no improper relations took place during the trip.

"There is no actual moral offense involved here," said Attorney Sullivan. "The girl is unharmed. He desisted upon her request."

Behind Bars Next Monday.

Dake's sentence, to be served in the Milwaukee house of correction, will start on Monday, a stay of execution until then having been allowed by the judge.

Loyal members of Pastor Dake's congregation crowded the courtroom. After sentence was passed they crowded around their shepherd to promise their unswerving devotion.

These pledges were renewed, with many "amens" and "hallelujahs" at the prayer meeting last night, at which Dake and his wife, an ordained minister, were the principal speakers.

Watch Yourself, Devil.

"I have learned a lesson," cried the contrite pastor. "I have had a little sense knocked into my head. I am disgusted with the devil. If the devil had a tail and I could get hold of it, I'd grab it and wrap it around a tree."

The 6 foot pastor, who is 33 years old, bowed his blond head and shed tears as he asked his congregation:

"Do you still love me?"

There was a unanimous shout: "Everybody loves you!"

After numerous prayers and hymns Pastor Dake got down to more practical matters.

A Better Man—but Broke.

"I am now a better man," he declared, "better morally and better spiritually—better in every way except financially. That suit of clothes and overcoat you gave me three years ago are getting ragged.

"In jail I understand they supply you with clothes, but if they don't you'll have to send me some."

Pastor Dake said he intended to pass most of his time in jail in writing a book—a commentary on the bible. After his release, he said, he would write another book on his experiences in a cell.

"Meanwhile Sister Dake will carry on here in Zion—won't you?" said the preacher, turning to his wife.

Sister Dake Cheers Up.

Plump Mrs. Dake affirmed that she would, and added:

"I am gladder tonight than I ever have been. It is marvelous what the Lord can do for you."

An elderly member of the congregation arose.

"Sister Dake," he said, "the Lord has made you look ten years younger tonight."

Later all nonmembers of the congregation were asked to depart and Dake read a formal statement asserting that it had been proved in court that he had no illicit relations with the Barelli girl.

MRS. SIMPSON DUE TO OUTRANK HER ROYAL SISTERS-IN-LAW

Mrs. Wallis Simpson (left) will become a royal highness upon her marriage to the duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII, of England. As the duchess of Windsor she will take precedence over future sisters-in-law, the duchess of Kent (1), the former Princess Marina of Greece and the wife of the youngest brother of King George VI., and the duchess of Gloucester (2), whose husband is virtually the assistant of the monarch and serves as regent in case of his brother's illness or absence. The duchess of Gloucester is the former Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott. Mrs. Simpson also will outrank the duchess of Norfolk (3), bride of the premier duke of England and the former Lavinia Strutt, daughter of Lord Belper; duchess of Marlborough (4), who is the former Alexandra Mary Cadogan, daughter of the late Viscount Chelsea and Lady Meux, and the duchess of Wellington (5), formerly Lilian Maude Glen-Coats, daughter of the first baron of Glentanar.

KING HOLDS FIRST LEVEE OF REIGN AMID PAGEANTRY

Attends Christening of Youngest Niece.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—England's royal family appeared at two spectacles today. One was public. The other was private.

JOACHIM VON RIBBENTROP [Giving Nazi salute]

This morning King George VI. held the first levee of his reign with customary pomp and pageantry. This afternoon the duke and duchess of Kent, brother and sister-in-law of the king, who were dancing in the Savoy hotel until 2:30 o'clock this morning, had their infant daughter christened in a private chapel in Buckingham palace.

Escorted by a troop of life guards, King George, who wore the scarlet tunic of colonel in chief of the Grenadier guards, drove in the gold state carriage from Buckingham palace to St. James's palace for the levee. With him was the duke of Beaufort, master of the horse.

Cheer Royal Cavalcade.

Hundreds of spectators lined the route and cheered the royal cavalcade. On the arrival of the king at St. James's palace a guard of honor which was drawn up in the courtyard presented arms and the national anthem was played as the king stepped from his carriage.

Accompanied by gentlemen of the household, King George walked up a scarlet carpeted staircase on which stood yeomen of the guard in quaint Tudor robes and red stockings. The king advanced to the white and gold throneroom and took his seat on the dais. Behind him stood his brothers, the duke of Gloucester in a hussar's uniform and the duke of Kent in the blue and gold of the royal navy.

Gives Nazi Salute Again.

Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany created a sensation again by sticking out his arm in a Nazi salute which flustered the king. This was the second time the ambassador introduced the Nazi greeting into a British court ceremony, although diplomatic circles state that it has been intimated to him privately that the salutes are unwelcome. Last week Von Ribbentrop astonished the diplomatic corps and the monarch by clicking his heels and giving a Nazi salute when the foreign diplomats presented their credentials to the king in Buckingham palace. He was roundly criticized in the British press.

At the levee the ambassador employed a modified form of the salute, contenting himself with the bent elbow version which he normally adopts for greeting German comrades.

Nevertheless, it was a marked breach of the usual procedure at a levee. The correct formula is to pass along one side of the throne room, turn to the right and bow to the king. Von Ribbentrop first gave the Nazi salute, then bowed and passed on.

Thirteen Americans Presented.

Thirteen Americans were presented to King George at the levee. They were headed by Ray Atherton, charge d'affaires of the American embassy. He acted for Ambassador Robert Worth Bingham, who is in the United States.

After the levee King George, accompanied this time by Queen Elizabeth, went to the private chapel in Buckingham palace for the christening of his niece, who was born on Christmas day. The little princess, who received the names Alexandra Helen Elizabeth Olga Christabel, was christened with water from the Jordan river.

EX-KING AND SISTER EXCHANGE CALLS WITH AUSTRIAN PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 9. — Edward, the duke of Windsor, and his sister, the princess royal, countess of Harewood, and her husband, the earl of Harewood, today exchanged courtesy calls with President Wilhelm Miklas of Austria.

Driving to Vienna from Enzenfeld castle just before noon, the royal party called at the federal chancellery in the Ballhausplatz to pay their respects to the president and then moved on to the Hotel Bristol for lunch.

After lunch Edward showed his visiting relatives the army museum and the art history museum. The party then went to the British legation for tea. It was there that they received President Miklas on a return call.

THE GRAND TITLE OF 'HER HIGHNESS' AWAITS WALLY

Rank as Ex-Ruler's Wife Is Fixed.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson will not sit on the throne of England—a possibility which loomed a few months ago—but she will become a royal highness if and when she marries the duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII. She also will take precedence over her future sisters-in-law, the duchesses of Kent and Gloucester, it has been decided.

Much discussion has been going on about Mrs. Simpson's title and dignity after her marriage to the self-exiled monarch. The position, as now stated, is that as the duke of Windsor was born his royal highness Prince Edward he always will remain so, such a right not being affected by his abdication.

Wally to Become Duchess.

Mrs. Simpson, by the right of marriage, therefore will become her royal highness the duchess of Windsor. She will assume the title conferred on her future husband in December.

As a royal duchess Mrs. Simpson will have the privilege of signing her Christian name without any suffix. She will receive the salutation of "ma'am" as well as a curtsey from those who come before her. She also will be privileged to wear a purple gown on state occasions.

There is said to be a movement afoot in court circles to modify the precedence of Mrs. Simpson in the case of the duchess of Gloucester, whose husband, under the new regency bill, is virtually assistant to King George VI., and becomes regent in case of the illness or absence of his brother. Some persons want to bestow on him the order next in male precedence to the sovereign.

Otherwise, as an elder brother of the sovereign, the duke of Windsor would normally come next to the king and his wife would rate a place just after Princess Elizabeth, 11 years old, who is heir to the throne.

Worries of this kind, of course, will not be disturbing for some years, because it is not likely that either the duke or his spouse will set foot on the soil of England until Edward's abdication becomes completely consigned to history.

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Declaring that there was "no reasonable probability of success" in the separation suit brought against Ed Wynn, comedian, by Mrs. Hilda Keenan Wynn, Supreme Court Justice Samuel I. Rosenman denied today Mrs. Wynn's motion for temporary alimony and counsel fees pending trial of the suit in which she had sought alimony of $3,500 a week and counsel fees of $25,000.

SHOUTS WALLY'S NAME ON RADIO; APOLOGY MADE

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The British Broadcasting corporation tonight broadcast an apology after the words "Mrs. Simpson" were interjected in a program.

During a song on a program entitled "Masculine Fame on Parade," listeners were startled to hear a masculine voice shout "Mrs. Simpson." The male chorus was singing "and we all have sex appeal" when the incident occurred.

As the program ended, an announcer said: "We apologize to all of our listeners for the unfortunate lapse from taste which occurred earlier in the program."

The London Daily Mirror said it located John Rorke, radio artist, who said he had let slip the words "Mrs. Simpson." He was quoted as saying: "I'm terribly distressed about it. Candidly, I can offer no explantion, but I did not make the remark with any thought of disrespect for Mrs. Simpson. Whatever made me mention her name I cannot think."

Congress Will Get Bills Piecemeal.

tached from the message the text of the bill the President sent to the capitol, wrote his name on it, and dropped it in the hopper.

"So far as Texas is concerned," said Maverick, "I want it understood I don't consider myself bound by the senate of Texas even if their action is approved by Maine. Maybe if the senate of Texas will get down to attending to their own business and will take the responsibility of passing a good utilities law for that state and take the crushing burden of taxation off the backs of the people of Texas they would be a lot better off.

"Permit me to warn the people of Texas and the United States: Don't let a lot of corporation lawyers lead you around by the nose. It is the same outfit fighting the President that he licked in November. They couldn't lick him with the people, so they are going to try to lick him with the Supreme court."

Liberal Support Melts.

Support of the President by the liberal bloc of senators continued to melt. Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], one of the most radical of the New Dealers, joined the liberal senators, William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], and George W. Norris [Ind., Neb.] in parting company with Mr. Roosevelt on the scheme to pack the court.

At his press conference this afternoon Mr. Roosevelt evinced a disposition to talk volubly on every subject except the one everybody is talking about. In response to a question he said he was considering a radio "fireside chat" to rally the country to his support.

Divided Bill Likely.

The bill approved today by the house committee hinted at a desire on the part of Democratic leaders to whittle down the President's bill by passing those sections which have not aroused popular disapproval, leaving the Supreme court suggestions to be fought out alone.

The bill provides that the attorney general of the United States may intervene in any suit in the federal courts in which the constitutionality of an act is involved in order that he may defend the constitutionality of such act. An amendment was added which will permit the attorney general to appeal directly to the Supreme court in case of an adverse decision as to the constitutionality of a law.

"This bill attempts to disturb as little as possible the procedure in a court as it affects the ordinary litigant," said Sumners. "The attorney general argues only on the constitutional questions and not on any other facts in the case. It is designed to answer the President's plea for speedier decision of constitutional questions."

Vote Nearly Unanimous.

The vote of the committe on this bill was "nearly unanimous," Sumners said, only two members out of twenty-two being against it.

Under the terms of the retirement bill, which is pending in the house with a favorable report from the judiciary committee, a Supreme court justice would be enabled to retire voluntarily at 70 upon completion of ten years of service and would receive the remainder of his life his full pay of $20,000.

The occasion for this legislation is the failure of existing law to provide for the retirement of Supreme court justices as it does for the retirement of the judges of the inferior courts. At present a Supreme court justice may retire after reaching the age of 70 and completing ten years' service, but to do so he must resign from the court, whereupon his pay ceases. He would receive no pension unless congress should pass a special act granting him one, the amount of which also would be fixed in the act.

Provisions of Pending Bill.

The pending bill provides:

"That justices of the Supreme court are hereby granted the same rights and privileges with regard to retiring, instead of resigning, granted to judges other than justices of the Supreme court by section 260 of the judicial code, and the President shall be authorized to appoint a successor to any such justice of the Supreme court so retiring from regular active service on the bench, but such justice of the Supreme court so retired may nevertheless be called upon by the chief justice and be by him authorized to perform such judicial duties, in any judicial circuit, including those of a circuit justice in such circuit, as such retired justice may be willing to undertake."

There was a division of sentiment among the committee members concerning whether an amendment might properly be offered to the bill including Mr. Roosevelt's proposal that if Supreme court justices do not retire at 70 an additional judge for each judge over 70 may be apointed by the President.

Will Invite General Discussion.

Bringing up of the bills will undoubtedly, they said, invite a general discussion of the President's message. Under house rules only two hours of debate would be permissible, however, unless a special rule were provided.

Several members of the committee declared they had been informed that two Supreme court justices would retire if this bill were passed and they could obtain full pay which would not be affected by the income tax or be subject to a cut by congress. Such a retirement might clear up the present situation, according to the hope of these members, and make it unnecessary to pass President Roosevelt's "pack the court" law, which is obviously unpopular with a majority of the committee.

Chairman Sumners and other Democratic members, however, refrained from any comment, indicating a belief that they could not express opinions on the Supreme court proposals with propriety.

"We are acting here in the nature of a jury," said Representative Arthur D. Healy [D., Mass.], "and it would be wholly unfitting for us to prejudge this matter without lengthy hearings and a deliberate discussion."

Republicans Plan Fight.

"There is a sinister danger in any administration, regardless of party, in tampering with the Supreme court," said Representative U. S. Guyer [Rep., Kas.], ranking minority leader.

"There is an irresistible suggestion of an attempt to control decisions of the court by packing it with those whose opinions coincide with the administration. Moreover, at the age of 70, a man's intellectual powers, reinforced by long study and experience, are at their highest tide."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate, is in favor of changing the retirement age for Supreme court justices to 75. He himself is nearly 65 and 70 appears to him to be entirely too early for a man to be shelved. He has long been reputed to be the President's choice for the first vacancy in the court as at present constituted.

Surprised at Interpretation.

Senator Robinson said he had been surprised to note the general misunderstanding of the effect of the President's proposals on the number of members of the court.

"It is true," he said, "that if the law were in force now and no justice of the court who is eligible under it for retirement should avail himself of his privilege, there could be fifteen justices under the plan. This number, however, is not a fixed number. Should all the justices eligible for retirement take advantage of the privilege the number would not be increased and would remain at nine.

"There is no plan or proposal to increase membership of the court except as to the new judges who may be appointed in cases where any eligible judge fails to retire.

"The only appointment that can be made under the plan is for an additional judge in case any judge fails to retire. Any increase above nine in the membership of the court can exist only so long as there are judges eligible to retirement.

"When judges retire the number is reduced by the number retiring. The purpose is always to keep nine members on the court who are under the retirement age."

Maj. George L. Berry, the President's industrial coördinator, asserted in his capacity as president of labor's nonpartisan league that labor has been relying on Mr. Roosevelt all along to wipe out the obstacle in the Supreme court to New Deal legislation.

"In submitting to congress his program for reform of the federal judiciary," he said, "President Roosevelt has taken a step essential to the fulfillment of the most important of the pledges made during his campaign for reëlection. The Madison Square Garden speech, on the eve of the election, left no doubt that the President proposed, if reëlected, to go forward with his comprehensive plan for improvement of the wages and the working and living conditions of American labor.

"The people of this country knew then, as they know now, that the pathway to every kind of social progress is barred by the hopelessly unsympathetic attitude of certain federal judges left far behind in the march of events of the past decade."

Townsend Pleads

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Dr. Francis E. Townsend (right), old age pension advocate, with his attorney, Joseph Cantrel.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend pleaded innocent today in federal court to a charge of contempt of the house. Trial was set for Feb. 23.

The charge was placed against the old age pension organization head because he walked out of a house hearing on pensions last year and refused to return and resume his testimony.

His arraignment today took only a few minutes. He stepped to the bar of the court, entered his not guilty plea, and departed after arranging for continuance of his $1,000 bond.

Townsend was in a gay mood. As he left the courtroom he told reporters:

"Well, I may have to transfer my work to a cell, but I don't know but what that would be an improvement, because I certainly would have fewer interruptions."

Two of Townsend's former aids, Clinton B. Wunder and John Kiefer, were let off yesterday with suspended sentences after they pleadded guilty to contempt of the house.

A growing, prospering business creates new jobs, new services, and new public benefits

—AND NEITHER CAN A MAN

• Everybody likes to tell his friends the very latest news. And who doesn't enjoy hearing the last word—whether it be about the fastest streamliner, the smartest Paris hat, the shortest-wave radio, the newest recipe! It's fun to be the first with the latest and we all hurry to spread the news. This is a fine human trait because "gossip" isn't always destructive. It can be unselfish support—hard to earn, impossible to buy, yet invaluable in progress.

• That is why people are talking approvingly of their Jewel Food Stores.

• This is important. And it didn't "just happen." We asked Chicagoland housewives what they wanted, and then we made Jewel Food Stores in that pattern. Model stores for pleasant, easier shopping. As a result we continually receive letters from customers who want to tell us of this feature or that which they particularly like.

• One letter described Jewel people as "mothering" their stores with an unusual spirit toward their responsibilities, and the writer added that only by visiting a Jewel Store could one fully appreciate this fine attitude. Women frequently tell us that they are made welcome and to feel at home by the friendly, helpful folks at Jewel.

• Many, many letters say how much people enjoy shopping in these clean white stores. But order, cleanliness, and arrangement aren't all it takes to make shopping pleasant. There had to be expert selection—wide variety—every day bargain pricing—constant vigilance to protect the rights of those who pay. And because Jewel Stores do these jobs well our customers are constantly praising the convenience and ease of self-service; the guaranteed-quality foods; and the real economy of shopping regularly at Jewel.

• These unsolicited letters evidence—far more than anything we can say—the genuine relief with which Chicagoland has approved the efforts of Jewel to provide a more complete and economical service for all the people. They explain why more and more shoppers are daily turning to Jewel—and then telling their friends of their latest discovery.

• Stop in at your Jewel store today and learn this inside story for yourself.

DAVIS ATTACKS WAGNER ACT IN SUPREME COURT

Argues Labor Law Appeal of Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate for President in 1924, challenged the constitutionality of the Wagner labor relations act on five separate grounds today when the Supreme court began hearing arguments in the case of the Associated Press against the national labor relations board.

JOHN W. DAVIS.

The stately new courtroom was packed and the corridors outside were filled with listeners when the white-haired, distinguished appearing New York lawyer presented his argument in the most important New Deal case to come before the court at this term. Senator Robert F. Wagner, author of the act and one of the foremost champions of the New Deal, was among the spectators.

Justices Listen Closely.

The nine justices listened to Mr. Davis' argument with attention, seeming to hang on his words, and did not interrupt him with questions as he assailed the act in its entirety, on the grounds that:

1. It is not a valid exercise of the commerce powers of congress because it seeks to regulate all employers of labor, making no distinction between interstate and intrastate commerce.

2. The act invades the powers reserved to the states by the 10th amendment to the constitution.

3. It violates the 5th amendment because its terms are arbitrary, unreasonable, and capricious.

4. It denies the right of trial by jury in violation of the 7th amendment.

5. In its application to the Associated Press it violates the 1st amendment which guarantees freedom of speech and of the press.

"The act represents a clear and studied purpose on the part of congress to bring all the industries in this country under the supervision of the National Labor Relations board," Mr. Davis declared. "An employer may not discharge an employé because he is a member of a labor union but he may make a contract with a labor organization by which he discriminates against those who are not members. In other words, its purpose is to make the closed shop universal."

History of Press Case.

The Associated Press case grew out of the discharge, on Oct. 18, 1935, of one Morris Watson, an editorial employé of the association's New York office. Kent Cooper, general manager, authorized Watson's discharge "solely on grounds of his work not being on a basis for which he has shown capability."

The National Labor Relations board, however, made a finding that Watson's employer was "disingenuous" about his work and that his discharge was, in fact, provoked by his activities in connection with the American Newspaper guild. The board ordered Watson's reinstatement.

"In what possible connotation of the term can this be called a regulation of interstate commerce between states?" asked Mr. Davis. "From what hidden source can the federal government derive power to compel a private employer to retain an employe in his local office whose services he no longer desires?

"Compulsion Its Sinew."

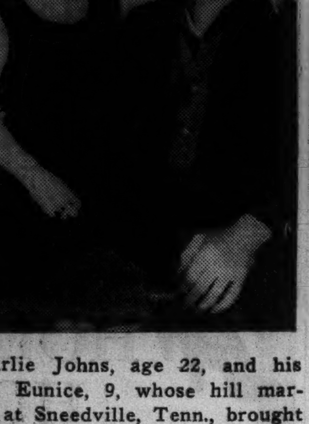
Mr. Davis contended that the "universality of this act, the attempt to force by compulsion collective bargaining on all employers, is its very bone and sinew." For this reason, he argued, the act is inseparable and must fall in its entirety, and he quoted Justice Cardozo's opinion in this connection in the NRA case: "Wages and hours of labor are essential features of the plan, its very bone and sinew . . . a code [or statute] collapses utterly with its bone and sinew gone."

In this connection, Mr. Davis assailed the Wagner act as an improper exercise of the commerce powers of congress, on which it is admittedly based. He next attacked the application of the act to the Associated Press as an infringement of the first amendment to the constitution.

"The national labor relations act, as applied in this case, destroys the independence of the press in this country," he declared. "Can freedom and independence of the press be maintained if a federal bureau may dictate to the American newspapers the persons they employ to prepare their news reports?"

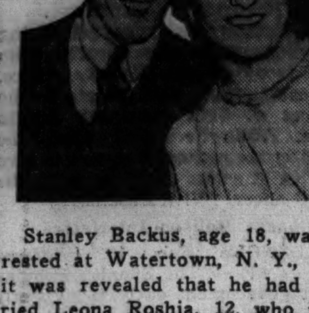
The Associated Press case will be concluded tomorrow, with Solicitor General Reed representing the labor relations board. Four other cases involving the validity of the Wagner act are to be heard during the week.

Child Marriages Outlawed in Illinois



Charlie Johns, age 22, and his bride, Eunice, 9, whose hill marriage at Sneedville, Tenn., brought to the attention of public officials of many states the laxity of their own laws. This then is the No. 1 argument for legal reforms.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]



Stanley Backus, age 18, was arrested at Watertown, N. Y., when it was revealed that he had married Leona Roshia, 12, who is an expectant mother. He was charged with second degree rape after confessing intimacies with her prior to their marriage.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

California came forward with its child marriage problem when it was discovered that William Rudd and his wife (above) had been married when he was 22 and she just 13. They live at Vallejo. Illinois officials revealed that such marriages are illegal in this state.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Another child marriage came to light yesterday when this couple, Orville Bohannon, age 22, and his wife, who is 11, commented on the Sneedville case. The Bohannons live at Gatlinburg, Tenn., thus adding to that state's irritation at the unwelcome publicity.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

CHILD MARRIAGES DIFFICULT UNDER LAW OF ILLINOIS

More Baby Brides Pop Up in Day's News.

Child marriages are illegal in Illinois and there is little chance of one being contracted illegally, according to Sidney Summerfield, chief of Cook county's marriage license bureau. Summerfield revealed that "it can't happen here" as two more child brides came to public notice in the day's news.

Sneedville, Tenn., first brought the marriage minors into the limelight. Since the marriage there of Eunice Winstead, 9 years old, to Charlie Johns, 22, popular attention has been attracted to Stanley Backus, 19 years old, and his youthful wife, Leona Elizabeth Roshia, 12, of Watertown, N. Y. She is an expectant mother. Stanley is charged with second degree rape because of a confession of intimacies prior to their marriage.

More of the Same Sort.

Another child bride popped up in Tennessee yesterday. She is Mrs. Mazie Bohannon, 11 years old, of Gatlinburg. Her husband, Orville, is 22. And California contributed another. She is Mrs. Florence Hill Rudd, who was married last Sept. 14—three days after her 13th birthday. She expects to become a mother in April. William, her husband, is 22.

Mrs. Rudd and Mrs. Bohannon disagree in their opinions of Eunice's marriage to Johns. "If she likes him well enough, I think it's all right," said Mazie. "Why, she's just a baby," declared Mrs. Rudd. "That little girl won't know anything about marriage for years and years."

Jail for Falsification.

Under the Illinois law no girl less than 16 years of age nor a boy under 18 may marry. A girl between the ages of 16 and 18 years and a boy between 18 and 21 can obtain a marriage license only if accompanied by a parent or guardian, who must make an affidavit of consent, stating the age of the minor.

The county clerk can require submission of such proof of age as he deems necessary and can put witnesses under oath. Punishment by a fine between $100 and $1,000, or by imprisonment up to one year, or by both is provided in Illinois for false affidavits. If Illinois minors wed in another state, the marriage is null and void in Illinois.

Tells Britain Need for "Exploration."

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Walter Runciman, president of the British board of trade, broke the news to the house of commons today that the British proposals he took to Washington, D. C., had not been accepted, and that there is little outlook at the present time for any reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

In announcing that he had returned from Washington without much gain, Runciman explained to J. Henderson Stewart, Liberal member of parliament, that "further explorations" to seek a basis for a treaty were proceeding.

"Firm Basis" Necessary.

Runciman spoke of the necessity of having "a firm basis" before any detailed negotiations for a trade treaty would be successful.

This "firm basis" is presumed here to refer to the British insistence that American neutrality laws must not be such that they would shut off sales to Great Britain should the latter became involved in war. In other words, the British want any trade pact which is signed now to be embargo proof. It was indicated that the British are waiting for further clarification on what will be President Roosevelt's discretionary powers when the new American neutrality bill goes into effect.

"During my visit to Washington," Runciman told the house, "I had many opportunities to exchange views with the President and with Cordell Hull [United States secretary of state] on a variety of subjects of interest to the two countries.

Denies He "Negotiated."

"At no time was it intended that I should conduct negotiations on any subject.

"Regarding trade matters, I had several useful conversations which showed that further explorations would be necessary before it can be determined whether there is a firm basis upon which detailed negotiations can be carried out with a view to a reciprocal agreement.

"I am glad to take the opportunity to express gratitude to the President and the members of the United States government for their friendly reception. I hope our conversations will facilitate economic relations between the United States and ourselves."

As Runciman sat down, W. J. Thorne, Laborite, asked:

"Did anyone over there whisper anything to you about war debts?"

INJURY IN OIL BLAST HOLDS UP QUIZ INTO VANISHED 'FORTUNE'

Lieut, Frank Gill of the Rogers Park police said yesterday he would question John Coleman, 50 years old, about the reported disappearance of a box containing valuable papers and "thousands of dollars" from the blast wrecked home of Coleman's brother-in-law, William Herbert.

Herbert told of the missing box at an inquest yesterday morning into the death of his wife, Lillian, 62 years old, who was killed last Monday when a fuel oil explosion wrecked the Herbert home at 1427 Juneway terrace. Coleman, a brother of Mrs. Herbert, was severely burned in trying to enter the basement where his sister was trapped.

Lieut. Gill awaited permission of authorities at St. Francis hospital to question Coleman. The money had been cached in the wrecked basement and Lieut. Gill said Coleman might know whether there had been any change in the hiding place.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death as the result of the explosion of an oil fuel tank. After the inquest Herbert, a wholesale lumber dealer, vainly searched the wreckage for the box.

Ambulance Chasing by ChicagoansStudied in Elgin

The Elgin bar association yesterday started an inquiry into reported activities of Chicago ambulance chasers in the Elgin district. Paul G. Funk, president of the association, named Attorney Elmer C. Tobin chairman of a committee to investigate information supplied by Assistant State's Attorney W. Ben Morgan of Kane county that Elgin accident victims have been approached in hospitals by "investigators" for Chicago lawyers, and asked to sign contracts on a contingent fee basis.

'LIFE LINE' TO MADRID BROKEN, FASCISTS CLAIM

Cut Through Vital Highway to Valencia.

WITH FASCISTS, OUTSIDE MADRID, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's Fascist troops proclaimed tonight they had severed Madrid's last important highway communication line, the Valencia road, in a bloody conflict with government forces today.

Storming government trenches in rain and snow around the highway about 10 miles southeast of Madrid, foreign legionnaires and Moors—who repeatedly have been the main power in rebel attacks—drove the government troops in retreat and killed at least 800, Fascist officers said.

The assault was the climax to a four day push to break Madrid's strongest link with the present government headquarters at Valencia, on the Mediterranean coast.

Menace to Food Supply.

Along that highway supplies had poured into the beleaguered city, while civilian refugees had streamed out toward safer government territory.

Neutral observers predicted the cutting of the Valencia highway and the capture of Malaga might mean Madrid would not hold out much longer. The food shortage, already being felt in the capital, probably will become more acute if the Fascists hold control of the road, these observers believed.

With the capture of Malaga releasing thousands of insurgent troops for fighting on the all-important Madrid front, complete encirclement of Madrid appeared a possibility soon. Already the city is surrounded on three sides.

Claim Trafic Still Moving.

MADRID, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Madrid's defense leaders asserted tonight their militiamen had withstood a furious Fascist attack along the Madrid-Valencia highway. Guards asserted trafic still was getting through from the coast.

Defense officials said Fascist artillerymen laid down barrages in apparent preparation for new thrusts in the direction of Vallecas, just outside Madrid on the Valencia highway.

Newspapers and official statements warned the populace Madrid was in for hard times. These notices were printed beside official assurances the city's defenses can not be broken.

The civil governor, in a decree, ordered retailers to sell food to the public as long as they have stocks, without showing preference to any class of customers.

Extend Southern Drive.

MALAGA, Spain, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Fascist insurgent troops moved out of Malaga tonight toward a new front against the government—the Motril-Sierra Nevada line, where Gen. Francisco Franco's general staf rushed plans for battle.

With capture of this important southern seaport, the Fascist front now extends from Malaga 50 miles east along the Mediterranean to Motril, north about ten miles to Velez-Benaudalla on the Motril highway, and thence off the highway northeast across the Sierra Nevada mountains and cutting off the Granada-Gaudix highway, 17 miles east of Granada.

Gen. Arnaldi, commander of one of the columns which led the march into Malaga yesterday, was named military governor and took over his task. Police squads worked to clear débris from the burned and dynamite shattered center of the city. Anarchists had set the fires and blasts before the Fascists got into the city.

Soldiers who participated in the capture of Malaga spent the night and day celebrating. For the most part the joyous cry was "Malaga today; Madrid tomorrow."

Make Over Naval Base.

Determined to press their advantage with the uplift of Fascist morale following the capture of Malaga, rebel commanders said the seaport would be made an important naval base from which to threaten the whole eastern seaboard of government held Spain.

Anti-aircraft batteries were set up today at the city's edge to guard against surprise bombardment; Fascist warships patroled the harbor, and rebel planes took over the field and hangars abandoned by the government.

Thousands of the defenders who surrendered were sent behind the lines. A few remaining anarchists, hiding atop buildings, provided the only remaining opposition—an occasional rifle shot.

The newly installed Fascist administration also began transportation of refugees back to their homes in the provincial towns.

Franco Seeks to Prevent Split.

SALAMANCA, Spain, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco seized the occasion of the capture of Malaga today to attempt to spike any tendency toward friction between two groups of his insurgent supporters—the Fascists [Phalanxists] and the Carlist Requetes [Monarchists].

The dictator designate, addressing a tumultuous victory celebration from the balcony of the bishop's palace, his headquarters, paid tribute to the services of both insurgent militia forces. Then he called upon the crowd in the cathedral square to give the Fascist salute while shouting the Carlist cheer, "Viva Espana."

Charge Italians Interferred.

VALENCIA, Feb. 10 [Wednesday]. — (AP) — The Spanish Popular Front government early today flatly charged the Italian navy with playing an important rôle in the fall of Malaga.

A note issued following upon a special cabinet session last night accused Italian warships of "maneuvering in such a way as to deceive loyalist vessels hurrying aid to the city, causing the latter to use up fuel and preventing them from reaching their objective."

PARIS PAPER BLAMES ITALO-GERMAN HELP FOR MALAGA CAPTURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 10 [Wednesday].—The daily newspaper L'Oeuvre, one of the chief organs of Premier Leon Blum's coalition government, asserted today over the signature of its political correspondent, Genevieve Tabouis, that Italians played the principal part in the capture of Malaga.

"There is no doubt that the capture of Malaga was decided during German Air Minister Col. Gen. Goering's visit to Rome and that the Italian troops were designated to play a big rôle aided by German artillery," the article said.

"In any case, the Italians are proceeding actively in getting settled at Malaga. An Italian army colonel has taken command of the city."

[The German press yesterday was jubilant over the fall of Malaga, praising the Fascist rebels and mocking the defeated loyalists. The victory was hailed as a triumph for Nazi ideology in which every German must rejoice.]

THE NEXT PUZZLE WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

6,000 VICTIMS OF MALAGA SIEGE, WITNESS CLAIMS

Carts Roll Through Streets Packed with Dead.

BY H. H. WALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 9.—A British eyewitness, who arrived today from Malaga, told THE TRIBUNE that more than 6,000 casualties were sustained by the Spanish government forces when the rebels captured Malaga. The rebels' loss was estimated at more than 100, with many more wounded.

The rebels, he said, are now busy removing corpses from the streets, chiefly the Calle del Marques de Larlos, Malaga's Broadway, along which the worst fires and destruction occurred.

Motor lorries packed with dead were seen dashing for the outskirts of town where the bodies were to be buried.

Cathedral Looted.

The cathedral of Malaga, churches, a convent, chapels, asylums, offices of a bull ring, and the principal warehouse were looted and destroyed.

When the conquering rebels entered the outskirts of the city thousands of crying, panic-stricken women holding babies in their arms and waving long white aprons and sheets dashed to meet the rebel troops. They knelt on the ground cheering. The rebels freely distributed food among them.

The attack on and capture of Malaga was made jointly from three sectors: from Marbella, from Antequera, and from Colmenar. All the sectors were under command of Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano who, from aboard the cruiser Canarias, conducted the joint operations. The cruisers Baleares and Almirante Cervera, the gunboat Canovas del Castillo, and six armed trawlers attacked the coast line continuously between Torremolinos and Malaga during the attack on the city.

Their prompt arrival in Malaga harbor prevented the slaughter of more than 800 rebel prisoners held in the holds of the Spanish steamer, the Sister, which was used by Malaga communists as a floating jail.

Arsonists Driven Off.

A picket boat from the Canarias came close to the Sister at the time that government guards were about to set fire to the ship. All the guards were shot dead with machine guns and their bodies were seen falling overboard. All the prisoners were liberated promptly. All showed marked signs of strain of their captivity and many collapsed for joy.

Nearly 1,000 civil guards and shock police surrendered en bloc to the rebel infantry. Special guards, consisting of foreign legionnaires, Phalanxists [Fascists], Moors, and Carlists [monarchists] now are stationed at strategical posts in the streets and public squares. It is believed here the rebels have killed many of the prisoners they took.

It is understood that more than 2,000 cases of influenza, smallpox, and other diseases exist in Malaga, no doctors having been available. All doctors from La Linea, Algeciras, and Cadiz were sent to Malaga to attend the sick.

Several motor lorries of foodstuffs dashed to Malaga from Algeciras, as the population is in a semi-starving condition.

Fled with Money.

Rebel staf officers are now convinced that the loyalist leaders and the heads of the various syndicates fled from Malaga aboard a Spanish steamer the day before Malaga's capture, taking more than 60,000,000 pesetas in silver and bank notes, and also much booty.

[At pre-civil war quotations for the peseta this would total about $8,280,000.]

Malaga streets were completely dark tonight, all the lamps having been smashed by retreating government forces. The British destroyer Basilisk sailed for Malaga this afternoon from Gibraltar carrying a British consul to reopen the consulate.

The news of Malaga's capture caused consternation among people of the poorer classes in La Linea and Algeciras, as thousands of their relatives who went to Malaga from Gibraltar a few months ago aboard British warships now are believed to have been killed.

ARABS TO OPPOSE FINDINGS ON HOLY LAND DISORDERS

Prepare to Send Mission to London.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Palestine Arabs announced plans tonight to send their own delegation to London to contest findings of the British royal commission which investigated Jewish-Arab disorders here.

Arab leaders asserted they expected the commission to favor the Jews in its report on last year's general strike and resultant rioting in protest against Jewish immigration.

The Arab higher committee, which sponsored the six month strike, announced a conference would be held soon to name the London delegation.

Urge Pro-Arab Findings.

This group, Arab leaders said, would urge quick application of any pro-Arab findings of the royal commission, which recently closed three months of hearings and returned to England without announcing its findings.

Members of the Arab group charged that pro-Arab findings of previous commissions were ignored by the British government, which holds a league of nations mandate over Palestine and which has promised to help establish a Jewish national home in the country.

With Arabs generally expressing dissatisfaction with the royal commission's investigation, scattered disorders continued throughout Palestine causing fears of a new outbreak. Arabs attacked Jews near Samaria and 30 shots were exchanged, while a shot from a band of Arabs wounded a Jew near Hadera.

Our Country, Arabs Argue.

The Arab case reduced itself to one principal point, as stated by Auni Bey Abdul Hadi, a member of the higher committee:

"This is our country, and the Jews are trying to take it away from us."

DR. CHAIM WEIZMANN.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, head of the Zionist organization, and other Jewish spokesmen denied the charge. They held that Palestine, from both religious and historical standpoints, was the home of the Jews, but declared they wanted only to settle Jews here in accordance with the "economic absorptive capacity" of the country.

The Jews presented testimony that their settlement in Palestine had improved the country's economic situation, health conditions and standard of living. Arabs as well as Jews, they said, profited. The Arabs retorted that their benefits from Jewish immigration were at best very slight and that they were more than offset by higher living costs.

A British colonel who took part in the suppression of the Arab uprising last year summarized the situation thus:

"There can be no solution satisfactory to both the Jews and the Arabs, yet a settlement of some kind is essential to maintenance of British prestige in this part of the world. An imposed settlement, satisfactory to neither side but vigorously enforced by the British government, may be the only answer."

The Arabs demand immediate abolition of the Jewish national home project and complete self-government for Palestine.

Beat Jewish Students in Riot.

VILNA, Poland, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Twenty Jewish students were injured today in a new outbreak of anti-Semitic rioting at the University of Vilna. The university only recently was reopened on condition non-Jewish students would cease their attacks. Trouble developed when non-Jewish students tried to bar others from a building on the campus.

Authorities were seeking the person who threw a bomb into the home of Rabbi Rubenstein, who had protested the anti-Semitic violence.

FRANCE MAY GIVE UP RUSSIAN PACT IF NAZIS FULFILL CONDITIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 9.—France is willing to give up its mutual defense treaty with Russia in return for certain German assurances, according to a report by a French news agency tonight which seemed to be inspired. The report was characterized by some observers as perhaps a "trial balloon."

If Germany returns to the league of nations, undertakes "resolutely and sincerely" a collective security and disarmament arrangement, accepts equality of duties as well as rights with all large and small powers, then France is prepared to allow the Russian treaty to lapse, according to the report..

The article expressed fear that Great Britain may be wobbling once more away from the French and toward the German point of view. It said Great Britain cannot afford to be drawn into concessions to Germany, even in principle.

SHOT AFTER QUARREL.

Ruplo Panien, 38 years old, 1307 Peoria street, was shot in the right arm by William Sanderson, colored, 1301 South Halsted street, during a quarrel near Panien's home early yesterday. Sanderson was held.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

WILDERNESS

By CALEB

THE boy was tall and strong. His thumb jerked in even tempo in the most approved hitch-hike technique. For a red light, a car stopped near him.

"Going downtown?" he asked.

"Sure. Come on." He threw away a cigarette and climbed in.

He told of his errand. He was after permission to go to a high school out of his district.

Why?

He wanted a change of crowd and scenery.

Why?

He had flunked in algebra and Latin.

Why?

Why?

Because the gang had a swell time.

How?

Oh, running around.

Doing what?

Where did the money come from?

Oh, here and there. Some one in the gang could always raise a little. Sometimes a little odd job. Frequently borrowing. Sometimes — sometimes — and he stopped, as though he had already said too much.

Why was he seeking the change?

His mother. Every time she told him not to do something—and he did it, he got into trouble. If he disgraced her, it would be the end of home for him. He guessed she was right. Maybe a new school—new faces—no old friends—and he'd get his home work done.

For thirty minutes the talk went on. There were no drags on frankness. Neither knew the other's identity or address.

But the man knew here was a boy in a wilderness. The only influence pulling him back—putting brakes on his bravado—was home and mother.

Youth is in a wilderness today perhaps no generation past has known.

While we nurse and urge the mammoth machinery of civilization ahead, we should be sure our youngsters are taught to keep clear of the cogs.

The children of Israel faced the comparatively inocuous wilderness of Paran. Our children face a wilderness of modern gadgets, of speed-producing mechanisms, of thrill-inducing indulgences, and of secret-concealing city streets and idle hours.

We believe the department store business contributes to the better side of the picture—for it serves the home, through which youth is served and often saved its wandering in the wilderness.

'BOMBED' OUT OF $7,050, CAFE MAN TELLS N. Y. JURY

Stench Missiles Force Him to Pay Off.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Edward Levine, New York restaurant owner and lessee of city property for night club use, told a jury in the café racket trial today that he paid $7,050 to an alleged extortion gang after he had been the victim of two stench bombs and a picket line.

The defendants in the racket case were linked in Levine's story of how he was forced to pay in order to stay in business. He was the forty-third witness called by Prosector William B. Herlands to piece together the operations of what the state contends was a 2 million dollar a year racket.

Levine, a slender, bald headed man who nervously fingered his tie and collar during his five hour ordeal on the stand, operates restaurants and concessions on city and park property. At one time he leased "The Tavern on the Green," an old sheep barn in Central park converted into a night club, and also has the food concession at Jones beach, a public park.

Union Starts Trouble.

His troubles began when a waiters' union, said to be dominated by the Arthur ["Dutch Schultz"] Flegenheimer gang, attempted to unionize his Brass Rail café in the bright light sector.

According to Levine's testimony, Paul N. Coulcher, secretary of the union and a defendant in the racket case, demanded that he turn his waiters over to his organization. Levine refused.

A stench bomb was thrown through the door into his restaurant several days later. Another week went by and a second bomb was exploded inside Levine's establishment. A picket line marched back and forth in front of the Brass Rail.

Levine testified he went to Louis Brooks, vice president of Jack Dempsey's restaurant and also a victim of the racket in the amount of $5,700, for advice. He was advised to pay $1,000 to the law firm of Goldsmith & Felix. Levine said he paid the money to Frederick E. Goldsmith of the firm, a former municipal judge.

Pickets Disappear.

Levine subsequently was steered to Louis Beitcher, collector for the Dutch Schulz gang, and after preliminary negotiations, handed over $5,000. Beitcher obtained the $1,000 check from the lawyers and turned it back to Levine.

The picket line evaporated, there were no more stench bombs, and Levine went ahead with his business, he told the jury. Levine also joined the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria association a year later, in 1934. This was the organization formed by the Schulz gangsters to carry out their shakedown schemes. Levine paid $250 initiation fee and $5 weekly dues.

A similar experience was described by Harry Horowitz, a cafeteria proprietor, who followed Levine on the stand. Horowitz paid Beitcher $5,000 and upon his advice joined the Metropolitan association.

Woman, Who Killed Slayer of Son in Court, Insane

Jackson, Ky., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Viola Wickline, 41 years old, who avenged the slaying of her son with a burst of gunfire in the Breathitt County courtroom that killed the accused slayer and wounded two spectators, one fatally, has been committed to the State Hospital for the Insane at Lexington.

CHOICE OF NATION'S 16 BEST DRESSED MEN STARTS AN ARGUMENT

Chicago designers declare that this wax figure's measurements are ideal for the best display of men's clothes, no bulges, no paunch, no sagging shoulders.

Fred Astaire (left), slim dancing man, has the figure, and Angier Biddle Duke (right) of New York has the money to dress well. Both are among the chosen 16.

Peter Arno (left), nationally known artist, is better known for his informal clothes than for formal wear. Henry Cabot Lodge (right), newly elected senator from Massachusetts, combines the two names necessary for fame in Boston, "where the Cabots speak only to the Lodges and the Lodges speak only to God." So it's not difficult to understand why they're also picked.

Chicago designers were approached yesterday for an authoritative answer to the three schools of thought on what constitutes a well dressed man: [A] those who think clothes alone make the man, [B] those who think good dress is possible only for those in the higher income brackets, and [C] those who think excellence in dress depends on a man's figure.

In explanation the experts pointed out a model dummy used to display clothes, and gave its measurements to show that such a figure provides the correct outlines of a man's figure. They showed how the clothes of the dummy hung trimly, with no bulges, and with the curve of the waist line fitting neatly. No man with a paunch can be well dressed, they said, nor can any man whose shoulders sag or whose chest is flat. Such a dummy is 5 feet 10½ inches tall, has a waist line of about 32 inches, hips around 34 inches, and usually wears size 38 clothes.

Any man, the experts said, who fits near these measurements, no matter what his income or the number of his suits, can don an average suit and appear well dressed.

ROOSEVELT IS PICKED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Merchant Tailors' Designers association, meeting here today, devoted itself to the stirring problem of naming the sixteen best dressed men in the United States. Heading the list was President Roosevelt, who was described as "the only President in the last twenty years who could intelligently be termed a well dressed man and the only one in years whose formal clothes have not looked moth eaten."

This citation was notable in its omission from consideration of the late President Warren G. Harding, famed for his fine figure and attention to clothes.

Two Chicagoans were named in the list of fashion plates. They are Charles F. Glore, La Salle street broker, and Joseph B. Platt, head style executive for Marshall Field & Co. Others selected were Fred Astaire, dancer; Frank Chapman Jr., singer and husband of Gladys Swarthout; Edwin Goodman, New York merchant; Lucius Beebe, newspaper columnist; William Paley, radio executive; Enzo Fiermonte, boxer; Peter Arno, cartoonist; Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts; Senator Millard E. THAWS PIPES, FIRES BUILDING.

Fire resulting from a houseman's effort to thaw frozen water pipes with a blow torch yesterday forced fifteen occupants of a rooming house at 305 South Ashland avenue to flee down a rear stairway. Damage was estimated at $600.

MAYOR JANURA RENOMINATED IN BERWYN'S VOTE

Mayor Anton Janura was renominated in the Berwyn Democratic primary yesterday, triumphing 5,133 to 2,972 over City Treasurer Matthew A. Berg, who sought the mayoral nomination at the head of an opposite slate. Janura's candidates won all the nominations with the exception of one aldermanic place.

There were 8,105 Democratic ballots and 1,610 Republican.

In Cicero 9,371 Democratic votes were cast and 1,387 Republican. The only Republican contest was the "write in" campaign which nominated John Jaros for village trustee over John J. Kendzora, whose name was on the ballot. Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky was renominated over Edwin V. Turek and Joseph Danek was nominated trustee over StanleyA. Kosobucki in the only two contests among the Democrats.

MRS. BUSBY WINS ESTATE SUIT IN APPEALS COURT

Decision Blames Bank as 'Negligent, Reckless.'

The Illinois Appellate court, in an unanimous opinion yesterday, upheld Mrs. Esther A. Busby in her suit against the First National Bank and Trust company to recover the losses suffered by the estate of her husband, Leonard A. Busby, traction magnate, during the depth of the depression. Mr. Busby died Sept. 9, 1930.

Terming the bank and its former president, the late Melvin A. Taylor, "grossly negligent, imprudent, and positively reckless," the court ordered the institution removed as executor. In addition the court held Mrs. Busby is entitled to collect "certain losses" from the executor.

Fix Recovery at $400,000

This recovery will amount to more than $400,000, unless the finding is upset by an appeal to the Supreme court, according to an estimate of Attorney Edward R. Johnston and Anan Raymond, counsel for Mrs. Busby. The actual amount is to be determined by an accounting ordered by the court.

As a professional fiduciary, according to the opinion, the bank failed in its first duty to Mrs. Busby and her two minor children, Janet and John. Instead of liquidating the estate as soon as possible in view of the declining market, the bank, at the direction of Mr. Traylor continued to "speculate" until the estate showed a loss, the opinion declared.

Trial of Mrs. Busby's suit, first in the Probate and then the Circuit court, was followed with close attention throughout the country by trust companies and banks who sent observers here.

First Important Case of Kind.

It was regarded as the first case of importance in which the performance of a trust officer during the depth of the depression was challenged. Mrs. Busby's counsel contended the failure of the bank to sell assets of the estate soon after Mr. Busby's death constituted a breach of trust. In defense the bank pleaded that it acted on the best judgment available, that of Mr. Traylor, "one of the outstanding business men and financiers of the nation."

During trial of the suit, Mr. Traylor testified that he assumed the entire responsibility for the bank's action. Despite the advice of his associates, who urged immediate sale, Mr. Traylor declared he held the securities believing the market would rise. The bank president died Feb. 14, 1934, while the appeal was pending.

Swift Losses Are Shown.

At Mr. Busby's death, the estate had a net worth of $650,000. The debts totaled $946,000. Eventually the securities declined in value wiping out all equity and leaving a debt of $256,000 early in 1932. At its last accounting on Sept. 4, 1936, the bank reported the net market value had risen to $65,357.

In the first trial Probate Judge John F. O'Connell ruled for the bank. This was on Nov. 27, 1933. It then was taken to the Circuit court on appeal and Judge George Fred Rush upheld Judge O'Connell, ruling on June 5, 1934, that the bank was not negligent.

The opinion of the Appellate court yesterda was written by Presiding Justice John J. Sullivan, with Judges Hugo M. Friend and Kickham Scanlan concurring.

Mrs. Busby is living in New York with her son, Jack, who is a student at Princeton university. They were in court yesterday when the opinion was read. Mrs. Busby's daughter, Janet, now Mrs. Philip Walsh of Philadelphia, also was in court.

Put Liability on Bank.

"We are impelled to hold," read the opinion, "that however altrustic the motives and virtues of the executor may have been, or however much they were intended to subserve the best interests of the state, the bank cannot avoid liability for its imprudent conduct in the management of the estate."

On Sept. 25, 1930, about two weeks after her husband's death, Mrs. Busby approved immediate sale of all securities held by the estate. If this had been done she would have realized a net of $617,709. As late as March 31, 1931, a $277,000 equity could have been saved.

Instead, the bank on Sept. 29, 1930, sold $140,000 worth of securities, then made a loan of $520,000 to itself to pay the outstanding balance on brokerage accounts using all unpledged assets and whatever cash was available.

"Sacrificed" in Speculation.

"Thus the only unencumbered assets of the deceased, both cash and securities," commented the court, "which would in themselves have comprised a not inconsiderable estate, were sacrificed by Mr. Traylor's urge to carry on the speculation.

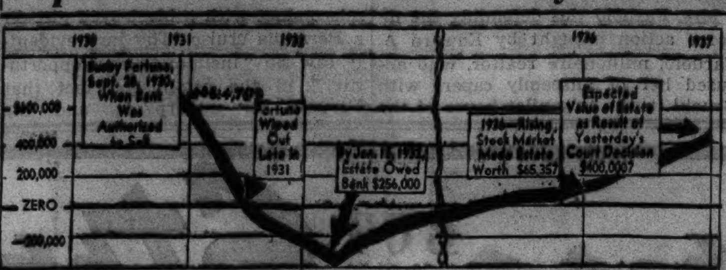
"Mr. Traylor knew that the assets of the deceased's husband's estate were all that stood between Mrs. Busby and her children and comparative privation. Yet he was willing to stake their all on a rise in the market. In our opinion his conduct in so doing was not only imprudent and negligent but positively reckless.

A Widow's Property.

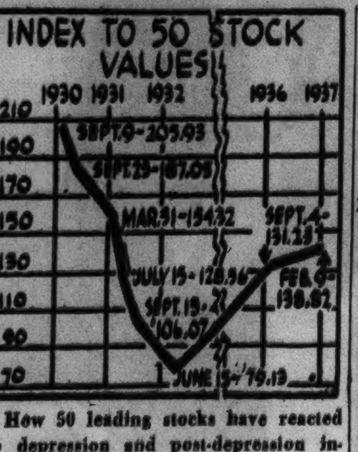
"He was dealing with the property of a widow and minor children, and it was hardly a matter of judgment as to whether or not he ought to take a chance on sacrificing the sole resources intended to provide for their future welfare and livelihood.

"It is not a strained assumption that as a prudent, discreet person, Mr. Traylor would not have risked his own all on his 'guess' that there would be a rise in the stock market as he did that of the executor's almost impoverished wards."

Ups and Downs of the Busby Estate



Ups and downs of the $650,000 estate of Leonard A. Busby, during the depression, are charted graphically here. When the widow authorized the First National bank to liquidate the estate on Sept. 25, 1930, it was worth $617,709. But the estate was not liquidated and near the end of 1931 was wiped out. Early in 1932 the securities had so declined in value that Leonard's widow was in debt $256,000. Then the upturn began and on Sept. 4, 1936, the estate's market value was estimated at $65,357. Yesterday's decision by Illinois Appellate court—unless upset by appeal—will force bank to restore about $400,000 to Mrs. Busby.



How 50 leading stocks have reacted to depression and post-depression influences. Swift decline starts early in 1930 and continues to June 15, 1932, when falling market touches bottom, then starts slowly upward. This is the period in which the Busby fortune was wiped out, then driven into the red before starting slowly upward.

LOMBARD POLICE LET ACTION LAG IN BOY'S MURDER

Prosecutor Arrives to Take Charge Today.

Informed of the resentment in the community at the failure of the police to make any semblance of progress in the search for the killer, Keeney was hurrying home from Florida to take personal charge.

While parents kept their children indoors in fear that the killer might strike again, and the Lombard Woman's club and former service men clamored for action, the police department had no suspect in custody. Not a single signed statement has been taken in the investigation, according to one of the officers.

Witness Gets No Audience.

Chief Richard Groote had another call from George D. Williams, the real estate man who found the 5 year old victim's body in the snow last Friday. But the chief wasn't in to see him.

Williams complained that he had tried in vain to give information that he regarded as of utmost importance in the case to the police. But the police, he said, did not seem interested.

Chief Groote hurried in and out of the station during the day. To inquiries as to where he was going when he left, he replied on most occasions:

"For a cup of coffee."

Chief Is Busy—Talking.

Sometimes he explained, when asked the progress of the investigation:

"There's plenty in the air."

The rest of the time, his reply was:

"There's lots of strings to be pulled."

While the police and their chief wondered if the state's attorney could help them out of their apathy toward a crime that has shocked the entire country, persons of an inquiring turn of mind had no difficulty picking up information that had apparently escaped the police.

The police, for instance, have professed themselves unable to gain any information about the boy said to have told the little victim's foster mother, Mrs. Grace Loomis, of seeing her son taken away in a car by a man. But a few minutes of private inquiry developed the fact that at least two citizens had been within the block of the Loomis home at 140 West Grove street, Lombard, about the time the child vanished, and that they had valuable information as to who else was in the block.

Almost every resident of Lombard, indeed, seemed to have some bit of information that might help in the solution of the mystery, but few found any officials who wished it.

Sorrow engulfed the Loomis home. Mrs. Loomis and her husband, George Crane Loomis, had given all the aid they could to the authorities, but they had no assurance that the killer would ever be punished for taking the life of the little boy they had reared from babyhood and adopted last year.

BANDITS ROB MIAMI VISITORS OF $20,000 IN GEMS; FLEE IN AUTO

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 [Wednesday]. —(AP)— Two masked bandits stripped jewelry she valued at $20,000 from Mrs. Royal Mattison early today after forcing the car of her husband, retired Philadelphia asbestos contractor, to a halt on a city street.

The Mattisons and Miss Mary Stein, also of Philadelphia, were returning to their winter home from an entertainment.

Coming alongside, the men forced the Mattison car to the curb and ordered the occupants into the street. They took a fur neckpiece and the jewelry from Mrs. Mattison, $100 from her husband, and told Miss Stein "we know you haven't anything." The bandits then returned to their car and drove away.

Mrs. Mattison said her jewelry consisted of two diamond bracelets, a diamond ring, a wedding ring, and wrist watch. Mattison told police the jewels were insured.

QUIN O'BRIEN'S BRIDE TENDS TO HER KNITTING

[Friends said that Brendan is somewhere near Mrs. O'Brien's age of 29 years.]

Goes Back to Derby Day.

"Do you think Mr. O'Brien still loves you?" Mrs. O'Brien was asked.

She recalled a marriage that she said was performed last May 2, Kentucky Derby day, in Louisville, Ky., when she answered:

"Well, I think he'd be foolish to go with me two and a half years and go through two marriages with me if he doesn't."

"Do you feel that deep down in his heart he does?"

"I hope so," breathed Mrs. O'Brien.

Yesterday was a busy day for her. There were conferences about her suit, in which Mr. Eberhårdt said he will charge that she is expecting to become a mother in August. It will charge Mr. O'Brien with desertion, the attorney said. He introduced Dr. J. P. Greenhill, who verified statements as to Mrs. O'Brien's condition.

Aunt Has Solution.

Uncle Saffer's wife, Mrs. William Saffer, shook her head at it all.

"I can't see what my niece sees in Quin," she said. "Of course, he was just infatuated with her.

"I suppose he swept her off her feet when he took her to all those public receptions.

"The only way I can explain it is that they're both educated."

Mrs. Saffer, who's Aunt Sadiè to the household, said that if Mr. O'Brien said he was forced to marry her niece and then tied up with ropes he couldn't gnaw through, he was not only exaggerating; he was just a plain prevaricator. No one asked how big the ropes, if any, were.

Mistake About a Valentine.

While Mr. O'Brien's suit was being filed by his attorney, Robert E. Cantwell, Mr. O'Brien was telling his side of the romance:

He sent her dog a valentine once, he explained, and the former Miss Eustice thought he meant he was in love with HER.

"They haven't a thing in black and white," said Mr. O'Brien, who based his suit in part on his story that he was so shrewd he answered all the questions in the negative during the wedding ceremony. "I never wrote her any letters."

"Did you call her Snuggles?" some one asked.

A Thousand Times No!

"No—never," said Mr. O'Brien, quoting automatically from his answers as to whether or not he took the bride for better or for worse and if he would stay with her until death them did part. "That was her dog. I sent him a valentine, as I said."

"What kind of a dog is Snuggles?"

"He's a little white one," Mr. O'Brien answered.

"There never was any romance," he went on. "I used to go riding in her car once in a while with her and her mother and my son. But I never gave her any reason to think I loved her. Why, the night she lured me away from my home and married me, I hadn't even seen her for weeks.

"She picks on an old granddad like me—makes a sucker out of me."

While Mr. O'Brien remembered enough of his legal training in his emergency to give the wrong answers at his wedding, he admitted he hadn't remembered to bring back any of the rope with which he says he was tied to the bed. To skeptics, however, he exhibited the tooth he said he broke while trying to chew through the rope, in the hope that it would give them a general idea how big the rope was.

"It's the most brutal thing ever perpetrated in America," he said.

And he told how furious the whole thing made him: Why, he stamped his foot as he was putting the reverse English on his marriage vows!

Mr. O'Brien disappeared a week ago last night. On Friday, he reappeared with a story of having been kidnaped. Summoned to the state's attorney's office to help catch the kidnapers, he confessed that he'd really been out getting married, but said he went at the urgent request of four gentlemen.

Snatched on a Corner.

They snatched him, as those speaking of kidnapings would describe it, at Larrabee street and North avenue, where the bride-to-be had dirven him on the pretext that she needed an escort on an errand. Then they took him to Morrison, Whiteside county seat. There they threatened him with death unless he married the young woman, and were so impressed when he defied them to do their worst that they decided he'd be a good husband and married him to her anyway, with the assistance of B. E. Brubaker, Morrison justice of the peace, in the presence of Uncle Saffer.

From Morrison, they drove the bride and the bridegroom to Elizabeth, in Jo Daviess county. There he received the blessing of his father-in-law, Dr. William Eustice. It was at the home of Dr. Eustice, a dentist, that Mr. O'Brien said the ropes were used, to tie him to a bed. Eventually, he was released and his bride drove him back to Chicago.

WIFE ASKS MARRIAGE DAMAGES

WILLARD L. CURTIS.

MRS. AGNES CURTIS.
[TRIBUNE Photos.]

An unusual divorce suit went to trial yesterday before City Judge Walter O'Malley of Aurora, sitting in the Superior court. In the suit, Mrs. Agnes Curtis, 8149 Drexel avenue, and her husband, Willard L., 43 years old, are each accusing the other of desertion.

In her bill Mrs. Curtis, who is 25 years old, not only asks a divorce but a $2,000 judgment for salary lost when she gave up a $175 a month secretarial position to marry Curtis on May 7, 1934. In addition she asks $5,000 damages for trouble, worry, and injury to her name and reputation because of her marriage. These unusual counts are made possible by the new civil practice act.

Mrs. Curtis asserts her husband has property worth $200,000. Before their marriage she charged Curtis claimed to have a one-third share in the $180,000 estate of his father, the late William A. Curtis, vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co. Later Mrs. Curtis learned that the estate was left to the elder Curtis' widow.

JURY FINDS PILOT HOUSE 'TOO TINY' FOR MISCONDUCT

White Plains, N. Y., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Twelve sedate married men today solemnly announced they did not believe Anton Bruehl, society photographer, and pretty blonde Mrs. Dorothy Walsh Faruolo had the "inclination and opportunity" to commit adultery.

Mrs. Faruolo was defending the divorce action brought by Edward A. Faruolo, millionaire realtor, who accused her of unseemly capers with Bruehl in the tiny pilot house of the latter's yacht. She protested that the pilot house was too small for such goings-on.

Faruolo likewise was exonerated of misconduct with a black-eyed girl on a Bermuda cruise. The jury evidently saw no "inclination and opportunity" in the established fact that Faruolo, in underpants, and the beauty, in step-ins, were in the same stateroom.

The jury arrived at its verdict after court bailiffs had been forced to intervene to prevent violence in their deliberations.

Faruolo's only witness, Maltbie A. [Moby Dick] Beauville, who peeped into the pilot house and told, stroked his mustache as the verdict was read.

TRIAL OF WOMEN FOR AID TO MORON SET FOR MARCH 9

Both Plead Not Guilty of Impeding Justice.

Two women pleaded not guilty yesterday when they were arraigned before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the trial of a sex moron. The women's case was assigned to Judge Peter H. Schwaba, who set the trial for March 9.

The women are Mrs. Josephine Lawrence, 5700 Magnolia avenue, former superintendent of the old Cook county social service bureau, and Mrs. Margaret Germann, 2842 Burling street, investigator for an attorney.

They are charged with having attempted to persuade the parents of two small girls not to press charges against John C. Prairie, 58 years old, 5729 South Rockwell street. Prairie was convicted of taking indecent liberties with the two girls and is under sentence of one to twenty years in prison.

Mrs. Lawrence has threatened to "expose all after this thing is finished." When asked for her plea, she responded in ringing tones, "Absolutely not guilty." Mrs. Germann quietly said, "Not guilty."

Another Held on Girl's Charge.

Louis Carow, 50 years old, 2709 North Merrimac avenue, is the man arrested latest in the present drive to curb sex crimes. He was seized in his home on a charge of indecencies toward a girl, 12 years old, on Monday, at 36th street and Ashland avenue. Carow admitted giving the girl 10 cents, but denied that he intended any wrong.

Two others arrested in the campaign were fined $200 each by Judge Stephen Adamowski in the Domestic Relations court. One is Antonia Roha, 31 years old, 1108 South Halsted street, who was charged with disorderly conduct by Miss Rose Goldberg, 23 years old, 3306 Grenshaw street. She testified that on Jan. 6 Roha entered the drug store at 571 West Madison street where she clerks, locked the door, and choked her, but was frightened away by her screams.

Fined for Incident in Store.

The other is Anton Ruksha, 42 years old, 6217 South Kedvale avenue, accused by several women of behaving indecently on Monday at Arthington street and Spaulding avenue. A motion to vacate the fine was continued until Aug. 9.

Paul Feltman, 27 years old, 800 Sheridan road, Wilmette, was fined $1 by Judge Adamowski on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested on Saturday after complaints that he was acting indecently in a south side department store.

George Melford, 32 years old, 871 North La Salle street, was fined $2 by Judge Adamowski on a charge of disorderly conduct. The complainants, who are young women of the Moody Bible institute, across the street from Melford's home, charged that he stood nude before his window. Melford pleaded that he was unaware that he was being watched.

Girl Found Dead in Bath After Eating Heavy Meal

Miss Frieda Berman, 23 years old, was found dead last evening in a bathtub in her home at 106 West St. Charles road, Lombard. She was the daughter of Harry Berman, owner of a dry goods store at that address. Members of the family, who found the body, said the young woman entered the bath soon after eating a heavy meal.

MORON CAPTIVE

WOMEN PURSUE THEATER MORON; NABBED AT DOOR

Jack Lesser, 32 years old, 1363 Washington boulevard, accused by a woman patron of having molested her, fled for the exits at the Oriental theater yesterday. Pursuing him were several excited women brandishing purses and packages.

He was captured just as he reached the lobby by Park Policeman Norman Wooden, who was attending the theater on his day off. Wooden covered Lesser with a pistol and at the same time kept the women from mauling him.

His accuser was Mrs. Elizabeth Pollex, 3757 Addison street. "This man sat next to me," Mrs. Pollex said. "He kept bothering me. I told him twice to stop and the third time I hit at him with my purse. He ran."

THE CAUSE OF CONFLICT AT FLINT.

The General Motors strike has differed from many protracted industrial conflicts in the fact that, as time has gone on, the questions at issue, instead of becoming more confused, have become clearer and simpler.

The strike began on Dec. 28 with little preliminary notice. The unusual nature of the strike monopolized attention for a week or more. The sitdown, if not unprecedented, was still novel and it had never before been attempted in this country on so large a scale or in an industry of such great size and importance.

When interest in the unusual tactics had subsided, attention centered upon the efforts of various government officials to restore peace. Gov. Murphy's first intervention failed. Secretary Perkins' efforts brought Mr. Sloan to Washington but achieved nothing more substantial. Gov. Murphy's second effort, inspired directly by the White House, seems at this writing to have fizzled.

Meanwhile, the General Motors corporation has obtained an injunction ordering the sitdown strikers to leave the occupied plants, the court has been formally notified that the injunction has not been obeyed and a writ has been issued instructing the sherif to carry the order into effect. Meanwhile, too, some thousands of men of the Michigan National Guard have been sent to Flint, the seat of the trouble, and citizens are being recruited into a special police force for purposes which are not entirely clear.

In the midst of all of these colorful and sometimes menacing movements the meaning of the conflict was largely obscured, but as a consequence of the statements issued on Monday night few doubts and obscurities remain.

John Lewis, speaking for the strikers, demands for his union the right to act as the sole bargaining agent for all employés in all the plants which have been closed by the strike. He makes no claim to represent workers in the other plants belonging to the company. When the limited recognition he demands has been accorded, he says, he will undertake to negotiate all questions of hours, wages, and working conditions which were included in the union's original demands but are now relegated to a minor place.

The company rejects the offer. The statement issued on behalf of the corporation on Monday night asserts a willingness to negotiate with the union's representatives once the occupied factories are evacuated, but declines to concede to the union the right to speak for all employés in any of the company's plants. The company will recognize the right of the union to speak for its own members but no one else; and the company reserves the right to give nonunion employés the benefit of any advance in wages or improvement in working conditions which the union may obtain for its members.

The questions at issue have thus been narrowed. Mr. Lewis asserts the right to represent all the thousands of men and women working in the strike-bound plants; General Motors concedes his right to speak only for the membership of his union. Mr. Lewis takes the position that the employés would flock to his union if they did not fear reprisals; General Motors maintains that this is not so and that the majority of their employés do not want to join Mr. Lewis' union.

It would seem that this deadlock could easily be broken if the rival declarations of principle are sincere. All that need be done is to arrange a referendum under neutral auspices in which the employés by secret ballot could declare their preference. If they voted overwhelmingly for the union, General Motors would be forced, in view of its previous declarations, to recognize the United Automobile Workers of America substantially on the terms demanded by Mr. Lewis. If the great majority of the employés did not want Mr. Lewis to represent them he has no moral right to speak for all of them.

General Motors has expressed its willingness to abide by such a referendum to be conducted by Gov. Murphy, an ardent New Dealer. According to the statement issued by the corporation the offer has been rejected flatly by Mr. Lewis, though his grounds for doing so are not stated.

In the absence of a vote it is, of course, impossible to state with accuracy what proportion of the employés wants Mr. Lewis as a spokesman. The vote taken under the auspices of the automobile labor board a year or more ago indicated that the union membership in the industry was small. Observers at Flint and Detroit today are inclined to believe that the union membership may constitute from 10 to 25 per cent of the employés. Most of the reporters use the figure 20 per cent.

There the matter rests at this writing. The strike could be settled promptly and honorably to all concerned if the referendum were held. That, at the moment, is the sticking point. The immediate question is whether the present deadlock can continue much longer without precipitating further acts of violence whose consequences no man can foresee with certainty, and which all men of good will would sacrifice much to avoid.

THE PEOPLE AND THEIR SUPREME COURT.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California is opposed to the President's proposal to force the retirement of six Supreme court justices over seventy years or, as an alternative, increase the number of judges to fifteen. Senator Johnson, who has not fought the administration on other lines, says he will go to the limit of his ability against this extraordinary legislation because it would make the Supreme court subservient.

Senator Norris of Nebraska has been a supporter of the administration. He has planned and worked with it and has received Mr. Roosevelt's praise. He has his own ideas for change in procedure and tenure but he does not support the bill the President sent congress to obtain six new judges whose opinions would uphold subsequent administration legislation.

Senator Van Nuys, the new member from Indiana, is another defender of the integrity of the court. He says that constitutional government is at an end when the judiciary is made subservient to another branch of government. The significance of such opposition is that it arises within administration ranks. The judgment of thoughtful men tells them that the restoration of the court to a position of independence and judicial integrity might be long delayed and hard to accomplish if congress once consented to a procedure intended to provide in advance that laws it passed should be found within the frame of the constitution.

Congress knows that no other face can be put on the bill for new judges. What is proposed is a repeal of judicial decisions, and the federal judicial system would be long in recovering prestige, authority, and general confidence. The legislative and executive branches would have learned by experience that the court could be reconstructed to meet demands and fit occasions. Judges would have notice that the court could be manipulated to support the wishes of a President and the acts of a congress.

Most members of congress, certainly most members of the senate, must realize that the moment is critical and that the consequences of a turn in the wrong direction are unforeseeable. The American democracy has been guarded against excesses of majorities as well as of governments by a system of law intended to be a protection of liberties. Transgressions, even unintentional, against the charter of rights would be stopped by appeal to an independent branch of government. If that branch should be put under the control of the other two the balance would be destroyed. The scheme as it has existed to date would fall apart.

There is present evidence that the citizens themselves are much disturbed by the attempt to bring the Supreme court into line with governmental purposes. The average American has been raised in the belief that his system of checks and balances prevented encroachments of authority and the loss of rights. Americans have had respect for the Supreme court, believing in its incorruptible adherence to the law and in its high purpose to preserve the constitutional liberties of the people.

It may be that the people will have something to say before destructive hands are laid on the court. Resolutions of protest from various state legislatures would indicate that there is a growing alarm. It is something to note that one protest came from the Texas house of representatives.

THE BRIDE AND HER DOLL.

Tennessee's bride of 9 years is less important of herself than as the extreme manifestation of a society in which brides of 14 and 15 excite little comment.

A century ago such brides excited little comment in Illinois. Average life expectancy in 1800 was only 33 years, although that of persons who escaped the terrific infant mortality of the era was somewhat greater.

In the rigorous life of the frontier it behooved girls to marry soon after they attained physical capacity to bear children. If they delayed their children might be left orphans at tender ages. Social and economic conditions added to this pressure. Schooling was finished early. The woman who reached 21 without a husband faced the economic problems of spinsterhood.

In the country at large these conditions have changed. Vast advances in medical science and in the quantity, if not the quality, of education have removed the pressures which once influenced early marriage. Concurrently the capacity for successful marriages at such ages was removed. Our young chucklewits of 17 and 18 are far less qualified for the responsibilities of marriage than were their great-grandmothers at 14.

That the ratio of child brides should be three and four times as great in the southern states as it is elsewhere in the nation is one among many indications that that region has failed to share fully in the advances which remove the pressure toward early marriage. The indictment is not a blanket one. Tennessee has a lower ratio of child brides than any of its neighbors except the Carolinas, which in turn are only slightly above the national average. Mississippi has the worst record of all.

The bride with the doll has stung the Tennessee legislature to action, but its proposal to set a minimum age for marriage will not solve the problem. It is doubtful that it would be enforced, and enforcement would probably be reflected in a higher rate of illegitimacy. The real problem facing the legislature is the highly complex one of bringing lagging communities back to the level of a social system which long ago outstripped them.

Editorial of the Day

TO DEBUNK LYNCHING.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

A group of intelligent southern women makes an effective move to debunk lynching. They resent the traditional alibi of weak-kneed law enforcement that lynching is "necessary to protect southern womanhood."

They resent it because it is untrue. Says Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, director of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, "the white women of the south protest the use of their skirts as a blind for lynching . . . Economic greed is the cause of many more lynchings than the protection of white women's honor . . . We want women everywhere to know that most of the so-called attacks by Negroes are fictional."

Operating in thirteen states the association has signed 35,000 women who are pledged to fight against lynching. Those familiar with the close relationship of racial prejudice and economic exploitation will welcome the help of this vigorous group of truth-seekers.

MEMORIES.

Along these willowed ways I walked with you
When there was peace and perfume in the air;
No eyes were ever half so Irish-blue,
No tresses ebon as your tumbled hair;
Your laughter rang across these hallowed hills
Free as the song of little ones at play,
And heavy hearts were lightened by its trills
Though one a one is hearing it today.

Tonight I tread these lonesome paths again
That only you and I had seemed to know,
And ghost-like from the hills the soft refrain
Of lilting laughter haunts me as I go;
And from the purple mist there seem to rise

THE OLD HOSS TRADER.

Old Johnny Spottswood retained a sense of humor even after he lost his livery stable. It took on a streamline aspect. Once, when the Literary League had a doings at the Opera House, Johnny tacked up their motto, "Ever Advancing," so that the second V dropped out when he slammed the stage door. But he really put the town in stitches last week when he sent out the invitations for the wedding of his red headed daughter to Tom Beyer's oldest boy. In place of the usual R. S. V. P. he had engraved on the cards "Caveat Emptor." A. Square.

COLLEGE STUDENT'S PROGRESS.

"You ask about Jim Bob. He is doing well in politics, is an excellent poker player, an accomplished cigaret smoker and has developed a satisfactory capacity for beer, so I really feel his college career is turning out to be all a 1937 parent could ask. I told him I had worried all my life about not having a college education, but I haven't worried half as much as I would have had I known what the boy would be up against in college. . . . I was interrupted at this point and in glancing over the foregoing paragraph I see I have omitted two of Jim Bob's accomplishments. He is an excellent bridge player and proficient ballroom dancer. I think on the side he has some books and occasionally, if the sessions aren't too early in the morning, he attends a class or talks to a professor. . . . Anyhow, we are very fond of him." J. H. M.

FOR AND AGAINST.

The nude in artistry has ever been
To some a beauty, some an undressed sin.

Fair Venus clad in splendor stands unarmed
Against all baleful glances unalarmed—
In regal robes would millions yet be charmed?

The little God of Love, in coat and pants,
Would never pierce a heart, by any chance. . . .
How bare would be the world without romance!
Margaret Marquart.

RANDOM THOUGHT.

All the logic in the General Motors-Lewis impasse is on the G. M. side. . . . Why should Lewis represent laboring folk who want somebody else to represent them? . . . But force, and passive resistance is a form of force, is on his side. . . . The intolerant man is always at advantage in dealing with people who want to be logical. . . . Can't figure out whether the Spaniards are lucky or unlucky. . . . Their country is a battleground, but they all seem to be spectators of fighting by foreigners. . . . Edward Windsor had better be careful about that trust fund; Britain, as he knows, sometimes defaults.

THE DOCS FOUND a great variety of broken bones about the person of Jasper soon after he had been struck by an automobile. His chances, they said, were slim, but they straightened him out and stuck him in a bed equipped with pulleys and hoists. Week after week he lay without complaint. He seemed almost content, and one of the nurses said: "Not many would be as good natured as you are with your legs hanging from the ceiling." Jasper said he was used to it. FAILING VISION IN ELDERLY PERSONS.

THE eyes, like every other tissue of the body, are affected by the changes which come with advancing years. Certain of these alterations are especially significant because the loss of vision for which they are responsible may affect in a very positive way the activities of the patient.

One form of ageing which may be considered physiological is "old sight" or prebyopia. In this condition the muscle inside the eye which adapts it for near vision becomes gradually weaker. The crystalline lens, which is also a prime factor in close vision, becomes harder as the years increase. These manifestations usually appear between the ages of 42 and 45, and as a result the individual has difficulty in seeing clearly objects which are close to the eyes. We may have observed people hold a book or newspaper at arm's length in order to read ordinary print. Some will continue this maneuver without glasses, complaining that their principal handicap lies in the fact that their arms are not long enough.

Proper glasses will take the place of the weakened function of accommodation for near sight. In eyes which are otherwise normal, the choice of lenses for this purpose is a relatively simple matter. But many eyes have other refractive errors which become noticeable about this period, so that the selection of spectacles for old people demands great care. There are also a number of diseases not causing obvious symptoms which are detected only when the patient is examined. Hence the importance of a careful study of the eyes of all those who need glasses for reading.

Cataract—a clouding of the crystalline lens—is frequent in old age. It is evident in some form in practically all those who reach the age of 85. In some it is found as early as 40 to 45. The predominant symptom, in fact the only sign, is a gradual failure of vision for both far and near sight. Since it brings about disturbances in the optical properties of the eyes, vision may be improved for a time with glasses, but in the end the whole lens acts as a dark curtain preventing light from reaching the retina.

Whenever it is impossible for the patient to carry on his customary occupation with the best available aids, one or both cataracts may be removed. This involves an operation which requires skill and a number of precautions, but which is routinely successful in restoring useful, and in many instances normal vision. Sight is regained, however, through the employment of a glass which replaces the natural lens.

Diabetes frequently develops in elderly persons in a rather mild form and may not be accompanied by symptoms which are recognized. Should the sugar level in the blood remain high for some time the blood vessels inside the eyes are affected. The detection of such defects may bring about not only relief of the eye condition, but suggest treatment which will prolong the patient's active life.

Still another disease which is more common in old age, although it may affect persons of any age, is glaucoma or hardening of the eyeball. This comes on in two forms. If it is acute, a sudden attack of pain and a loss of vision bring the matter at once to the attention of the patient and usually to a physician. In the chronic form, however, the only symptom is that of gradual dimming of sight. It is sometimes looked upon as beginning cataract. It can be detected only as a result of a careful examination, a part of which includes measuring the tension [hardness] of the eyeball. In the early stages glaucoma may be relieved by suitable treatment or operation. All too often it is neglected and results in blindness which could have been prevented.

Just because an older person is not using his or her eyes in the active business of life we must not assume that symptoms should be disregarded. Periodical examinations will preserve this most precious of all our senses.

ST. VITUS' DANCE.

Mrs. E. B. writes:

1. What is the cause of pigeon breast in a man 32 years old? Is there a cure?
2. What causes St. Vitus' dance in a 12 year old boy? Is there a cure?

REPLY.

1. Pigeon breast is frequently the result of rickets in childhood. It may be caused by obstruction of respiration due to enlarged tonsils or to adenoids. The treatment consists in gymnastic exercises, massage, and deep breathing.

2. The development of an attack of St. Vitus' dance is a manifestation of rheumatic infection. A predisposition to chorea seems to exist in certain families. It appears to attack high strung, neurotic children with greater frequency. In some instances the symptoms appear with great suddenness.

A child with St. Vitus' dance should be taken from school at once. Rest is the most important part of the treatment. Complete mental and physical relaxation should be secured by putting the patient to bed and isolating him as far as possible. Special attention should be given to the general nutrition. The diet should be generous but free from stimulants. Warm baths are helpful. Recently, typhoid vaccine for the purpose of inducing a high fever has been advocated.

DANDRUFF.

Mrs. B. T. writes: For several years I have been bothered with what I thought was a severe case of dandruff. Now a barber tells me it is not dandruff but milk scales. What is this caused from and is there a cure?

REPLY.

The condition you describe is dandruff. We have a small leaflet on the subject that may be helpful. Send a self-addressed envelope for it.

TEARS IN COLD WEATHER.

C. J. V. writes: My eyes tear a lot in cold weather. I am terribly embarrassed walking along the street as people think I am crying.

REPLY.

It may be that the tear ducts have become closed. A skilled opthalmologist can aid you.

CAN BE USED SAFELY.

Miss N. writes: Is the use of rubbing alcohol after cold cream harmful? I have followed this procedure for a month and my pores have been reduced some.

REPLY.

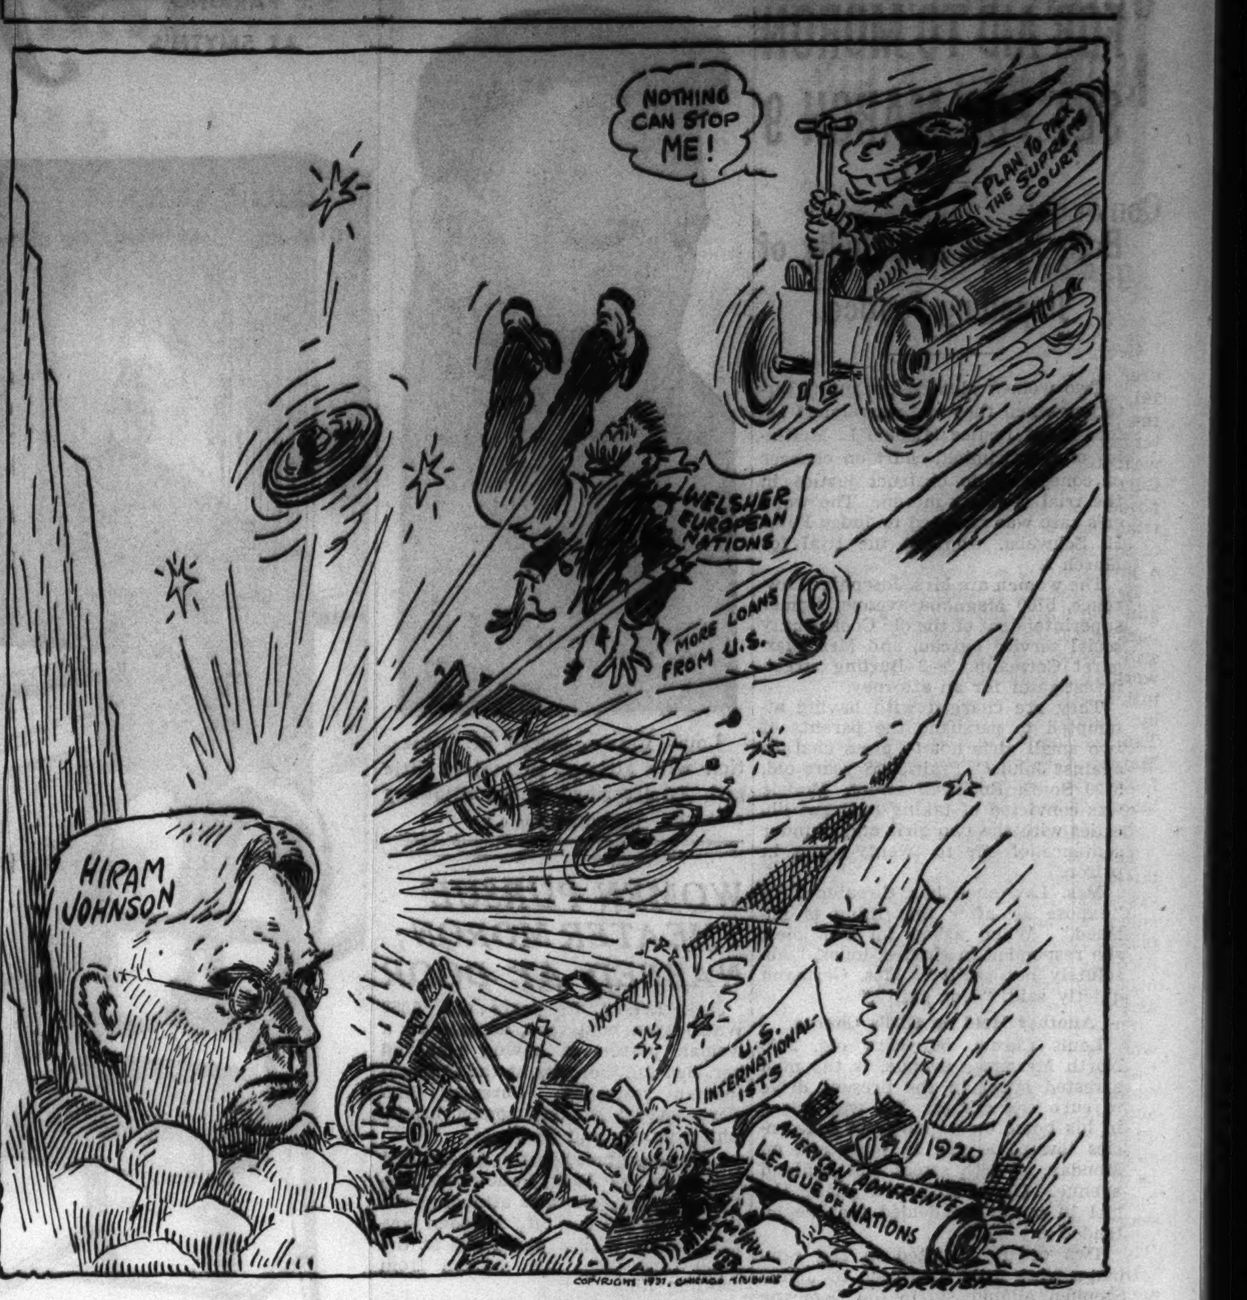
'IRRESISTIBLE' FORCES THAT HAVE MET AN IMMOVABLE OBJECT



From the Tribune's Columns

20 Years Ago Today

FEBRUARY 10, 1917.

BERLIN.—Passports for Ambassador Gerard and all members of the embassy staf were delivered at the American embassy by the foreign office. The German government was officially informed by the Spanish ambassador that Count von Bernstorff will sail for Halifax on Feb. 13.

LONDON. — Dr. William von Stumm, German undersecretary for foreign affairs, in an interview published in Amsterdam, says Germany regrets she was compelled to take the measures she adopted against Ambassador Gerard, but that the United States had prevented Count von Bernstorff, retiring German ambassador, from telegraphing that he had received his passports.

WASHINGTON. — At a protracted session of the cabinet President Wilson and his advisers decided that no overt act had been committed by German submarines since the proclamation of the resumption of ruthless submarine warfare.

LONDON. — The number of ships reported sunk today by German submarines was only six, the smallest number by far of any day since the blockade began. The loss of life was greater, however. The Germans were announced to have taken directly or indirectly the lives of twenty-nine seamen.

CHICAGO.—William Buford Carlile, for many years a prominent life insurance official and identified with large financial undertakings, was nominated by President Wilson to be postmaster at Chicago.

CHICAGO.—Miss Ursula C. Noyes, formerly assistant superintendent of the Boston City hospital, will reach Chicago today to take charge of the classes in instruction for women which will be conducted by the local chapter of the American Red Cross. Applications for membership in the classes have been received from 1,000 women.

CHICAGO. — Carl Alfred Meltzer, chief school gardener, was acquitted by the school board of a charge of flying a German flag at his summer home in Maywood. Meltzer cited his service as a sergeant in Troop K, First Illinois cavalry, in the Spanish-American war as proof of his loyalty.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence if more than one letter is written each should be complete in itself. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

JUMBLED FACTS.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There was no will. How can I collect the balance of my [1] claim?

2. My administrator died last May, having signed all checks. My wife is now deceased and previously had deposited a sum of money in the bank in her name. The bank is now closed.

3. The receivers have another dividend ready for delivery. I hold the receiver's certificate. The estate has been probated. F. B. N.

1. It is not clear whether your claim is as a creditor or as an heir.
2. Your use of the phrase, "my administrator," implies that you are dead. It is not clear what you really mean. Whose estate is really in question?
3. They are in a better position to advise you than we are.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SOCIAL SECURITY ACT.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There are voluntary organizations such as labor unions which have established [1] pension systems for the benefit of their members.

I have heard it said that those receiving pension benefits from these sources will not be eligible for benefits under the social security act. 2. Is that true? If it is [3] do person so ineligible have to pay the percentage, or is there an exemption in the law? A. F. G.

1. We assume that you mean old age pension.
2. No, as to the federal old age annuities.
3. The private pension would not except them from either the tax or the benefits.

THE CITIZENS IMPERILED.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 6.—It is impossible not to attempt to register in some way one's emphatic protest against the measure that has just been proposed for the so-called reform of the Supreme court.

No proof of failure in honesty, intelligence, keen understanding of issues, promptitude, or adherence to law has been advanced, or can be advanced, against the court to justify this dangerous and extraordinary measure for controling the court.

The reason given, namely, that the court has too much to do, and that its work would be expedited merely by increasing its numbers, cannot possibly be credited by any intelligent person. It is quite clear to those who have followed the court's decisions that they have been given promptly, and that they have been forceful, clear, intelligent, and within the law, as any one who has read the text of the decisions knows. Why then the "reform" and how would this measure accomplish it? If there were real reasons for the proposal for such a dangerous measure, why give so puerile a one as that given?

One cannot help urging every citizen who values his own right to just trial, and to a free judiciary, to read carefully the decisions of the court, and to decide for himself whether there is justification for this measure, which has been proposed by the chief executive, not by the lawmaking body, congress.

The only charge that can be brought against the court is that they do not always agree with the administration. If they did always so agree, would they not instantly cease to be a court of law for the independent administration of justice? CITIZEN.

ACTION PROPOSED.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 6.—Should the President be successful in packing the Supreme court, as he now desires, we would be in the same governmental situation as exists in Russia, Germany, and Italy, where one man controls the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government.

It is within the power of you and me to stop this. How? Our representatives in Washington endeavor to follow the wishes of the people back home. Let's let them know what we want. F. E. MYERS.

IN THE NAME OF LIBERTY.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—In his proposal concerning changes in the Supreme court, Mr. Roosevelt, in a single action, performed three functions. He acted as a judge, passing judgment on the court itself; he was a legislator, even writing the text of a law he desires the congress to enact, and he was an executive, acting according to his own interpretation of the duties of his office.

By his actions Mr. Roosevelt clearly manifests a bold desire to be boss. That is the true American name for his ambition.

It is probable that the present congress will pass a law that will please Mr. Roosevelt. It is extremely doubtful if this law will please the people or really serve them, when its application is effected and when the true costs of boss rule become manifest. If there ever was a time in civilization when the young should heed the counsel of the old, it is now. If this means retaining Supreme court judges who are 70 years of age and older, in the name of liberty let us hold fast to them. PAUL DARROW PADDOCK.

MISCALCULATION?

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 5.—It is beside the point, now, to observe that the life tenure of judges is expressly designed to prevent what the President now proposes. Whatever demerit his proposal may have in the abstract is thrown into complete obscurity by the fact that his purpose is not abstract. His purpose is to gain control of the judiciary and make its voice subservient to the will of the executive and legislative arms.

The stroke at our established system of government may be successful. It may be that two of the present Supreme court may yield to the occasion and count off obediently as numbers 7 and 8 in the hand picked octette who are scheduled to outnumber the self-respecting members of the court.

Again, the President may have made a monstrous miscalculation as to the depth of judicial integrity. It may be more likely that four of the sitting judges should die of old age than that two should yield to the rôle assigned them.

One phase of the President's proposal may now appear to be a minor matter. That is, that a man of honor in the post of President would leave to congress the initiative in any proposal pertaining to the composition of the judiciary. He would demand that such action be independent of his collusion and that it should carry by a vote sufficient to override his veto. In view of his sworn obligation any other view is contemptible and shameless. C. B. BRIGGS.

HORSE AND BUGGY.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 6.—In asking congress for the privilege to pack the Supreme court to his liking, the President finds it necessary to use over 40,000 words of specious argument to define his famous "horse and buggy" crack, and then adroitly maneuvers back to the year 1869 and earlier for precedents. Just when was this "horse and buggy" age, anyway? SHOW ME.

FROM A GALLANT CITY.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 3.—We have been so busy with flood duties and your representative also has been so busy gathering flood news that we have not had the opportunity to contact him, but we want to take this means of thanking you for the articles which have appeared in your daily paper regarding the flood situation in Cairo.

We realize the danger isn't over and something may happen yet, but we are putting up a brave fight to save our town. We do not want any one to misrepresent conditions here in our favor, but we do not appreciate some of the statements that have been made by other papers. MARION WOODWARD, Assistant Secretary, Cairo Association of Commerce.

A POINT TO BE CONSIDERED.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 6.—Granata's bill at Springfield to unsex moronic prisoners would enable a jealous girl to accuse her former lover of attempted rape, get him arrested and castrated for spite. How lovely that would be!

You ought to expose this nonsense. CITIZEN.

Bism: "My car will go its own way."

HENNEMAN, UNION CHIEF, GETS SIX MONTHS FOR GUN

Conviction Prompts Dungan to Ask Jury Trial.

George Henneman, secretary-treasurer of the Painters' union, local No. 191, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell and was fined $100 yesterday for carrying a concealed weapon. When Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court imposed this sentence after a bench trial, James Dungan, business agent of the same union, hastened to obtain a jury trial on an identical charge.

Last Dec. 10 Henneman and Dungan were arrested in an automobile parked before the Wilmington hotel, 4901 Drexel boulevard, after painters working the building complained of intimidation. The seizures were made by Lieut. Ray Crane and Sergts. Thomas Casey and Joseph Graney of Mayor Kelly's personal staf, who found two loaded revolvers in the labor leaders' car.

Trial Delayed Again and Again.

The two won several continuances but the trial of Henneman proceeded yesterday after Judge McGarry overruled motions to quash the complaints and to suppress the evidence. Attorney John V. Clinnin argued on behalf of the union officials that their arrest was illegal.

"The policement testified that they were seeking two suspicious characters in an automobile and that they came upon Dungan and Henneman and placed them under arrest," said Judge McGarry in announcing his ruling. "Therefore the arrests were lawful. Then in searching the automobile they found two loaded revolvers in the pocket of the car."

Freed in Case Last May.

In a similar case last May Dungan and Henneman won a dismissal from Judge Thomas A. Green. At that time the two union leaders were arrested at 35th and Wallace streets in an automobile containing loaded revolvers.

In August, 1935, Dungan and Henneman and four others were arrested when police raided their union headquarters at 5444 Wentworth avenue, seized four pistols and a shotgun. The six men were freed in court.

In April, 1933, Dungan was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct but after the court session the fine was reduced to $1.

On Jan. 3, 1936, Henneman's wife was shot to death in an automobile in which she was riding with him. He said he saved himself from the assassin's shotgun blast by falling out of the car.

LINK AND MILLER FACE CELLS; LOSE HIGH COURT FIGHT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused to grant a rehearing of its decision affirming the conviction of Frank J. Link, former sanitary district trustee, and John T. Miller, once a minor official of the district. They were convicted of conspiracy to defraud the district of $6,500,000 during the so-called "whoopee" era of 1927 and 1928.

Last fall the Supreme court upheld the ruling of Judge Harry M. Fisher returned in 1932. It was understood that the action of the high court yesterday removed the last legal obstacle to Link's sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary, and Miller's sentence of six months in the Bridewell. Miller also was fined $2,000.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH DENT.

Joseph Rappaport, who is under sentence to die in the electric chair on Feb. 19 for the murder of Max Dent, a government informer, saw two avenues of hope blocked yesterday. The Illinois Supreme court refused for the third time to intervene, denying Rappaport's petition for a writ of supersedeas to compel Judge Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court to set aside the order of conviction.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, after reviewing documents in the case and interviewing Mrs. Anna Dent, mother of the slain man and chief witness at Rappaport's trial, issued this terse statement: "There is nothing to say from this office and there will not be." Mrs. Dent was accompanied to the prosecutor's office by her husband, Joseph.

Courtney assigned his assistant, Morris Meyers, to appear before the state board of pardons and paroles in Springfield today to oppose a plea for commutation of the death sentence of Mrs. Mildred Bolton. She is awaiting death in the electric chair on Feb. 2[illegible] for the murder of her estranged husband, Joseph Bolton Jr., an insurance broker.

Convict on Parole Gives Up on Bad Check Charges

Raymond Taylor, alias Robert Sheldon, 718 West 65th street, a convict on parole, surrendered to Englewood police yesterday to face charges of passing three fraudulent checks. He denied the charges. Taylor, who is 51 years old, has served nearly twenty years in prisons. His last sentence was on April 15, 1926, when he was convicted of robbery. He was last paroled on May 9, 1936.

ELEVATED LINK IN OUTER DRIVE COMPLETE TODAY

Another step in completion of the Chicago park district's $16,000,000 outer drive improvement will be reached today when rivets are driven in the last pieces of structural steel composing the Field boulevard extension.

With this done, the mile long elevation between Monroe street in Grant park and Ohio street at Lake Shore drive, plus the Randolph street extension, will be two-thirds complete, according to Frank A. Randall, consulting bridge engineer for the park district. The project is expected to be ready for trafic early in August.

The elevated portion of the improvement consists of the Randolph street, Field boulevard, and Wacker drive extensions, the outer drive bridge over the month of the Chicago river, and a smaller bridge over Ogden slip. The steel is in place for all of these sections.

The concrete slab is being poured on the Randolph street part, steel work will be finished today on Field extension and flooring for the Wacker roadways is now under way, Randall said. Workmen are preparing to place the side railings on the big bridge and riveting of steel on the Ogden slip bridge will be finished in a few weeks.

POPE TO TAKE PART IN HOLY WEEK SERVICES OF LENTEN SEASON

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI., hoping soon to regain use of his ailing legs, made plans tonight to participate in holy week services of the lenten season which begins tomorrow.

Regardless of whether he will be able to walk, the pontiff told his aids he wanted the services conducted as usual and that he would take part if his illness permits.

The pope rested today after a troubled night and the pain in his legs bothered him only occasionally. He permitted no alteration in his regular routine of audiences and labored over ecclesiastical documents.

5 Cuban Fishing Smacks Seized by Mexican Navy

MERIDA, Yucatan, Mexico, Feb. 10 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A Mexican coast guard cutter early today brought five Cuban fishing smacks into the harbor of Progreso, Yucatan. The commander reported to authorities that he found them fishing in Mexican waters. He said a sixth escaped as the little fleet was being convoyed to port. Captains of the seized boats were held in custody aboard the patrol boat.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Burglars looted the Deutsch sisters' store of women's wearing apparel valued at $7,500 early today.

QUIZ EX-CONVICT IN MATTSON BOY KIDNAPING CASE

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 10 [Wednesday].—(AP)—James G. McDonald, a former San Quentin convict, was questioned today by officers investigating the Charles Mattson kidnap-slaying. McDonald told federal agents he knew nothing about the crime.

"It may be another false lead, but it looks hot to me," said William Ogle, chief of the Washington state patrol.

McDonald, arrested in a low rent apartment house in Seattle, is 31 years old, 5 feet 10½ inches tall, weighs 158 pounds, is dark visaged, with a cleft chin and a broken nose. These physical characteristics are similar to those attributed by officers to the Mattson kidnaper.

Police Detective A. F. Kuehl said McDonald's record includes a five-year term in San Quentin prison for grand theft. He completed his term in 1934 and had been arrested on minor charges several times since. He was under a 90 day suspended sentence imposed in Seattle police court on a disorderly conduct charge.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Hospital attendants reported former Senator Lester J. Dickinson of Iowa "much improved" today following an abdominal operation last week. His son, L, Call Dickinson, Des Moines attorney, visited him today.

DRAFT PLANS TODAY FOR DRIVE TO RAISE BOY SCOUTS' BUDGET

STEPHEN Y. HORD.

Plans for this year's financial campaign for the Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America will be formulated at a meeting of fifty business men in the University club this noon. R. Douglas Stewart, president of the council, who called the meeting, said that of the $163,000 needed for the year's activities, $45,000 will come from the Community fund, and the rest largely from individual contributions. Stephen Y. Herd, chairman of the drive for funds, said that there are now 20,000 scouts in Chicago, a gain of 2,000 over last year.

GASOLINE SPILLS; CAUSES BLAST 7 BLOCKS AWAY

Two men were burned severely yesterday in an explosion in the basement of the house at 4449 South Halsted street where they roomed. The blast was caused by gasoline that escaped from an overturned truck nearly seven blocks away.

The truck, owned by the Spout and Davis company of Hammond, Ind., and driven by Alvah Balcom, overturned after colliding with the automobile of John Gleason, 1939 West 33d street, at 51st and Halsted streets. The truck's cargo of gasoline flowed into the street and was washed down a nearby sewer drain by firemen.

Fumes from the gasoline spread through the sewer system and filled the rooming house. The two roomers, William Tropinski, 45 years old, and William Sipler, 44, lighted a candle and went to the basement to investigate. The candle flame ignited the gasoline vapor and both men were burned about the face and hands in the blast that followed. They were taken to the county hospital.

What to do when you have a COLD

It takes several hours, and more than one kind of medicine to get any real relief from the distressing symptoms of a cold. Your first aim should be to clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the cold fever, and open the bowels.

You can get the necessary medicines of your druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve the discomfort of a "new" cold, take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink some water.

Some cases may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

AUSTRALIA MAPS 21 MILLION SLUM CLEARING SCHEME

Federal Government Will Foot the Bill.

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 9.—Municipal councils in New South Wales have accepted more than 200 schemes for public works to be subsidized by the federal government. The proposed work, the total value of which is £4,264,365 [about $21,321,825], will give full time employment to 12,500 men for from one to two years.

A permanent plan for housing improvement and clearance of slum areas is provided for in a measure introduced by Premier B. S. B. Stevens into the South South Wales parliament. The scheme will apply to coöperative societies also.

Under the plan selected areas will be rebuilt and street systems redesigned, if necessary, with provision for parks and open spaces.

Loan Plan Rejected.

These undertakings follow the recent action of the Commonwealth bank board, virtual dictator of Australia's financial policy, in cutting down proposals for loans submitted by the loan council, which is comprised of representatives of both the commonwealth and the states. The board felt that governmental and private spending was similar to predepression extravagance, and clamped down on loan flotations. R. G. Casey, commonwealth treasurer, supported the Commonwealth bank board's decision.

"One cannot get more than a pint out of a pint pot," he told protesting premiers and treasurers of various states.

Much argument has followed the bank's dictum. Premier Stevens of New South Wales has spoken of "holding up prosperity."

Sees Rising Interest Rates.

Dr. E. Ronald Walker, lecturer in economics at Sydney university, said that unless deliberate action is taken by the Commonwealth bank to extend credit—to make the pint pot larger—Australia must look forward to rising interest rates. He noted the fact that the works programs of both the commonwealth and the states for the present financial year — ending in June—total about £21,000,000 [about $105,000,000]. This is approximately 50 per cent below pre-depression figures.

"I am inclined to think it would be risky to reduce the works programs as low as £15,000,000 for next year," Dr. Walker said. "Any further reduction I would regard as altogether reckless. I would prefer a program to err on the side of generosity rather than parsimony."

A different angle of the unemployment and relief problem was raised by Sir Francis Anderson in an address to the annual conference of the New South Wales Public School Teachers' federation.

"With our present system, or absence of system," he said, referring to the educational systems of Australia," we are in danger of producing a great multitude of unskilled persons, gradually becoming accustomed to living upon society, a population of home-born aliens growing up in our midst with envy and hatred in their hearts, without sense of duty or civic responsibility—a serious menace to the well-being of society."

JAP WAR CHIEF ILL; ONE OF ARMY 'BIG 3' GETS JOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 9.—Stricken with typhoid fever, War Minister Lieut. Gen. Korota Nakamura today resigned from the cabinet post he took only a week ago.

KOTARO NAKAMURA.

He was succeeded by Lieut. Gen. Gen Sugiyama, inspector general of military education and regarded as one of the "big three" of the Japanese army, which blocked the formation of a cabinet during the recent crisis over military domination of the government.

Lieut. Gen. Nakamura entered the military hospital on Feb. 7, suffering with a slight fever believed to be influenza. Today it was diagnosed as typhoid fever.

See New Delay in Opening Diet.

In view of the fact that the presence of the war minister is imperative during the diet [parliament] session which will reopen in a few days, Nakamura resigned.

It is believed Premier Gen. Senjuro Hayashi will go to the palace tomorrow and request that the reopening of the diet be delayed three more days, since the government is not prepared to submit bills yet.

Lieut. Gen. Sugiyama will be succeeded as inspector general of military education by Gen. Count Juichi Terauchi, former minister of war, whose clash with the politcal parties precipitated the recent crisis.

New Cabinet Under Fire.

The Hayashi cabinet's announcement yesterday that its policy will be based on a spirit of worship of the imperial ancestors is generally criticized as vague and abstract.

The newspaper Tokio Asahi likened the platform to a snake with heads at both ends, and added that a perusal shows that while the cabinet bases its stand upon "gradual reform," the hand of radical reformists is behind it.

Manchukuo Bandits Kidnap 60.

HARBIN, Manchukuo, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Domei [Japanese news agency] sources reported today that 60 persons, including a number of Japanese, had been kidnaped by bandits who attacked Tangyuan, on the Sungari river. [Tangyuan is in eastern Manchukuo, less than 100 miles south of the Siberian border.]

YOUNG LAWYERS OF BOSTON FIGHT COURT SHAKEUP

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Results today of a poll among the young lawyers in Boston indicates they are overwhelmingly opposed to President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the Supreme court of the United States.

A total of 1,245 attorneys, none of whom is more than 36 years old, was canvassed by postcards by the special committee on junior members of the Boston Bar association. Of 398 replies, 341 opposed the measure and 57 favored it, so that the ratio against it virtually is six to one.

The names of those polled were selected from directories of lawyers. It was felt that they represented a wide cross section of political belief, of nationlities, and of Boston in general.

RETURN ALL OUR COLONIES, NOT A FEW! NAZIS CRY

German Envoy Seeks Aid of Britain.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 9.—"The colonial question is the touchstone for the good will of other powers," the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said today in an editorial which is part of the general hue and cry raised in Germany demanding the return of colonies lost in the world war.

Editorials and news comments show that Germany is demanding the return of all her colonies and will not be satisfied with only part of them. Dr. Otto Kriegk, a former nationalist, writing in the Berliner Nachtausgabe, went further. He suggested that since the war guilt has been abolished reparations payments automatically were abolished "and therefore Germany could file a demand for repayment."

(In his Jan. 30 speech to the reichstag Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler renounced the so-called "war guilt" clause of the Versailles treaty.)

To Ask British Agreement.

Diplomatic circles said that Joachim von Ribbentrop, German ambassador to London, in conversations with Viscount Halifax, British lord privy seal and acting foreign minister, will ask for British agreement in principle to the return of the former German colonies to Germany. They added that Hitler has empowered Von Ribbentrop to offer to renew negotiations for a western European pact in exchange for this promise.

Official Berlin quarters hold that there is little hope of a speedy agreement with the British on the question of colonies, but believe that "as soon as the Fascist forces rule Spain a compromise will be easier with France and England because France will then realize that an understanding with Fascist powers is of primary importance to her.'

Responsible circles said that Premier Mussolini and Hitler are in full agreement on the colonial question and that Mussolini has promised to lend energetic support to the reich's claim for colonies.

After the newspaper Der Angriff warned industry yesterday to invest its profits in plants for the four year plan, the ministry of economics informed industrial leaders they must be prepared to pay $200,000,000 to help finance German exports in the coming year.

Seek to Eliminate Jews.

The four year plan for economic self-sufficiency also will be used to eliminate Jews gradually from industry "because they cannot be allowed to participate in the creation of German raw materials or claim financial help to coöperate in the four year plan."

These measures render the special new anti-Jewish legislation superfluous, Germany's chief racial expert, Dr. Walter Gross, said in a speech at Munich. He added that "persons caught engaging in sexual relations with Jews will be punished more severely than ever before."

In an effort to save the tax for the import of vital raw materials trade circles warned that the importation of textiles and cosmetics must be further curtailed. Shipping circles also warned that persons going on pleasure cruises even if they travel on German boats will be allowed less cash for expenses than previously.

NEWS CLIPPING HELPS WIFE WIN SUPPORT FIGHT

Mrs. Dora Boris, 48 years old, 3210 Walton street, was granted permission yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court to file a cross bill for separate maintenance when she exhibited a newspaper clipping. The item related the robbery of her husband, Jack Boris, 50 years old, a commission merchant. It related further that he was seated in a taxicab with Mrs. Rita Becker at the time of the holdup, which occurred on Oct. 11, 1935. Last month Boris filed suit for divorce, alleging cruelty and desertion.

FAVORS REGIONAL PLAN FOR FLOOD, DROUTH CONTROL

Roosevelt Would Create 9 or 10 Districts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Establishment of regional capitals as centers of federal planning and adminstration of flood control, drouth relief, soil erosion, navigation, reforestation, and other public works was advocated today by President Roosevelt.

The President said that after looking over a dozen proposals for orderly planning he was convinced the best was the national resources committee's suggestion for eight, nine, or ten regional authorities to assume responsibility for public works within a like number of districts.

Mr. Roosevelt made known his preference in announcing that he will send a special message to congress tomorrow on midwestern drouth relief along with a report of his great plains drouth committee. The drouth report, Mr. Roosevelt said, ties in with his message a week ago proposing a 5 billion dollar, six year program for public works to provide a bulwark against future depressions and prevent future floods.

Disputes East's Objections.

In expounding his regional authority plan Mr. Roosevelt remarked that in the east there was a widespread feeling that the west was getting more for flood control and drouth relief in proportion to population than the east. He observed that the complaint was correct although unfair.

He said that the west needed more for flood control and drouth relief both because of the severity of the climatic visitations and because of the area affected. As for the population criticism, he added with a "let them eat cake" inflection in his voice that the easterners could move to the west. The west, he said, can support twice as many people as it has today.

Asked whether this presaged revival of the resettlement program on a grand scale, Mr. Roosevelt said it did not. Moving, he said, would not be carried on at the direction of the federal government, but would be voluntary.

Projects Would Be Listed.

The President said that officers at his regional capitals, who would be named by him, would survey their regions with a view to preparing a list of needed projects. The projects would be listed in order of precedence and turned into Washington. There projects would be measured against the President's budget message to get a preferential list.

The preferential list would be submitted to congress together with the entire list so that the final discretion, Mr. Roosevelt said, would rest with congress. Congress could alter either list.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the various types of projects for the entire country would probably be limited to about 500 million dollars a year.

Chicago would be one of the regional capitals, the national resources committee said. Among others would probably be New York, San Francisco, Denver, Atlanta, New Orleans, and Boston.

Crest Passing Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Mississippi's great flood crest was passing here today, but the levees held firm and no more trouble was looked for in this vicinity. After climbing to record heights, the level of the river remained nearly constant for ten hours.

Fair weather and the fall of the river above here cheered downstream levee workers awaiting the approaching flood crests. It was expected the water would stay within the billion dollar levee system down to the gulf. Army engineers said there were no critical points in the dike system.

At Cairo, Ill., the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi, some of the 10,000 who were evacuated, including women and children, were returning, against the warning of Mayor August Bode that all flood danger has not passed.

FEARED DEAD

Denver, Colo., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Three more men were reported missing in snow clogged Colorado mountains today as searchers expressed grave fears for the fate of two Denver skiers whom they failed to find in an extensive hunt.

No word has been heard from the three since they left Jefferson, Colo., on Saturday to inspect the Guyot mine on Georgia pass near that city. The men are Horace M. Little, Denver mining promoter; Carl Brown, also of Denver, and an unidentified miner.

The place where the three disappeared is southwest of the point where Joseph Oppenheimer and John S. Oberdorfer, Denver businessmen, became lost Sunday while skiing in the Berthoud pass region, 60 miles west of here.

Theodore A. Grossman, advertising man, who accompanied the two on part of their trip, led a searching party comprised of forest rangers, CCC enrollees, Denver sportsmen, and others, but met with no success.

Storm Rakes Dixie Area.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Parts of Georgia and Alabama were swept by wind, hail, and rain storms early today. Several persons were injured and considerable damage was done.

PENT UP TRAVEL BACK TO NORMAL; CHICAGOANS SAIL

Heavy Business Likely for Rest of Season.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

After weeks of uncertainty, travel in two directions out of Chicago returned to normal this week. Subsiding of the flood in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys permitted resumption of regular train service to Florida and the gulf coast. And settlement of the marine strike on the Pacific coast released liners engaged in carrying travelers to Hawaii, the Orient, South America, and between California and New York by way of the Panama canal.

One result, travel officials said here yesterday, was the prospect of a heavy trafic movement southward and westward from this city throughout the remainder of the winter season.

Pacific Cruises Held Up.

For months the American owned steamship companies operating from Pacific coast ports had been held up by the strike at a time when, under ordinary conditions, they would have had their largest business. Now the Matson Line is once more taking its passengers on cruises to Hawaii, Samoa, Fiji, New Zealand, and Australia; the Dollar Lines are sending their steamers to Hawaii, the far east, and the canal; the Grace Line's ships are plying to South America, and the Panama-Pacific liners are cruising between the two coasts via the canal.

Numerous Chicagoans sailed this week from California ports to the Caribbean and for Europe. Fifty-three from this city are aboard the Pennsylvania on its trip from New York to California and on the Virginia sailing eastward from California, are 16 others. Bound for the West Indies and Rio de Janiero aboard the Gripsholm are 26 Chicagoans, and on the Caribbean cruise of the Georgic are 37 also from this city. Bound for the same destination on the Lafayette are a group of nine from here. The Monarch of Bermuda carried a Chicago and Evanston contingent of 14 to Bermuda last Saturday.

Chicagoans were also aboard the Vulcania, the Hamburg, the Paris, and the Berengaria when they sailed for Europe, and 13 are represented among the passengers en route to the Mediterranean on the Rex.

In addition, four checks payable to the Red Cross flood relief fund were sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE and will be turned over to the Red Cross. They were:

$108—The Nagel Chase Manufacturing company and employés.
$10—Bjornstierne Bjornson lodge, No. 97, Sons of Norway.
$5—Westminster Presbyterian church.
$3.65—Saturday Bridge club.

These checks totaled $126.65.

BELGIAN PARTIES RIOT IN CHAMBER; SESSION HALTED

BRUSSELS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Belgian chamber of deputies was suspended today after Rexists [Fascists] and Socialists came to blows during heated discussion of the Spanish civil war.

The Rexists, supported by the Flemish national coalition and Catholic Liberals, had demanded the resignation of Speaker C. Juysmans after the official refused to state his attitude on the Spanish conflict.

CHURCHES TAKE SECULAR YOUTH WORKERS IN FOLD

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The devil's lane separating religious and secular character building welfare organizations and agencies yesterday was virtually abolished. Action to this end was unanimously agreed upon last night by the conference of professional leaders of church, school, and all governmental and secular character building agencies meeting in connection with the International Council of Religious Education at the Stevens hotel.

Adoption Called Prophetic.

Dr. Stewart G. Cole, president of Kalamazoo college, Kalamazoo, Mich., who drafted the findings of the two day sessions of the professional leaders' conference, declared their adoption last night to be "prophetic and epoch making." What the action means, Dr. Cole explained, is that a governmental 4-H leader or Boy Scout executive, for instance, is to be regarded as having the same essential objectives in character building as a religious worker.

"This changes the whole philosophy of religion by raising the work of a so-called secular character building agency to the level of religious activity," said Dr. Cole. "This is the first time that church character building leaders and secular workers in such agencies as the Boy and Girl Scouts, state departments of health, American Youth commission, Big Brothers, and United States department of agriculture agencies such as 4-H clubs, have ever formally met in conference. We voted to meet again next year."

Speak in Religious Terms.

The findings, although they were jointly arrived at by secular and church workers, speak in specific theological terms. Innumerable character building projects, ranging from boat building to sewing or dramatics, were cited as agents "through which God may operate to stimulate and socialize character," according to Dr. Cole.

U. S. BUROCRATS DELAY TAX DATA, SAYS ASSESSOR

Assessor John S. Clark accused "Washington burocracy" yesterday of responsibility for allowing hundreds of millions of dollars in personal property to escape taxation in Cook county. If this property were on the rolls, he said, tax rates could be reduced.

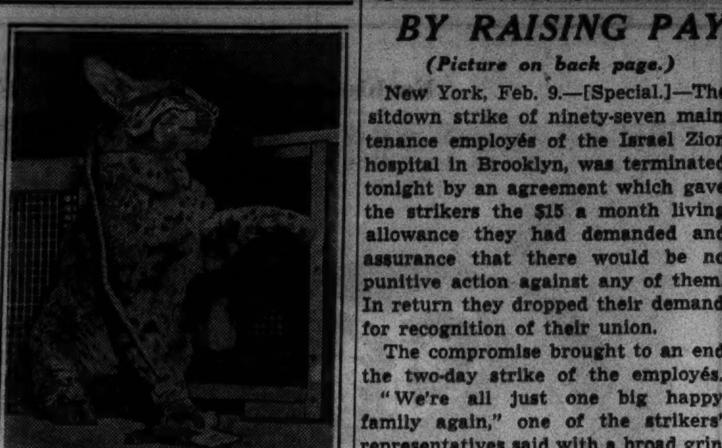
Clark declared that numerous attempts to obtain information from federal income tax returns for use in assessing personal property have been unsuccessful.

Sufficient new property has been added to the personal property rolls, the assessor announced, to offset the reduction which will result from his recently announced plan to eliminate from the present lists 600,000 taxpayers whose property is assessed at $148 or less. The total levy against these persons for 1935 was $3,931,750, of which only $250,778 was collected at a cost of $900,000.

Without waiting for adoption by the general assembly of the proposed $9,000,000 "pegged" corporate levy, the Chicago park board yesterday approved the annual tax levy ordinance for 1937. It calls for taxes of $17,749,529 for all funds, including $6,106,539 for the corporate fund, the amount the district would receive under its legal three mill tax rate.

Comptroller E. N. Heinz explained that a supplementary tax levy, increasing the corporate fund, will be adopted after the "pegged" levy is approved.

CITY'S CAPTIVE



Animal trapped on south side.

Emil Fuja, 21 years old, an employé of the Transamerican Freight Line, Inc., 3923 South Wentworth avenue, paused last night to pet an animal near a packing box in the company's receiving depot. The animal sprang at him and ripped a hole in his coat. Then it disappeared into the darkness. A searching party found it in the rafters of the building and captured it. In the light it was discovered they had trapped a wildcat about half grown. They made a cage for it and now they are looking for its owner. There was no wildcat reported missing last night.

HOSPITAL ENDS SITDOWN STRIKE BY RAISING PAY

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The sitdown strike of ninety-seven maintenance employés of the Israel Zion hospital in Brooklyn, was terminated tonight by an agreement which gave the strikers the $15 a month living allowance they had demanded and assurance that there would be no punitive action against any of them. In return they dropped their demand for recognition of their union.

The compromise brought to an end the two-day strike of the employés. "We're all just one big happy family again," one of the strikers' representatives said with a broad grin as the hospital superintendent announced the terms of the agreement.

Weary from hours of waiting in the laundry and kitchens of the institution, the strikers, who had continued to serve and feed the 380 patients in the institution, including ninety babies, nevertheless gladly resumed their duties when the agreement was announced.

Offer Pasteur Monument to U. of I. Medical School

The park board voted yesterday to offer to the University of Illinois medical school the monument of Louis Pasteur, which stands near the west end of Field museum in Burnham park. According to Robert J. Dunham, president of the board, the memorial to the French scientist must be moved to make way for the proposed widening of the outer drive at that point.

ZERO WEATHER IS NO "PICNIC" FOR MOTOR OIL, EITHER...

IT'S ridiculous, of course. Nobody goes on picnics this time of year dressed like that! But just remember that your motor oil isn't having any picnic either—bucking near-zero temperatures and still trying to do a summer-time lubrication job for you. Only a hardy motor oil and one that has very special qualities can come through.

Are you sure you have that kind of motor oil in your crankcase this winter? Your nearby Standard Oil Dealer has it all ready for you.

Iso=Vis "D" 10-W Makes Sub-Zero Starting Easier Than Any Other Motor Oil!

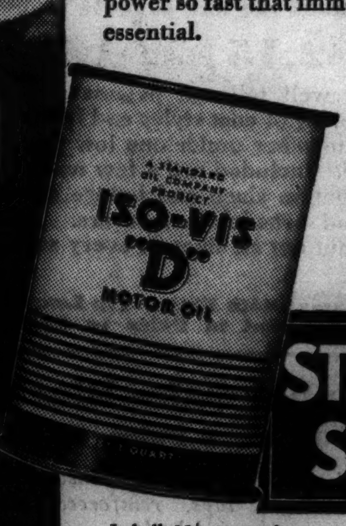
That's a strong statement, but it's backed by the results of comparative tests.

Standard Oil Company recognizes the need for a winter motor oil which allows the starter to spin the engine with ample cranking speed, even when the mercury is well below the zero mark. ISO=VIS "D" 10-W has been given that ability, but without sacrifice of the tough, heat-resisting "body" which protects your engine under all driving conditions.

If you have had trouble starting your engine in winter, by all means try ISO=VIS "D" 10-W now—and notice the difference! Your Standard Oil Dealer will take only a few short minutes to make the change.

IMPORTANT: It is especially important that you have the protection of this quick-action motor oil, in cold weather, if you are using Standard Red Crown gasoline, which develops drive-away power so fast that immediate, sure lubrication is essential.

SPECIAL FOR SUB-ZERO
ISO=VIS "D" 10-W
MAKES STARTING EASIER THAN ANY OTHER MOTOR OIL



Iso=Vis "D" is Triple-Treated by Standard Oil Company. It is (1) Vacuum Distilled, (2) dewaxed by the Propane process, and (3) purified by the Chlorex Extraction Process.

MARITAL HEALTH, PAROLE REFORMS BASES FOR BILLS

Curb on Sex Crimes Also Issue at Springfield.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Bills providing for the emasculation of sex morons, for revision of the Illinois parole system, and to force marriage license applicants to undergo a medical examination, including a test for syphilis, were introduced today at the opening of the sixth week of the Illinois general assembly.

They were among a flood of new bills presented during the day. A total of 65 new measures, dealing with a wide variety of subjects, descended on the legislators, who received only 77 in the five preceding weeks.

Text of Emasculation Bill.

The emasculation bill introduced by Representative Peter C. Granata [R., Chicago] was a revision of the bill he presented last week. He said the new measure had been drawn to meet criticisms of the first proposal. The main section of the bill reads:

"Whenever a person has been convicted of the crime of rape, incest, indecent liberties with children, sodomy, or the crime against nature, except where the offense has been committed against a person over the age of 16 years, or of attempting to commit any of said crimes against a person under the age of 16 years and is sentenced therefor to the Illinois state penitentiary, the judge of the court in which said person was convicted shall order, as a part of the judgment in the case, the department of public health of the state of Illinois to emasculate such convicted person. The time for emasculating such person shall be specified by the court and shall be within thirty [30] days after his conviction becomes final."

An end to the Illinois parole scandals is sought in the bill offered by Representative Richard J. Lyons [R., Libertyville], who has been studying the subject intensely during the recent scandalous exposures.

His bill would repeal the present parole act, eliminate the board, and would create judicial parole boards for each of the seventeen downstate circuits of the Circuit court, and one board for Cook county.

Require Medical Certificates.

Closely similar bills requiring medical certificates from all applicants for marriage licenses were presented by Edward P. Saltiel and Edward Skarda, both Chicagoans. Both are patterned after the statute now enforced in Wisconsin.

The Saltiel bill would require examinations within fifteen days prior to an application for a license, while the Skarda bill would limit the time to five days. Both provide for tests for gonorrhea and syphilis.

Each provides for free service by the state and for penalties of a maximum fine of $100 and a sentence of six months in prison for violations.

Seek to Reduce Auto Fees.

A bill seeking to reduce state license fees for pleasure automobiles to the flat sum of $5 for all cars was presented by Representative Lyons and supported by Charles H. Weber [D., Chicago].

The bill is backed by the Automobile Club of Illinois, which contends the present high revenue from car licenses is no longer necessary for road building, the purpose for which the high license fees were originally imposed.

KILLED BY SUBURBAN TRAIN.

John Woselawsky, 48 years old, was killed last evening when he was struck by a southbound Illinois Central suburban train at the 56th street station. His daughter, Victoria, 5530 Lake Park avenue, who identified the body, told police she did not know her father's address.

Senate O.K.'s Chicago School Measure to Pay Teachers

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—By a vote of 36 to 0 the state senate tonight passed the $45,000,000 pegged levy bill to finance the Chicago board of education during 1937 and henceforth.

This action partly dimmed that specter of prolonged payless pay days for teachers and other school employés who will not receive their salaries during February. If the house moves rapidly, the pegged levy can be approved in time for Chicago city council action to insure a resumption of pay on March 5.

Horner Asks Amendment.

As passed by the senate, the measure would extend the rate of $2.22 per $100 of assessed valuation indefinitely. At the request of Gov. Horner the bill will be amended in the house to limit rate to 1937, 1938, and 1939, which will insure school financing through the 1939 legislative session. The next Chicago mayoralty election will be held in 1939.

An incident of tonight's senate action was the "burying" of a resolution by Senator Louis O. Williams [D., Clinton], who continued his one-man attack upon his Democratic colleagues from Chicago who are on municipal or court pay rolls.

A "communication," as Senator Williams termed it, was sent to the office of senate secretary A. E. Eden, prior to tonight's roll call, stating that the vote would be protested if Senators Harold G. Ward, Peter P. Kielminski and Frank J. Huckin Jr., all of whom hold municipal or county jobs in Chicago, participated in it. The president pro-tempore disposed of this document by directing it to the executive committee where, no doubt exists, it will be submerged.

Sutherland Objection Fails.

Senate approval of the school bill was given in the face of objection from Douglas Sutherland of the civic federation and bureau of public efficiency. Mr. Sutherland counseled retention of the present $1.60 rate for fear real estate valuations would rise and the levy produce far more than the desired $45,000,000. Moved swiftly over to the house after the senate action, the school bill was advanced to second reading. It is expected to be amended tomorrow.

With the school problem cared for for the moment, the senate considered the $9,000,000 pegged levy bill for the Chicago park district, which Mr. Sutherland also is opposing. He feels that the 9 million peg is too high and that 8 would suffice.

Gov. Horner also told the park representatives, Attorney William H. Sexton and Milton E. Connelly, assistant secretary of the park district, that the levy was "too high." He did not suggest any specific reductions.

Despite these attitudes, which Mr. Sutherland repeated to the senate tonight, that body advanced the bill to third reading where it can be called on final roll call tomorrow.

Gives Comparative Costs.

Connelly, at Mr. Horner's request, presented figures today on the comparative costs of operating the parks of the city before and after the 1933 consolidation. These statistics revealed a reduction of more than 5 million dollars annually as a result of consolidation.

The average expenditures of all the 22 park districts during the five years prior to consolidation was $25,082,589. For the purposes of comparison this figure was matched with the 1936 expenditures, the highest of any three years after consolidation. In 1936, their parks cost the taxpayers $20,188,251. Connelly told the governor that consolidation had resulted in a saving of approximately 21 per cent.

In explaining the stand of the Chicago park district, Connelly told Gov. Horner that the proposed 9 mililon peg would apply for 1937, 1938, and 1939. In other words, the district is seeking to insure its financing through the 1939 session of the legislature. That also is the year of the next mayoralty election.

Aurora 'Doctor' Is Found Guilty of Quackery by Jury

A verdict of guilty was returned by a jury in Kane county court at Geneva yesterday afternoon against "Dr." J. R. Andrews of 427 Main street, Aurora, who operated what he called "Dr. Andrews' Health Service." He was charged with violating the medical practice act. A motion for a new trial will be argued Feb. 26. The penalty will be fixed by Judge Olney C. Allen, who presided at the trial.

Aurora Raises Teacher Pay; $876 a Year Is Minimum

The Aurora board of education voted a 10 per cent increase in salary yesterday to teachers in the west side school district. The raise, which will go into effect at the opening of the fall term next September, brings the maximum annual salary to $2,268 and the minimum to $876.

SPEAKER NAMES COMMITTEES OF ILLINOIS HOUSE

M'Sweeney Is Deposed at Request of Horner.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Reappointment was the rule followed by Speaker Louie E. Lewis in naming the standing committees of the Illinois house of representatives, announced late this evening.

The long delay in the appointments was laid at the door of Gov. Henry Horner. In this respect the record of the house is far different from that made by the senate, which established a record by completing its organization on Jan. 12 without consulting the governor as to his wishes.

It was said that Mr. Horner asked and obtained several changes in the list prepared by Speaker Lewis and his advisers, but the only one that stood out on the surface was the removal of John R. McSweeney, seven-term Chicago veteran, from chairmanship of the committee on motor vehicles and trafic regulation which he held last session.

Primary Foe of Horner.

McSweeney vigorously opposed Horner in the 29th ward in the primary campaign last April, and in doing so fought Martin J. O'Brien, one of the two Chicago Democratic ward committeemen who backed the governor.

McSweeney was the only chairman ousted by Lewis, and as twenty-one other chairmen—those who still are in the house and were not elevated to more important posts—were reappointed for the new session, it is believed the change showed the influence of Committeeman O'Brien with the governor. So far as is known there have been no personal differences between the speaker and McSweeney.

The complete list of chairmen named follows:

AGRICULTURE—Frank B. Wilson, Polo.

APPROPRIATIONS—James P. Boyle, Chicago.

BANKS AND BANKING—Schaefer O'Neill, Alton.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS—Edward Skarda, Chicago.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS—George J. Bauer, Effingham.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS — Ben W. Alpiner, Kankakee.

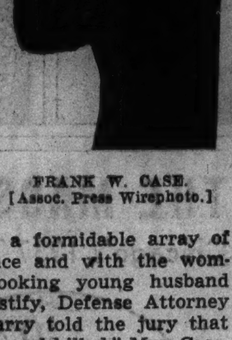
PENAL INSTITUTIONS — Dr. Frank A. Stewart, Girard.

WATERWAYS—Charles H. Weber, Chicago.

The change considered most important was the elevation of F. W. Lewis to the chairmanship of the judiciary committee. He was elevated from the executive committee chairmanship which now goes to Adamowski, the newly elected majority leader. Representative Swift, chairman of the newly created health committee, is a physician.

CONCEDES BATHTUB SLAYER'S GUILT, BUT PLEADS FOR HIS LIFE

New York, Feb. 9.—[Special.]—In a surprising courtroom move, attorneys defending Major Green, colored porter, charged with the bathtub slaying of Mrs. Mary Harriet Case, frankly admitted today that he killed her and appealed to a Queens jury to save him from the electric chair on a technicality.



FRANK W. CASE.
[Assoc. Press Wirephoto.]

Faced with a formidable array of state's evidence and with the woman's tragic looking young husband waiting to testify, Defense Attorney Richard J. Barry told the jury that Green "struck and killed" Mrs. Case. However, he hedged his client around with verbal fences that may save his life. He insisted that Green did not premeditate the slaying.

Shortly afterward, a pale, grief-stricken young man, Frank W. Case, husband of the slain woman, faced the jury. His words and mien were impressive and observers felt that it may clinch a death verdict, despite Attorney Barry's desperate move.

Dr. Frank Smithies, noted physician who is known as an authority on intestional ailments,, died in Augustana hospital yesterday at the age of 56 years.

DR. FRANK SMITHIES.

He was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage while asleep in his home at 44 East Banks street on Sunday. His wife, the former Mary Louise Kellam of Topeka, Kas., was at his bedside in the hospital when he died.

Born in Elland, England, Dr. Smithies came to Chicago when a boy, attended the Calumet High school, and in 1904 was graduated from the medical school of the University of Michigan. He studied at the University of Berlin and in Guy's hospital in London. From 1906 to 1910 he was an instructor in medicine at the University of Michigan.

Once With Mayo Clinic.

In 1911 Dr. Smithies became a gastroenterologist at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. Three years later he entered diagnostic practice in Chicago, specializing in diseases of the digestive system. He was an associate professor at the University of Illinois from 1915 to 1920, and for five years after a full professor.

Dr. Smithies gained wide attention in 1916 with his book on cancer of the stomach. He also wrote numerous other articles on medical subjects. He was editor of the American Journal of Digestive Diseases and Nutrition, and associate editor of several other medical publications.

In 1925 Dr. Smithies announced an improved treatment for ulcers of the stomach and duodenum, which was based largely on special diet.

Dr. Smithies had served successively as president of the American College of Physicians, the American Gastroenterological association, the American Society of Tropical Medicine and the American Therapeutic society. In 1933 he was awarded the cross of the French Legion of Honor.

Crippled, but Sportlover.

Although he had been crippled since boyhood by a hip affliction, Dr. Smithies was a lover of sports.

Besides his widow, three children survive. They are John Smithies of Philadelphia, Thomas Smithies, a senior at Princeton university, and Katherine Smithies, who is attending the Connecticut college for women in New London.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in the Smithies home. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

SAM SHIPMAN, WEALTHY MAKER OF DRAMAS, DIES

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Samuel Shipman, 53, author of more than 30 plays, died today after an illness diagnosed two days ago as pneumonia. His most recent play, "Behind Red Lights," is being performed here.

Two of his most widely known plays were "Friendly Enemies" and "East Is West." Both were collaborations and big financial successes.

Shipman did not always find favor with the critics, but he attracted large audiences. Broadway gossip several years ago was that he had garnered more than $1,000,000 in royalties.

He once said: "There is but one art the playwrights must have. It is the art of the keeping the public in their seats. If he does that he is an artist."

It was his custom to retire to a hotel suite with two stenographers and a collaborator, and turn out plays in rapid order.

Trip Reveals Maze of Varied Regulations.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The Tribune's trafic survey truck crossed Illinois from Vincennes, Ind., on United States highway 50 without seeing a single state highway patrolman. The distance was 150 miles and we were seven hours en route. It is the most important travel artery across the southern part of the state, seemingly unpoliced.

The absence of police protection was not regretted by the driver, Vincent Glynn of New York. He enjoyed the freedom from police molestation.

On this cross-country tour every reasonable effort is being made to conform to the regulations of the various states traversed. But the lack of uniformity of these regulations makes conformity difficult if not impossible.

The cross-country truck driver is almost constantly exposed to arrest and a fine or to a police shakedown. State patrolmen do not cause as much trouble as venal village constables. In the Chicago metropolitan area there is an occasional open season on trucks in one of the small towns.

Lighting Illustrates Conflicts.

The single item of lighting equipment is illustrative of this lack of uniformity among the states. Mr. Glynn's tractor and semi-trailer combination complies with the laws of New York, whence this trip was started. At night it has 25 electric bulbs burning red, green, and white like a Christmas tree. There is no doubt of the adequacy of his lighting, but he could be arrested and fined in Illinois.

On the front of the survey truck, in adition to the head lamps, are a string of three green lights immediately over the windshield of the cab, two green lights marking the width of the top of the trailer and two green lights marking the width of the bottom of the trailer. The two top lights should be omitted in Illinois and the string at three greens moved to the top. The bottom clearance lamps should be replaced by a single yellow or amber reflector on the lower left corner of the vehicle.

Amber Reflectors Required.

On the one side of the New York trailer there are three green lights along its bottom, one at each end and the third in the middle. The Illinois law provides for amber tinted reflectors on the side.

The string of three red lights on the rear of the survey truck is permissible in Illinois but it is a violation in Kentucky. In Kentucky the red cluster belongs in front and the green in the rear. In Michigan both the front and the rear triple lights must be green.

There is a similar confusion in other equipment requirements. Take for example the warning signals for any emergency stop on the pavement. We are carrying two oil burning flares, red flags and lanterns. Some states require fuses. In South Carolina the signals must be posted 20 feet in front and 20 feet in the rear of the stopped vehicle. In Kansas the driver must post his warnings 500 feet in front and 500 feet in the rear.

There is also a wide variation among the states in maximum legal weights and dimensions.

So with these and other technicalities ever threatening him with arrest, Chauffeur Glynn does not care to protest to Gov. Henry Horner about the lack of policing on United States highway 50 when the Tribune trafic survey truck crossed Illinois.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Pig Stork Busy.

February 9, 1937.

MEN with lanterns in their hands have been darting in and out of the barn at all hours of the night during the last two weeks, nursing brood sows that are filling the stalls with black and white pigs at the Tribune experimental farm near Yorkville and Plano. Fifteen sows have farrowed, but that is only the beginning; there are seventy-four other sows and gilts yet to farrow before plowing time this spring.

Almost every available stall in one of the horse barns has been taken over by the sows. Fourteen mature sows have saved eighty-six pigs, an average of slightly more than six pigs per sow. Individual sows' litters vary from two to fourteen.

The workers have established an outdoor "hog kitchen," army style, where warm swill is kept ready to feed the sows any hour day or night. The swill is heated in a big steaming caldron kept near the barn.

Swill Swell, Say Swine.

Appetizing swill is made for the sows by pouring three bushels of oats into the caldron with fifty gallons of water. Then a small amount of tankage is added. The caldron is refilled after each feeding. The swill is cooked over a slow fire from one feed to the next.

The eighty-six pigs are yet too small to eat swill but they will begin eating a little when they are about three weeks old.

There are five more of the mature sows to farrow soon. The sows are of the Hampshire and Chester White breeds and have been mated to boars of the same breeds. In the breeding herd there are sixty-nine gilts bred to farrow later in the spring.

Trees Show Hardships.

Severe drouths and extremely cold weather previous to this winter have caused serious injury in the apple orchard at the Wheaton farm. In pruning recently workers found that practically every apple tree in the orchard had been injured by the unfavorable weather during the last few years. They found a fairly high percentage of the smaller branches dead and a few of the major branches dead.

Not only are the tree branches dead in many cases but the trees are weakened to the point they will be more susceptible to unfavorable weather and to insect attacks in the future. Despite efforts to protect the trees from pests by means of spraying regularly, many of them have been attacked by scale parasites.

In addition to trimming all the dead wood out of the apple trees and burning the brush, the workers are pruning about 300 elm trees along the driveway that crosses the farm. The catalpa trees along the avenue were trimmed last year and will not need to be pruned again this winter.

TREATMENT FOR SINUS TROUBLES AVOIDS SURGERY

Nerve System Correction and Diet Essential.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Nasal surgery and nasal sinus operations, in mos tcases, can be avoided by correction of the sympathetic nervous system, proper diet, and correction of the endocrines, says a report today in the Medical Record by Julius A. Haiman, M. D., of New York City.

The medical name of these "sinus" ailments is vaso-motor rhinitis. The troubles include involuntary tears, excessive sneezing, puffy eyes, difficult nasal breathing, swollen nasal passages, and sometimes nasal growths called polyps.

These persons often are said to be "waterlogged." Dr. Haiman said they are subject to frequent chest colds, bronchial asthma, nausea, and other gastro-intestinal manifestations.

Traced to Nervous System.

All these troubles Dr. Haiman traced to instability of the sympathetic nervous systme, endocrine deficiencies and food, resulting in "apparent sinus trouble."

"These individuals," he said, "have many anxieties and if the physician in charge does not go into the cause of these anxieties, little result, if any, will be accomplished. Their spirits are low, they feel beyond help.

Dr. Haiman said the waterlogged condition is "often" associated with a waterlogged, swollen appendix, which is mistaken for acute appendicitis and removed.

Treatment Is Explained.

In the treatment, nasal breathing passages, if obstructed, are cleared by electro-coagulation. Anxieties are appeased. Endocrine gland troubles are adjusted. But the essential treatment is correction of the sympathetic nervous system and diet.

"The dietetic régime," Dr. Haiman said, "is elimination of sweets, fats, carbohydrates, condiments, fish, shell foods, milk, eggs, alcohol, and tobacco.

"Only a small quantity of food should be taken at a time, but at frequent intervals, as many as five or six meals daily, of fresh vegetables, lean meats, fruit juices, raw fruit, and stewed fruits without sugar, and buttermilk or tea.

IN PERJURY NET

A few minutes after a jury returned a verdict of $15,000 yesterday for Nathaniel C. Ross, 53 years old, 5155 Lincoln avenue, in a personal injury suit, John Tolomeo, 34 years old, 5501 Kamerling avenue, a witness, was sentenced to ninety days in jail for contempt of court by Judge John P. McGoorty of the Superior court.

Judge McGoorty also instructed the state's attorney to institute perjury charges against Tolomeo. He was the driver of a truck for the S. & H. Levy company which struck Ross at Sangamon and Randolph streets on March 1, 1935, causing serious injuries. Ross sued the company for $20,000 damages.

On direct examination Tolomeo testified he was traveling 15 miles an hour and saw Ross 50 feet ahead of him, about to step off the curb. Under cross-examination he admitted saying after the accident that his speed was 25 miles an hour and Ross was 30 feet away. Then under redirect examination Tolomeo said this latter statement was a lie.

ALL CONCERNED ASSAIL PARKERS IN WENDEL CASE

Tells Story on Stand of Fake Confession.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Prosecution and defense alike poured out their wrath on the heads of the two Ellis Parkers in Kings County court today as the state brought to book three men accused of abducting Paul H. Wendel and wringing from him by torture a false confession that he kidnaped Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The noted Burlington county, N. J., detective and his son, Ellis Parker Jr., were not in court to hear themselves described by both sides as "master minds" of a scheme to prove Wendel guilty and Bruno Richard Hauptmann innocent of the Lindbergh kidnap-murder.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman refused to grant their extradition to New York from New Jersey for trial with three others indicted.

Wendel, a former New Jersey lawyer once convicted of perjury, told again today his story of being kidnaped by Murray Bleefeld, Martin Schlossman, and Harry Weiss, linking the Parkers into his testimony.

In a letter introduced late in the day he attempted to show that Gov. Hoffman approved Parker's work and congratulated him on his "catch."

"This plan was conceived in the mind of Parker," District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan told the jurors, "and was carried out under the supervision, control, and direction of his son."

William B. Turkus, defense counsel, called his clients "these dupes, these fools," and spoke repeatedly of "the great Parker, the great Hawkshaw" as he told the jury he would prove his clients were tools in the hands of the Parkers.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT ORDERS AMNESTY FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—President Cardenas today decreed a sweeping amnesty for political offenders. It applied to all Mexicans, soldiers or civilians, convicted or accused of rebellion, sedition or other subversive activities.

Making use of the special powers given him by congress before it adjourned on Dec. 31, Cardenas quashed 3,841 court proceedings against more than 10,000 persons accused of anti-government plots or acts. He also ordered the release from prison of all previously convicted political offenders.

Cardenas, in the preamble to his decree, said "the era of organic peace" prevailing in Mexico had led him to proclaim amnesty for "those who in times of political agitation made attempts against the stability of our politico-social régime."

CONSTIPATED? It's Nerves Not Poisons That Make You DIZZY and DOPEY

Modern doctors now say that poisons from constipation swell up digestive organs causing pressure on nerves in this region. This nerve pressure causes frequent bilious spells, dizziness, headaches, sour stomach, dull, tired out feeling, sleepless nights, coated tongue, bad taste and loss of appetite.

Don't fool with laxatives that give slow action, overnight relief, or are timed to act in 12 to 24 hours. What you want is QUICK results. GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES. Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone, the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure stops. Almost at once you feel marvelously refreshed, blues vanish, and life looks bright again.

That is why so many doctors are now insisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should insist on Adlerika. This efficient intestinal evacuant contains SEVEN Carminative and cathartic ingredients. It acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. It relieves stomach distress at once and often removes intestinal congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

FREE Trial size of Adlerika will be mailed FREE to any adult. Send name and address to ADLERIKA, DEPT. 182, ST. PAUL, MINN.

Most Children Welcome New Baby Eagerly

'Affection for Infant Is Sincere, Unaffected.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

In yesterday's column we were trying to picture what our emotions would be, conscious or otherwise, if we were the firstborn and a new baby brother or sister were sprung on us as a surprise. And the final sentence in the article was: "Do you think that would be fair?"

Perhaps that question should be changed to, "Do you believe it is quite wise to spring a new baby on your first born?"

If you think a minute you will realize that it isn't wise, nor is it fair or kind.

In making this statement I'm not thinking of a first child's possible jealousy, or hurt feelings, or of his missing being the center of the stage—even though all those things should be avoided.

There are more deep seated and less obvious results that a second baby may have on the only child, and these effects may be fine for that child or otherwise, and depend greatly on the parents. The coming of a new baby does something to the status of the other children in the family, particularly of that of the youngest or to the only child.

Children can be made to understand that a new baby means many new things: a new interest and love for them to experience, but also new care, and a large share of their parents' time and attention necessarily taken up by the helpless little newcomer. At the same time they must be assured that the presence of another child will not mean less love for any one of them.

Most children are ready to welcome new little brothers and sisters. Their natural tendency is to receive the new baby with loving, open arms. Give them a chance to do this, and recognize that the difficult time is not, in most cases, the anticipation of the baby's coming. It is more apt to be after the baby has arrived, when parents and relatives and friends lose their heads a little under the spell of the delectable newcomer.

Art Reviewer Urges Visits to These Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two extremely pleasant one-man shows have opened in galleries on the near north side. Arnold E. Turtle is showing paintings of Florida and Illinois in the Palette and Chisel Academy of Fine Arts, 1012 North Dearborn street, and Charles Oglesby Longabaugh is represented in the Allerton House gallery with a group of water colors and oils.

The painters are as dissimilar as could well be imagined in their techniques, but nevertheless each contributes something exciting and picturesque to the art shows of the moment.

Mr. Turtle has long been recognized for the impressionistic quality in his work. He paints loosely and delicately, suggesting rather than stressing the points he wishes to make. His colors are as exquisite as those found on the inside of a sea shell or upon a butterfly's wing. In some of his pictures it is almost as though he poured the paint out and stopped its flowing with a fairy wand. There is a magical translucence about his work that is most intriguing. Yet the two most stunning compositions in his current show have less of this delicate touch upon them than one might think necessary for success. They are "From the South" and "In Duneland."

Charles Longabaugh had a water color exhibit last year in the Allerton gallery and it was one of the highlights of the winter. He is repeating his success now with a group of recent water colors and a handful of oils. His painting is fresh, decorative, flexible, and interesting. His pictures are most charming. Their prices are remarkably low, which is a point in these times. One can walk the gallery for an hour and still find a fresh thrill in his clever mastery of his medium.

A storm threatening over the sand dunes is one of the effective paintings and others are the several small, cheerful autumn scenes running from cornfield to sumach. A visit to Canada resulted in a number of splendid sketches, the "Five Minutes to the U. S. A." being one of the best. The boat studies are admirable, and the little "Laughing Model" is delightful. No one should miss this show.

MR. AND MRS. DELOS A. BLODGETT II.

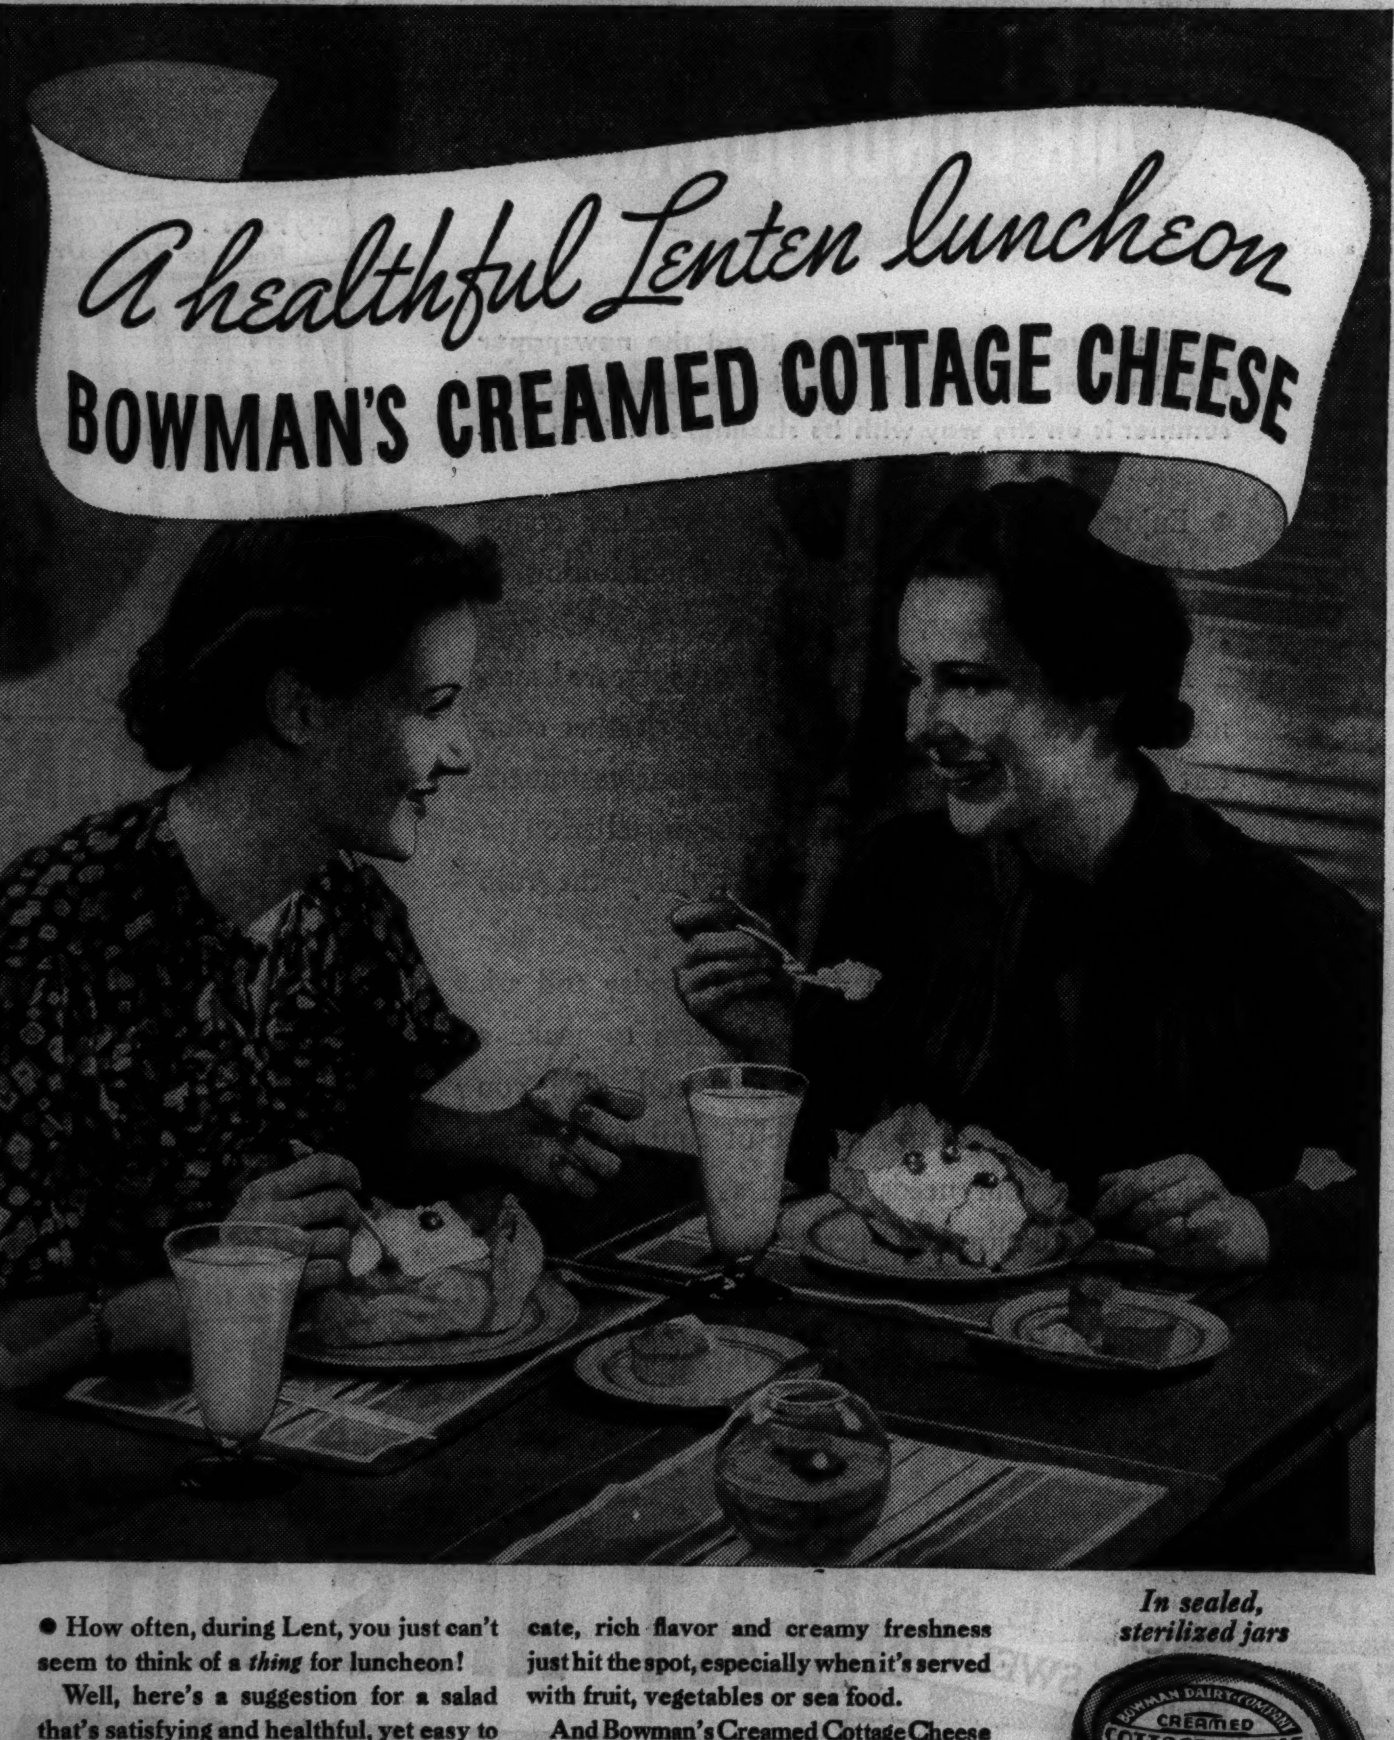
The marriage of Mrs. Carlisle Sullivan Foley to Delos A. Blodgett II. that is being announced today by the bride's father, Judge Denis E. Sullivan, will surprise most of her friends. The ceremony was performed at noon yesterday in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr. by Judge Ross C. Hall, a cousin of the junior Mrs. Sullivan's father, James R. Offield.

The bride's other brother, Edmond M. Sullivan, and his bride of a few months, the former Isabel Gordon, and Scribner Fitz Hugh, a friend of both the bride and bridegroom, were the only guests at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett left immediately following a wedding breakfast for Washington, D. C., to see his mother, Mrs. Delos Blodgett, and his sisters, Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin and Mrs. Pierre Gaillard. Then they will go to Jamaica before embarking on a six weeks' trip by air around South America. After a visit in Miami, at the end of their flying trip, Mr. Blodgett will take his bride to New York to make their home. He has two daughters, Marion and Audrey, 17 and 12 years old, respectively. Their mother was the late Marion Hilliard Blodgett.



• How often, during Lent, you just can't seem to think of a thing for luncheon!

Well, here's a suggestion for a salad that's satisfying and healthful, yet easy to prepare. Mark your Bowman card for a jar of Creamed Cottage Cheese. Its delicate, rich flavor and creamy freshness just hit the spot, especially when it's served with fruit, vegetables or sea food.

Ugly Duckling Is Girl Who Is Just Lazy

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about percentages of effort put into this business of being attractive. We spoke of the 25 per centers and less, the 50 per centers, and the women who leave not a single loophole in their consistent daily care and improvement, and thereby achieve reputations that are enviable.

I think it a good thought to hold, this percentage business. By how much honest effort you give toward making a better looking person you determine the effort percentage. Let's analyze the 25 per centers just for convenience. We will appoint Mrs. A. the typical 25 per center. She is the woman who always is going to improve her looks. Tomorrow is her day for getting at that silhouette, now long lost in a welter of bumpy flesh. Today she'll have three more fat meals. Today she'll not make a move she doesn't have to. Today her hair can look as it does, unbrushed unwaved, unlovely. Tomorrow she's going to start in on her skin.

Yes, it needs it, but tomorrow is the day. Tomorrow she'll begin smartening up on her dress. She won't wear those disorderly foundation garments any more, nor the spotted frocks, nor the soiled collars, and cuffs. Today she'll get in another lick with them. That's Mrs. A, the 25 per center who isn't putting even 25 per cent effort into making herself presentable.

Mrs. B is our 50 per center. She is the woman whose children say; "Yes, Mom, you're not bad looking when you fix yourself up!" Mrs. B has it in her, but it takes an occasion or a series of occasions to put her to work on herself. Maybe we are rating her too high, but at least she doesn't "let herself go" completely and she does come up often enough to make folks realize she could be a knockout if she tried. The reason she isn't the knockout is that she only puts half the effort into herself that she might.

Mrs. C, the 75 per center, is the woman who looks well most of the time, with occasional slumps. But she is aware of her possibilities and she gets back on the job when she isn't getting her usual compliments.

Mrs. D, our 100 per center, represents a growing group of women who put everything they have into being outstanding as decorative women. There is a system to Mrs. D's living, a pride that won't even let herself witness a single day's departure from the grooming and dress standard established.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It seems almost indecent to be thinking, much less writing, about sun tan oils on a February day. But never a day passes, it seems to us, when someone doesn't pop up with the report that she's leaving for a sojourn in the southern sun and wants to know what to use to court that deep coat of tan that makes stay-at-homes so envious.

There's a new oil out that seems to us to have everything to recommend it. It's an antiseptic oil; it's very inexpensive and we're told by people who've experimented with it that it does more than one job well.

This oil, which is unlike any other you've seen—it's ruby red, with a lovely gardenia-ish scent—acts as a filter for those burning rays. It will save you a painful sunburn. In addition it insures an even, golden tan and its nourishing properties prevent that "shriveling" that so often follows prolonged exposure to sun. What's more, it's not messy.

More and more people, as you've probably noticed, are going in for sun lamp treatments in their own homes. They can develop a grand coat of tan with this oil; we're recommending it to all our pals who have such lamps around the house.

This oil prevents the drying, peeling process that is so unattractive—it protects the skin, replaces the natural oil sun takes out, and gives that nice, rich tan women love so dearly.

Whether you're taking your sun at home or abroad you should take it coated with this.

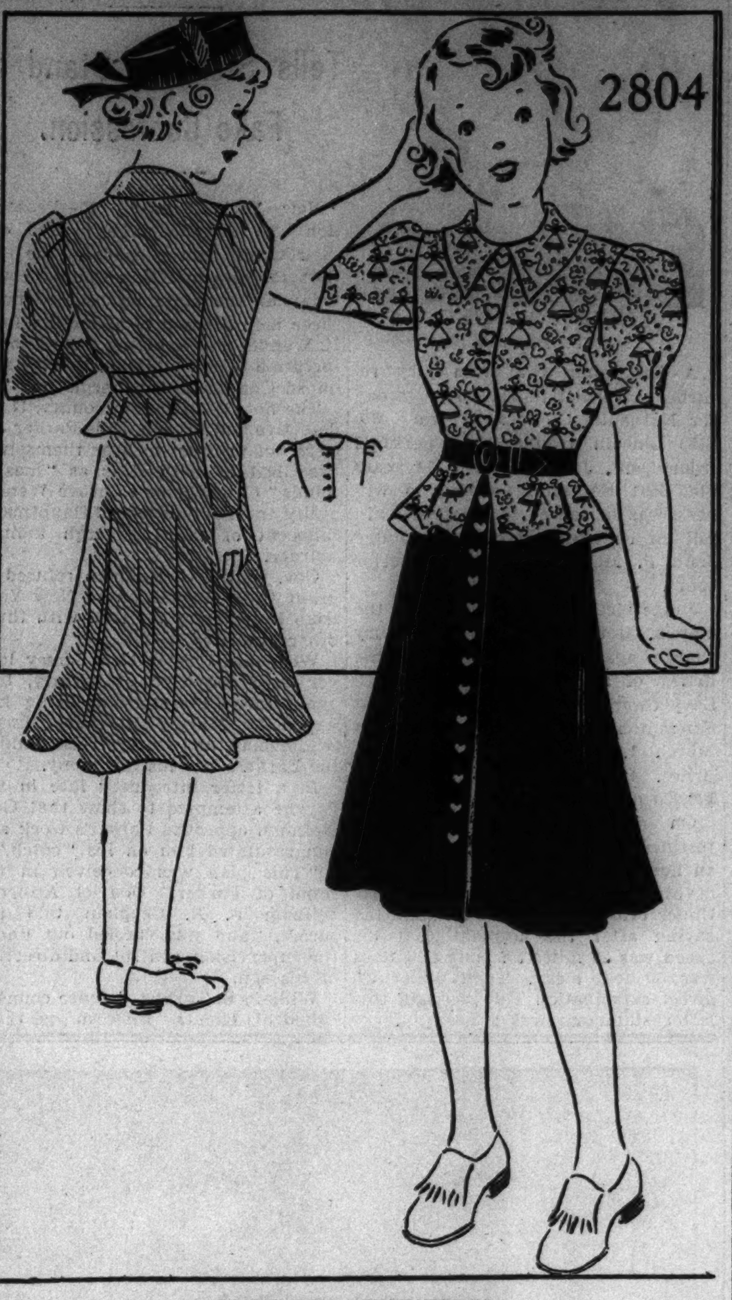
Adult Styling for Juvenile



GIRL'S TWO-PIECE DRESS.

If the younger sister of the family has been envying her grownup sisters' charming peplum dresses, she may have one of her own now, and styled in just as sophisticated a manner. There is nothing juvenile about the frock illustrated today, yet it is perfect for girls from 6 to 14 years of age. It makes either a practical dress for school or a dressy model for parties, depending upon the fabric selected.

The original of this dress is fashioned of challis, the blouse in print, and the skirt in plain in a harmonizing tone. The buttons are heart shaped.

Style No. 2804 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material for the skirt, and ⅝ yard of 35 inch lining for the bodice. The blouse requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Woman's Writing Shows Lack of Initiative.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

One of the letters that came to me recently read: "Having worked for twenty-three years without having lost a position because of incompetency, it seems nonsense I should still live in fear of such a happening. It makes me feel as if I am a coward."

Below is her handwriting:

I am a coward

Notice the calmly rounded letters of good width. This person is possessed of an excellent disposition and she gets along very well with others. She is sociable and amiable and probably never has lost a friend through any fault of her own.

Such a likable and intelligent person as this writing reveals certainly shouldn't live in fear of losing her position, especially with such an excellent record. Yet fear always has a source.

To discover the reason here we must notice that this writing is without a slant and that all of the letters are neatly closed. The wide, unslanted letters show a lack of initiative that would make it difficult for the writer if she were to lose her position. Realizing this in her subconscious mind, she thinks she is afraid of losing her job, when she is really afraid of what she would do if she did.

The locked a's and o's with no slant show she is not a talker. Perhaps that is another reason that she has been so satisfactory for so many years, but it also explains her dread of any need of jobseeking. I've heard a person—one who left the letters in her writing wide open—say: "I love to look for a job. It's much more fun than working!" Persons like today's writer don't think so.

With such a pleasant, competent nature there is little likelihood of this person losing her job. If she does lose it she must not wait placidly for another to come to her. One sometimes needs initiative as much as ability.

Masked Throngs Fill New Orleans Streets for Gay Mardi Gras

New Orleans, La., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A half million celebrants tramped the streets from dawn to dusk today when gay New Orleans casts aside everyday cares in honor of its century old Mardi Gras.

Parades and individual celebrations were the order of the day as thousands of masked, costumed celebrants took over the city.

Rex this year was A. B. Patterson, president of the New Orleans Public service. His queen and royal consort was Miss Jessie Wing Janvier, debutante daughter of Judge and Mrs. George Janvier.

Streets were jammed and barrooms were so full customers had to serve themselves.

After nightfall social circles came out for the exclusive ball of Comus, oldest of the carnival organizations, and Rex, the carnival king.

When the St. Louis cathedral clock struck midnight, Rex greeted the king of Comus, bringing an official end to carnival, and signalizing the start of Lent.

A TRIBUTE to a patron and patroness of the arts was the organ sketch, or so the composer called it, played at a recent meeting of the America Opera society at the penthouse apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff. The piece was dedicated to the Woodruffs and its theme is based on their telephone number, 8877. C above middle C being the eighth note and B the seventh note, the theme was based on the four notes CC, BB, or 8877.

MENTION of patronesses of music brings to mind that Schoenberg's fourth quartet has been dedicated to Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge and that Stravinsky and Honegger are writing quartets for her next summer. Practically every living composer [except perhaps Sibelius and Strauss, who got started before Mrs. Coolidge did!] have dedicated a work to this great patron of contemporary music.

Mrs. Coolidge said recently that she didn't worry about the merits of the music she commissioned. She prefers to leave that to her grandchildren. People seldom understand the music written in their own time, she added.

It will be followed [date not announced] by "The Good Old Summertime," a play by Martin Flavin, recently staged in New York under the title "Around the Corner."

The federal [WPA] theater project will stage in the Princess theater, late in February, a play of Negro life called Mississippi Rainbow," written by John Charles Brownell. It has had a few professional performances in New York. Art Smith, who was prominent in the Goodman theater repertory company during the five years of its existence, will be the stage director.

Special matinée performances of "O, Say Can You Sing?" the WPA revue at the Great Northern theater, will be given on Friday of this week and on Washington's birthday.

Lent to Open Today; Brings Lecture Series

Curb Is Placed on Social Activities of Season.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY marks the beginning of the Lenten season, which means that for the next forty days social activities will be curtailed and life will be much less busy and hectic than it has been since early fall for those who figure in social circles. Lectures and music will fill more hours than usual and churchgoers will spend more time in church than at any other period during the year.

To devout Christians, of course, Lent is a time of fasting, and so is it to many who are less devout, for it is a favorite time for reducing or "going on the wagon" or giving up cigarets by those who feel the need of losing weight or of abstaining temporarily from such mundane pleasures or minor vices as drinking and smoking.

Among the many lecture courses offered each year during Lent none is more popular than the one sponsored by the Chapel guild of the Cenacle. The first lecture this year will be given next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of Edward I. Cudahy, 1501 State parkway, by Msgr. David T. O'Dwyer. His subject will be "Literary Survey and Forecast of Catholic Biographical Writers."

The late Mrs. Cudahy was a member of the Cenacle guild and always opened her home for one of the lectures each year, so Mr. Cudahy has continued the practice. The other four lectures will be given at the Lake Shore Drive hotel with a different woman as hostess each time.

Give Luncheon Today for Mrs. Coolidge.

Carleton Smith is giving a luncheon today at the Casino for Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, who is leaving soon to return to her home in the east after a fortnight's visit in Chicago, where she used to live. After luncheon Mr. Smith will play some of the Caucasian and Central Asiatic folk songs which he recorded last fall.

Chicago's best known music lovers have been keeping Mrs. Coolidge busy during her visit, for they all wanted to entertain for this illustrious music patroness.

Travelers bring back word that wherever one meets composers—in soviet Russia, Budapest, Paris, London, anywhere, in fact—they speak enthusiastically of Mrs. Coolidge as being the sponsor of much of the good music that is contemporary. In many cases she has paid for the writing of it and has arranged for its performance in all the principal music centers. Her name undoubtedly will be placed in history along with those of such noble patrons of the arts as the Esterhazys of Austria-Hungary, the Italian dukes of Este and King Ludwig of Bavaria. This time Mrs. Coolidge brought the Pro Arte String quartet of Belgium to Chicago to give a series of six Beethoven recitals at the University of Chicago.

Stock Returns; Hofmann Plays with Symphony

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Josef Hofmann, world famous pianist, have both returned to the city's concert stage. The former has been absent on vacation for about a month; the latter last played here a little over a year ago. The two musicians appeared as director and soloist, respectively, at yesterday afternoon's Chicago Symphony orchestra concert.

The program opened with the Harty transcription of Handel's "Water Music," which received a performance marked by sturdiness and directness rather than by excessive attention to nuance and texture. Following it came the set of six variations by six different composers on a simple Russian folk theme. Curiously, this strangely planned work gives an impression of unity despite the number of cooks who had a hand in the broth.

The Szostakowicz First Symphony grows much more attractive on repeated hearing. Some of its themes are genuinely good musical ideas, it would seem, for closer acquaintance with them smooths out their angularities and permits one to glimpse the valid, if somewhat strange and puzzling, beauties which the composer strove to embody in this youthful, insurgent symphony.

Yesterday's performance clearly displayed Szostakowicz's diverse qualities. He is pert, epigrammatic, restless, heavy-laden—all this by turns and sometimes together.

Mr. Hofmann gave an impeccable account of the Schumann concerto. Impeccable from a musical or a technical standpoint, that is, for some miss in his conception of the great work the warm, passionate romanticism of its creator and the surging enthusiasm which was no doubt a little naïve but certainly exciting.

On Thursday night and Friday afternoon Mr. Hofmann will play the Beethoven E flat concerto with the orchestra.

Emerson Abernethy, resident baritone, sang the entire Schubert "Winterreise" in Kimball hall last night. Elsie Alexander accompanied him.

This cycle of twenty-four songs, whose subject matter is excessively and sometimes ridiculously romantic, boasts some of Schubert's finest ideas —"The Raven," "The Guide Post," and "The Wayside Inn" among them.

The tenuous story on which the songs are strung tells of the winter journeyings of an utterly humorless young man who allows the tears to freeze on his face, the frost to turn his black hair to the semblance of gray, and a raven, eager for his demise, to follow every inch of the way. All this, mind you, for no better reason than that a "fräulein" who used to wander hand in hand with him during the summer months found her interests turning to other matters with the approach of the autumnal equinox.

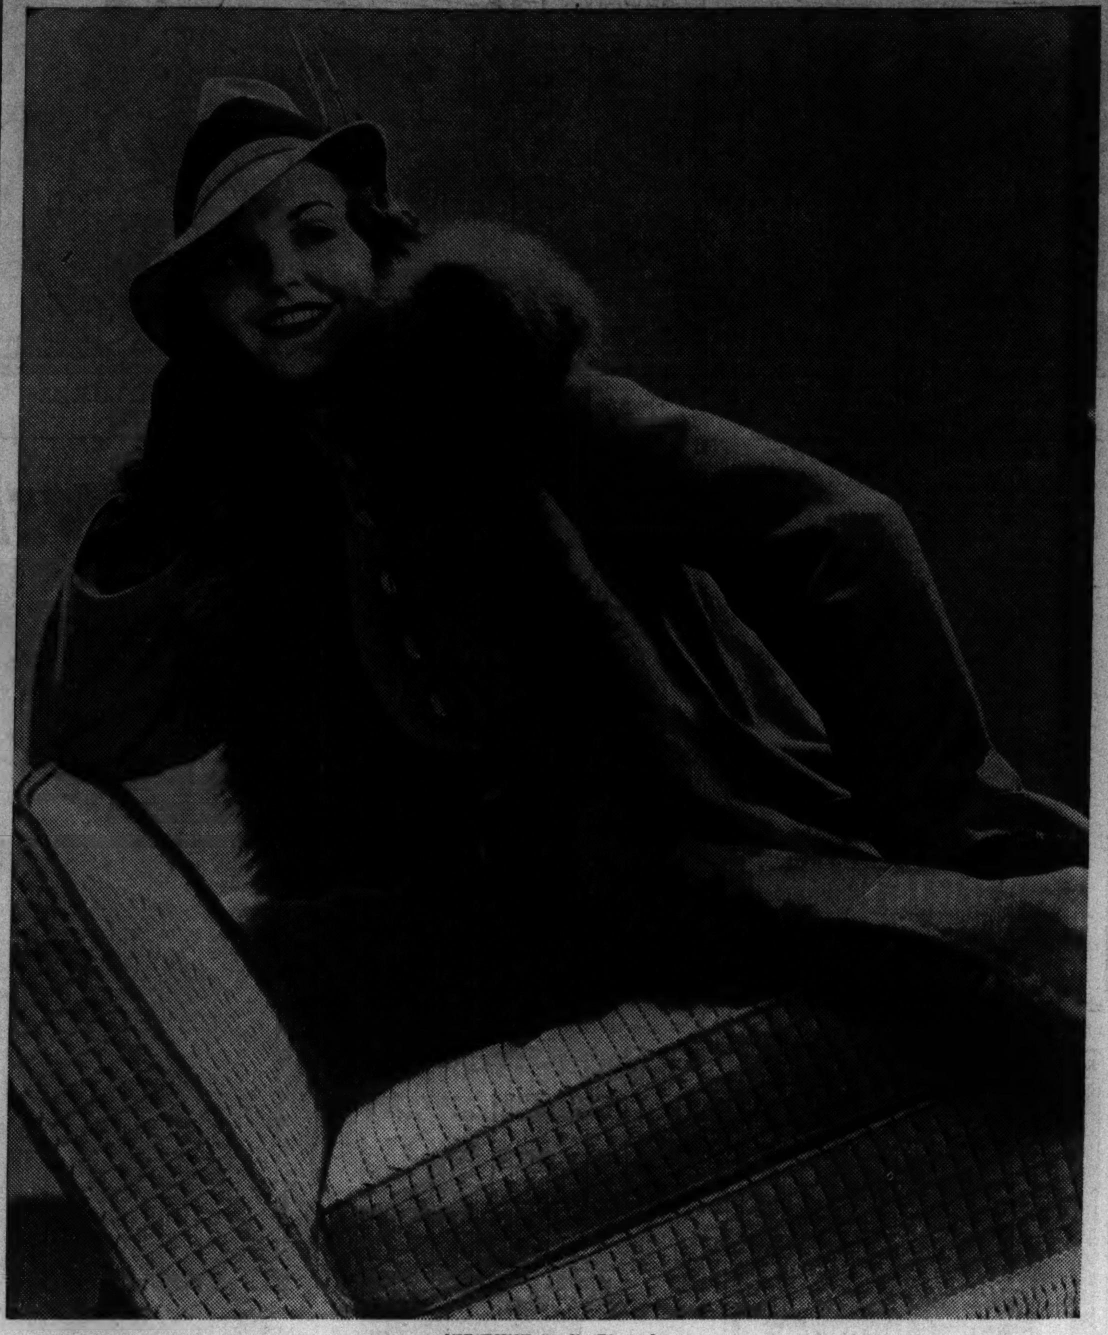
Mr. Abernethy deserves praise not only for the boldness of his program making and the careful seriousness of his interpretation but also for two examples of a thoughtfulness quite unusual in recitalists.

First, he had complete translations of all the songs printed, thus expressing his impatience with the widely current delusion that all American audiences understand German, French, and Italian just as perfectly as they do English.

Secondly, he requested that there be no applause between songs. This seemed a simple and direct way of doing away with a situation that is often embarrassing to artist and audience both.

Jason F. Whitney and Paul Longone, president and general manager respectively of the Chicago City Opera company, announce two popular price performances at the Civic Opera house on Feb. 20 and 21. "Aïda" will be mounted the first night, "Il Trovatore" the second. If the venture is successful the series is to be continued.

Smart Ensemble for Early Spring



[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

From a Chicago shop: Golden beige three piece ensemble for early spring wear. A button-down-the-front simple jacket is matched to a straight skirt. The skirt and long outer coat are of plain dull wool, the jacket of ribbed texture. The flattering tuxedo collar is of red fox. Brimmed high crowned hat and ensemble will be found in the same collection of new spring clothes.

Cereal Tweeds Score Instant Style Success

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Cereal tweeds are so new that they are still wrapped with tissue. They're also smart enough to cause lots of excitement among the shoppers out for stunning and well designed street suits. Something definitly new in the way of texture to take the place of monotone fleecy wool, these cereal tweeds are spellbinding new favorites. They come in effective colors, two tones of beige, a perfect blue for blondes or redheads, the bright blue tone of a bachelor button, a golden tan and a good gray.

These tweeds have been named after oatmeal, rye, and other cereal grains; the texture is semi rough, and dull, and the colors are exceptionally attractive after all the well worn monotones.

You can choose from four different styles of coats, two toppers, or what they call "jiggers" in the west, and two different style swaggers.

The long swagger has been designed for the heavier figure and one swagger features the collarless neckline and concealed tailored pockets. Both of the toppers have extremely youthful streamlines and smart lapels. All have good slippery satin lining the right shade to harmonize with the coat. Coats are sold separately, with unbelievably low price marks for such new wool and styling, and, for the determined ensembler, there are separate skirts [one simple style only] for a few extra dollars.

If you crave mixtures, good swanky looking tweeds in unsurpassed flattering tones and shades of beige, gray, blue or tan, this new showing is worth a hasty trip to town.

Fashion photograph. . . . For the first chilly days of spring and for immediate wear, three piece costumes take top rating. A three piece outfit of soft dull wool features a simple two piece suit duet of skirt and button down the front top jacket in ribbed wool for the jacket as a contrast to the plain wool of the skirt and the long outer coat. Bands of red fox form the long tuxedo collar. The brimmed hat is of harmonizing tan felt to match the suit. The entire costume, hat and suit are available in a Chicago shop.

Gets a Hobby Horse.

This incident took place several years ago when we lived on a farm in Georgia. Next to our land there lived an old codger who eked out a scanty existence on a small farm.

One day he went into the woods and cut down several trees. After sawing them into logs he tried to sell them to a lumber yard, but failed. Next he split them into fence posts, but still was unable to make a sale. He then reduced the material to stove wood, but buyers were lacking. He finally whittled the wood into toothpicks, but nobody bought any. Desperate and discouraged, he ground the stuff and made imitation oats.

Seasoned with salt, he used the oats to feed an old mare during the cold winter. When spring came the mare foaled a hobby horse.—B. J. P., Cicero.

Riotous Colors Mark Lelong's Style Opening

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 9.—In his summer collection Lucien Lelong features riotous colors. Fine handwork and embroideries are also evident. For his sports suits he uses woolens, in vivid patterns, and jerseys; they are accompanied by crisp white blouses. Flannel sports dresses are combined with tweed jackets.

Here, as in other houses, the military note is present. Lelong includes it in an important group of black wool town coats, peplum jackets and dresses, made with gold embroidery edgings and gold buttons.

Significant are his ensembles consisting of black town coats, molded to the body and flaring at the hem, and white frocks. Some of the frocks are pure white, others are striped or printed in small flower designs. For dressy occasions the frocks are of all-over embroidered white silk. Suit jackets have contrasting vestlike fronts covered with soutache braiding. Lace and openwork embroidery set into afternoon coats give them a sheer charm.

One group of Lelong's evening gowns is especially gay in rainbow striped tulle or chiffon. They are made with slender draped or flaring skirts, the stripes being worked diagonally or horizontally.

Paquin is reviving the former grandeur associated with this house in a big collection in which romantic evening dresses play an important rôle. They are made with full skirts and bodices having low backs and puffed sleeves. Some of the gowns are tubular, the skirts flaring extravagantly at the bottom.

Tulle, lace, chiffon and silk organdie are the principal fabrics used. The full skirts are appliqued with patterns in contrasting organdie, lace or sequin beads.

Paquin, who always knows how to cater successfully to the mature woman, includes, for her, suits with pastel wool or taffeta fitted hip-length jackets on which the collars are of rippling fox, the accompanying draped blouses are matching in color, and the skirts are woolen. Ensembles have long molded coats with flaring hemlines and tiny collars. They may be reverless; when there are revers they have single or double points. These coats are worn over printed crêpe dresses.

Chanel, as has long been her custom, includes jersey and woolen suits. Chanel indorses easy flared skirts, soft blouses with simple sleeves and necklines that are moderately low, for daytime.

Good Morning!

The same sort of terrific suspense that characterized "Fury" dominates "You Only Live Once."

Here is a grim and forceful photoplay that preys relentlessly on your peace of mind.

It is a bitter, probing study of criminology and law prosecution, powerfully directed and realistically acted. It follows the experiences of a youth, unjustly accused and convicted of a crime, through harrowing episodes that take in devastating hours of imprisonment in a deathhouse, his sensational escape from same, and an ill starred flight in which he is accompanied by his devoted young wife who is about to become a mother.

The action is not always credible—but it is unflaggingly gripping—the passionate performances of its stars fairly burning their way into your consciousness. For that matter, every member of the cast hurled him and herself into the thing with understanding, sympathy, and conviction that made each individual portrayal and the mass effect dynamic and vivid. Only one false note and that is the somewhat saccharine performance—at times—of William Gargan as a priest.

The tragic finale is, paradoxically, a happy one. For the desperate man and woman hunt you have followed for so long ends, as you know Eddie and Joan Taylor would have wished—since there could have been no other result but what would have spelled separation for them.

A great picture—that will never be "box office." Because by no stretch of the imagination could it be termed entertainment.

See you soon.

SYNOPSIS.

Adrian Somervell and Diana Lake become engaged when the young scientist learns he is heir to the fortune of his late stepmother, Rose Somervell, ex-star of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death Adrian and she had been estranged. Adrian had lunched with her shortly before her death. Also there were Nicholas Blundell, wealthy bachelor solicitor, who lived in the London flat below Rose; Felix Arenson, an old friend, and Blundell's neurotic secretary, Elsie Dilworth. Elsie was madly in love with Adrian, who'd repulsed her. Blundell is Diana's godfather. She'd always disliked him. An autopsy reveals that Rose was poisoned. Then Diana's mother is murdered. Robbery is thought to be the motive. Adrian is arrested, suspected of Rose's murder. Blundell persuades Diana to move to Rose's flat. Elsie Dilworth, who has left Blundell's employ, returns to search the premises. Diana sees and trails her to a rooming house. Adrian is indicted. Remnants of the poison which killed Rose are found in his pocket. Diana meets Michael Hull, Adrian's lawyer, obtained for him by his friend, Dr. Ladbroke. Hull hires a private agent, Mortimer Bream, to whom Diana tells her suspicions of Elsie Dilworth. Bream calls at Elsie's rooming house and learns she has disappeared.

INSTALMENT XXVII.
A MORTIFIED AGENT.

Bream asked if he might see the room.

"Well, there's no harm in that," agreed the landlady, slightly hesitant. "I could let you have a definite answer later."

Bream followed her up a flight of narrow, linoleum-covered stairs to an irregularly shaped room overlooking the dingy square. It contained a divan bed, a gatelegged table, a chest of drawers, and several chairs, one a large basket one. Two shallow recesses flanked the fireplace, in which was a gas fire. One was a cupboard, the other was filled by shelves on which stood cups and saucers, a tea pot and, at the bottom, a pile of old newspapers. Opening the cupboard door, Bream saw a few coat hangers, a pair of metal shoe trees, and a bag of golf clubs.

"Pity you don't know if the lady's coming back," he murmured. "I could just leave you my address, though, and then when you hear you can drop me a line." He searched his pockets. "I don't seem to have a scrap of paper to write on," he said. "Shall I just tear off a corner of one of these?" and he moved toward the newspapers, the top one of which he saw to be a fortnight old.

"Wait, I'll fetch you something."

Left to himself, Bream lost no time. Swiftly he removed the golf clubs from the bag and, taking an envelope from his pocket, carefully shook the bag over it. A little dried mud fell out, and this he folded up and placed in his pocket. He was just turning his eye on the worn cabin trunk in the corner when Mrs. Eales returned. As he scribbled the fictitious name he reserved for similar occasions he asked if it would be possible to have an answer in ten days.

"I—I really couldn't say. The trouble may be that Mrs. Dixon herself won't know as soon as that. The way she worded her note—I've thrown it away, or I'd show it to you—she might find there was nothing much wrong with her, and again it might mean a long treatment."

Mrs. Dixon! So the secretary was posing as a married woman. His suspicions deepened. Mrs. Eales arrested him with further remarks.

"Neighbors do seem to notice a lot. Why, yesterday even, I'd another applicant after this room, though how he knew it was empty Heaven alone knows!"

"And what did you tell him?" inquired Bream genially.

"O, I made it 'No' straight off, for all he tried to wheedle me into showing it to him. He flourished a brand new pocketbook just to tempt me. Stuffed full of pound notes, it was, and he was dressed up to the nines, as you may say; but I suppose I'm prejudiced against these real dark skinned natives. I just wouldn't like one in the house."

Dark skinned? Dressed to the nines? Where lay the connection between Elsie Dilworth and the Indian student?

"There's something in that room he wants to get at—maybe to destroy. Or he thinks there is."

"Unfortunately," said the bursar of the School of Economics, "our enrollment of Indians is enormous. I'm afraid I don't recognize the description, but I'll do my best. You've come rather late, and our lectures are over for the day. Just possibly, though, there may be an Indian or two left in the building."

Bream waited in the lobby and was presently rewarded by the return of the bursar in company with a slender young Indian of well-bred appearance. It was not at all what Bream wanted, for this student, introduced as Mr. Mirza Ahmed, would in all probability hand on a warning to his fellow countryman. However, the damage was done, and the bursar's next words removed his fears. Mr. Ahmed did know the young man Bream had described, but had his own reasons for wishing to corner him.

"He says Mr. Haji owes him ten pounds and he has been dodging payment for some time. I'll leave the two of you to talk matters over."

When they were alone Ahmed said with amusement in his dark eyes: "So you're after him too, are you? I wish you luck, but this much I can tell you: Haji's in funds now. Not a doubt of it. Where he got the money from is a mystery, but I'm told he's spending it like water."

"So his name is Haji, is it?"

"Abdulmajid Haji—and perhaps you don't need me to tell you he's as slippery as an eel. He borrowed left and right from every one here who was fool enough to lend, and now he's flush he's stopped turning up for lectures. It's possible 'is father's forked up again, but I doubt it, after the mess he got into."

"I hadn't heard about that. What kind of a mess?"

"O, a nasty affair—or might have been." Ahmed hesitated. "Some girl he was running with died in his rooms. It looked for a bit as though Haji might be arrested."

"But he wasn't, I take it?"

"No, it was a natural death. It caused scandal, though, and I expect for his people it was the last straw. Haji's father's a highly respectable government official in Bombay. No, I scarcely see Haji now. I can't tell you his present address, though I could probably get it for you from some of his friends. I suppose you'd like me to try?"

"I would, very much," answered Bream, "provided you can do it without letting him guess I'm after him."

"I'll keep your name out of it," Ahmed promised, and Bream, hoping his ally could be trusted to keep his word, handed him his telephone number.

For this evening Bream had formed a project, and on its success much of his future movements would depend. Till a late hour, therefore, he tabulated his facts and dates and then made his way back to Floyd's square, now silent as the tomb, ill-lighted, eerily damp. There was a passage leading southward from the corner near Mrs. Eales' house. He stationed himself just inside and prepared for a tedious and perhaps fruitless vigil.

As he was about to give up, a faint footstep fell on his ear. With extreme caution he peered forth into the alley. By all the powers he was right! There, by the locked gate of Seventeen, Abdulmajid Haji was mounting a dust bin and grasping the top of the wall for a spring!

Amateur once more shot through the agent's mind. Hadn't the fool wit enough to put on dark clothing? His new fawn overcoat made a pale splash in the night. One tweed-clad leg was just riding aloft when Bream's scorn was transferred to himself. Flower pots!

Startled by the clatter in the rear the Indian leapt to earth with terror written on his swarthy face. Bream pinioned him by the collar and found a small, pearl handled revolver thrust into the pit of his stomach. In the utter confusion which followed the detective's one thought was that he had got hold of an eel. His own revolver, hurtled from his hand, fell ten feet away, his prey wriggled free and melted into the darkness. Bream collected his weapon, shouted, and made a frantic dash.

Far along the turnings which descended toward King's Cross the steps hot-footed it, pursued but uncaught. It was a deeply mortified private agent who some ten minutes later approached a young constable calmly pacing his beat and described the attempted burglary.

Lent to Open Today; Brings Lecture Series

Curb Is Placed on Social Activities of Season.

for the Alfred Wallensteins next Monday from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home, 1500 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Miller is inviting the Woman's Symphony Associates to meet Mr. Wallenstein, who will conduct the Woman's Symphony orchestra in a concert next Tuesday night at the Auditorium, and his wife.

Mrs. Royden J. Keith, chairman of the Associates, is ill, so Mrs. Henry T. Roberts is assisting Mrs. Miller with arrangements. Mrs. Stallwood MacChesney, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering, Mrs. Ralph S. Greenlee, Mrs. Leo Nicolson, and Mrs. Welch Dickinson will be among those assisting at the reception.

It was good news to the women who have been attending the recitals of the Russian trio this winter to hear yesterday morning at the last one of the season that the Lake Shore Chamber Music society is planning another series by the same gifted musicians for next year.

The society is inaugurating associate memberships, at $1 each, which will include invitations to three musical teas next winter. Mrs. Otho F. Ball will be the hostess at one and Mrs. Raymond L. Redheffer will give another.

Take Prize Dogs to New York Show.

The Conway H. Olmsteds and her sister and brother, Miss Ethel Johnston and Hulburd Johnston, went east yesterday with several of their prize dogs for the Westminster Kennel club's show today, tomorrow and Friday in Madison Square Garden in New York.

Mr. Olmsted took with him three champion bulls, Basford Design, Golden Myth, an international champion, and a puppy, Little Sandy, who has yet to win his spurs. Mr. Johnston had with him six of his dachshunds, including four puppies.

After the show Mrs. Olmsted and Miss Johnston are going to Florida, where they have taken a cottage near Palm Beach for six weeks. Mrs. Olmsted's children are joining them there. Mr. Olmsted is returning to Chicago with his brother-in-law, but expects to go to Florida later.

Mrs. Rex Benson left Chicago yesterday to return to her home in England, after spending a few days with her parents, the Volney Fosters, in Lake Forest.

John de Laittres Have Daughter.

On Friday in Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. John de Laittre became the parents of a daughter, their first child, who has been named Corinne for one of Mr. de Laittre's aunts. The mother is the former Carolyn Erminger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. Mrs. Erminger will return on Saturday or Sunday from Minneapolis.

After many weeks of delays due to the shipping strike, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. and her daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Laflin and Miss Mary Melville Clow, have sailed for Honolulu. They have taken a house on the island for three months. Mr. Clow and Mr. Laflin will join them in the spring.

Friendship Quilt in Dahlia Design Is Rather Modern Friendship Dahlia.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Friendship Dahlia" is a rather modern quilt pattern, not nearly as old as the well known "Friendship Ring." It was designed to be a companion quilt to the "Friendship Ring." The same prints which were used in the "Ring" were to be used for the petals of the "Dahlia." When the quilt first was appliqued "chints" was used instead of figured, printed material. The completed block measures 11½ inches square, and is set together in an alternate arrangement with white ones.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

The raise of a minor suit bid to four should not be attempted when there is any hope of making a game at no trump, for the three no trump level is passed by the preëmptive raise. Hands offering a major suit response to the opening minor suit bid also are as bad as triple raises. The best type of hand for a triple raise in a minor suit is:

[a] A hopeless freak, which foretells of danger of a game bid by opponents; or

[b] A hand which will permit partner to make game in the minor if he is strong enough to have a chance for game in no trump.

Raise one club or one diamond to four with:

1. ♠ None ♥ J 6 ♦ Q 8 7 6 5 4 ♣ K 7 6 3 2.

The triple raise, while a weak shutout bid, must not be considered a "stop" bid. Its strength is limited, but often the opener, with a powerful hand, will be able to make a slam try.

A raise of more than three tricks [from one to five or six] should not be made, even in a minor where five-odd are needed for game. More scientific methods of reaching so high a contract, with forcing bids, and of leaving the way open for a slam, are at the player's disposal.

A friend of mine submits the following hand as one of the most harrowing experiences he had had at the bridge table in a long time. It all came about through his partner's stubborn disregard of a bidding convention.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass!
Pass

West probably gloated inwardly about the heavy penalty he was about to mete on the hapless declarer as he opened the spade queen. The king won, and the jack of clubs knocked out West's ace. His confidence somewhat shaken on sight of the dummy, West could see nothing better to do than clear the spade suit, even daring to hope that the jack would drop on his ace. When it didn't, he continued with the ten spot, and that was the end of the story as far as he was concerned. Declarer won, and rattled off five club tricks, discarding his own three hearts on the last rounds.

Coming down to four cards, West felt the inexorable squeeze at work on him. South having discarded the heart king, dummy's jack would become high if he [West] were to let go the ace, and therefore he reluctantly parted with one of his diamonds. But this gave him no relief, for now declarer cashed the diamond king and ran off the other three diamonds for a grand total of eleven tricks—four over contract.

It is true that North-South did not go game, since their one no trump doubled gave them only 80 points below the line, but the 800 points above in extra tricks were a satisfying compensation.

West demanded, in no uncertain terms, how East had dared to leave him in a take-out double of one no trump without as much as a ten in his hand. East, a picture of injured innocence, answered that that had been the very reason for his leave-in, the fact that he had been so weak he didn't dare bid! With such an answer, West was rendered speechless.

This is not the first time that I have heard that inane reason given for a criminal action at bridge. It apparently is difficult to convince certain players that the weaker their hand the more vital that they respond to a take-out double.

Cooking After Office Hours a Special Task

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Crocodile tears of sympathy long have been shed for the poor, tired business man. But who ever has squeezed out even a lizard tear for the poor, tired business woman? There's nobody to fetch her slippers for her and push her into an easy chair the moment she arrives home from the office. No, indeed!

But growing lachrymose over the plight of the tired business woman isn't going to help her any. What she needs is a little concrete help in preparing that evening meal in double quick time. So Wednesday will be business woman's day in this cooking column for a few weeks, at least. Here is this week's special "ready in forty-five minutes" dinner.

Tomato and Celery Juice Cocktail
Pan Fried Minute Steak
Pan Fried Potatoes
Buttered Peas [Canned or Fresh]
Hot Rolls [Bakery] Jelly
Cookies Canned Peaches
Coffee

From start to finish, this meal shouldn't require more than forty-five minutes, including table setting. The cocktail may be made by combining a can of chilled tomato juice with a tiny can of celery juice. The celery juice gives the cocktail a new kind of "zip" which you'll like. Canned celery juice, spinach juice, carrot juice, parsley juice, and other extracts of vegetables now are available in Chicago and, aside from their recommended use in infants' and special diets, they are good used in the way suggested.

Cookies for this meal might be the ice box variety, those which have been made on a Saturday afternoon at home and stored in one of the pretty new cookie crocks, or they may be the quick bake kind, like either of these.

Peanut Marguerites.

Salted wafers
Peanut butter
Peanuts
Marshmallows

Spread the wafers with peanut butter. Press half a marshmallow, topped by half a peanut, on each, and place the Marguerites under a low broiler flame until the marshmallows are brown.

Quick Chocolate Coconut Drops.

1 can sweetened condensed milk
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 cups shredded coconut
1/16 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons flour

Melt the chocolate and stir in the other ingredients. Chill for a short time if possible. Drop from a spoon on a greased and floured cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] for fifteen minutes. These cookies scorch rather easily, so they should be watched quite carefully during the baking.

These old fashioned ginger cookies are just the thing to keep on hand. They may be baked at some convenient time and stored.

Grandma's Ginger Cookies.

2 cups molasses
1 cup lard
1⅓ cups sugar
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 cup sour milk
Flour to make a soft dough

Warm the molasses and add the lard and sugar. Mix well and add the ginger and salt. Mix the sour milk with the soda and add. Add enough sifted flour to make a soft dough which may be rolled thinly. Cut out cookies and bake on a greased, floured sheet for ten minutes, using a moderate oven [350 degrees].

Syphilis Fight a Problem for Radio Chains

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

THE TRIBUNE'S campaign to stamp out syphilis has raised anew for broadcasters, particularly the networks, the question of whether to moderate their attitude toward the discussion of venereal diseases on the air. To date the general attitude has been for a complete avoidance of such topics.

There have been exceptions, one of New York's smaller stations having lately joined in a crusade against the scourge. And WCAU, 50,000 watt station at Philadelphia, is reported starting a series of discussions of syphlis by physicians this week. These talks are given at 10:30 o'clock at night, when presumably children are asleep.

At W-G-N syphilis and venereal disease may be mentioned on the air, a spokesman said yesterday, though no out and out discussion of such subjects is permitted. For instance, there have been references in news broadcasts to the current campaign.

But the station, to date, does not allow talks by physicians on causes and treatment of these diseases. This policy is pursued because radio enters the living room [and public places—the reception rooms of W-G-N, for instance] where adult listeners of both sexes and children hear broadcasts, often involuntarily. [In reading a newspaper one does so by choice and, with some exceptions, silently and alone.]

Judith Waller, representing the National Broadcasting company, recently explained that chain's attitude on this subject in an address before the American Public Health association.

"We firmly believe that the intimate, personal nature of broadcasting and the wide range and point listening of its audiences primarily must determine what may properly be put on the air," Miss Waller declared.

NBC permits the use of words referring to venereal diseases only when mentioned in association with other maladies. Discussions of causes and treatment are out.

Columbia recently sent out a communication to its stations asking broadcasters to refrain from mention of venereal diseases pending a restatement of its policies in this regard. NBC is also said to be considering some modifications in its attitude.

Infantile Paralysis Defense?

An Important Step in Protection Has Been Taken by Scientists in the Research Laboratories, says Paul de Kruif

How Soon can America Mobilize the Army of Trained Fighters Needed to Make the New Weapon Nationally Effective?

If the Fight is to be Successful, Health Departments everywhere must Have the Strong and Determined Support of Mothers

BEHIND THE SCENES in the laboratories, a desperate search has been progressing. Desperate because 300,000 crippled, not counting the dead, are a tragic reminder of the need. Desperate because the virus of infantile paralysis has been so unpredictable in its behavior, so mysterious in its method of attack.

Your nickel, dime, quarter or dollar helped pay for this grimly determined research, if you participated in the President's Second Birthday Ball.

Now, it seems, a great new laboratory advance in developing an effective preventive method has been made. In their experimental work in the laboratories, the scientists have hit upon a common, harmless drug which—when expertly applied—seals the nerves of smell where they are exposed in the nose. And these exposed nerve ends, say the researchers, are the principal avenue through which the infantile-paralysis virus can enter the body.

The first inkling of possible success in preventing infantile paralysis came to the public early last summer, in an article by Paul de Kruif, Secretary of the President's Birthday Ball Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research. True, the combination of drugs then in use, even under rigidly controlled conditions in the laboratories, was not as effective as the drug with which more recent experiments have been made. But it was an important advance over "watchful waiting" . . . helpless waiting.

Soon after, when infantile paralysis struck in the South, and microbe-hunter Charles Armstrong of the United States Public Health Service rushed to the battleground, the people were not only ready to receive, but to demand, the new prevention.

Began then one of the most fantastic public-health experiments in history—the attempt of the people of Alabama, Tennessee and Mississippi to protect themselves from a plague that was striking here, there and everywhere in its usual haphazard way.

The method of prevention, simple though it was, got out of hand completely—out of the hands of doctors and nurses who couldn't work fast enough, into the hands of panic-stricken mothers and fathers who stormed the drugstores for the cheap but precious preventive and attempted to "blockade" their own children's noses against infantile paralysis—without knowing how.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS, PAUL DE KRUIF AND THE JOURNAL

In 1934, the Journal asked Paul de Kruif to prepare an article on the then-known methods of treating infantile paralysis.

This brought him in touch with the Warm Springs Foundation, and resulted in Dr. de Kruif's suggestion to the trustees that part of the money from the Birthday Balls be used for research into prevention of the plague—as well as for treatment of victims.

This suggestion was welcomed, and Dr. de Kruif was asked to become the Secretary of the Research Commission appointed to administer the fund. He refused the appointment unless he could serve without salary and pay his own expenses—in order to be entirely free in his recommendations.

The Journal, to advance the great cause at stake, immediately offered to increase the rate of payment for his articles to the point where his time would be his own.

Under this arrangement, Dr. de Kruif became probably the highest paid article writer in the world. The effectiveness of the Research Commission's use of its funds is seen in "The New Weapon against Infantile Paralysis."

Strange and chaotic, this amateur death fight. Yet, according to the best survey and analysis that could be made, it appears to have cut down the attack rate of infantile paralysis by at least one-third.

With an agent of prevention, experimentally even more effective, available for a field test on children—what now?

There are 50,000,000 children under 21, not to mention adults who are sometimes susceptible, in the United States alone. Infantile paralysis will almost certainly strike somewhere, if not in several areas, in the United States next summer. But where? And when?

How many of the 50,000,000 under 21 can be protected by the new preventive, expertly applied, before the plague hits? (The application can't be made too long in advance or the prevention may have lost its effectiveness—yet it should be early enough so the establishment of the "blockade" will not be a frantic, last-minute effort.)

WHO WILL TRAIN THE BLOCKADE ARMY? MOBILIZE IT? HOW WILL THE COST BE MET?

The Ladies' Home Journal believes the only force strong and determined enough to get this done—even partially—is the mothers. Doctors and competent nurses, specially trained in the application of the new preventive, must do the work. Journal mothers can only see that they have the organization, the training, the money.

That is why the Journal spreads before them, now, at the earliest possible moment, the inspiring news of what has been accomplished in the laboratories. You will find all there is to know, now, in "THE NEW WEAPON AGAINST INFANTILE PARALYSIS," in the Journal for March.

WINGS LOSE TO AMERICANS, 3-2; STREAK BROKEN

Detroit's 1st Defeat in Ten Games.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The New York Americans snapped a four game losing streak tonight by defeating the Detroit Red Wings, 3 to 2, in a fast National Hocky league game before 7,000 spectators.

The victory placed the Americans, cellar occupants of the international division, within three games of the third place Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the first defeat in ten games for Detroit.

Marty Barry put the Red Wings in front early in the first period, scoring while the Americans were short handed. Sweeney Schriner tied the score in 13:45 of the second period.

The Americans outplayed Detroit during the last 20 minutes, during which Tony Hemmerling and Joe Jerwa scored to clinch the contest. Sid Howe counted the Red Wings' second goal with only a few seconds of play remaining. Lineups:

Snark Breaks World Mark in Hialeah Dash

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Snark, 4 year old son of Boojum which has been making a comeback in Florida for the Wheatley stable of Mrs. H. C. Phipps and Ogden Mills, created a new world record for 6½ furlongs in winning the Kendall purse at Hialeah park today.

The colt, whose sire was rated a speed marvel a few years ago, carried an impost of 109 pounds over the distance in one minute 15 4-5 seconds. The former record for 6½ furlongs over a circular course was 1:16 1-5, established by Gallant Knight at Churchill Downs on Derby day, 1931. Gallant Knight, which was also a 4 year old when he made the mark, packed 114 pounds. J. H. Louchheim's Pompoon holds the straightaway record of 1:16 2-5, made in the Belmont Futurity last year.

Snark, out of training last year because of poor underpinning, recently made his first start since November, 1935, and finished second to Patriotic. Today he broke in front and Jocky Hilton Dabson kept him there all the way, finishing, ridden out, a length and one-half in front of Warren Wright's Count Morse. Mrs. Emil Denemark's Higher Cloud was a poor third.

SEABISCUIT WINS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Seabiscuit, Mrs. C. S. Howard's nominee for the Santa Anita handicap, won the $1,500 added Huntington Beach handicap at Santa Anita Park today. Sir Emerson was second and Time Supply third.

Rosemont, the favorite, finished fifth in the six horse field. The race was at seven furlongs. Seabiscuit, paying $8.40, $4.80, and $3.60 across the board, was timed at 1:23.1. Sir Emerson paid $10.40 and $5.80 and Time Supply $4.40.

KING LEVINSKY KNOCKED OUT IN TENTH ROUND

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Bob Nestell, 191, of Los Angeles knocked out King Levinsky, 200, of Chicago in the tenth and last round before a capacity crowd of 10,400 at the Olympic auditorium tonight.

Nestell, scoring his tenth straight knockout since he turned professional, battered Levinsky from the outset and put over the finishing wallop after two minutes and 43 seconds of the final round.

Levinsky offered a tricky defense but could not weather his younger opponent's punching. Three times the King hit the floor, the first time in the opening round when he caught a right to the chin, again in the third when he went down for no count, and in the ninth, when he again hit the canvas and was hanging on at the bell.

The first of the two basketball championships which Proviso High school of Maywood planned to add to its record at the start of the 1936-'37 season was captured yesterday. The smooth, fast clicking squad clinched the heavyweight championship of the Suburban league by defeating Evanston, 30 to 21, at Maywood for its tenth consecutive victory.

Mizen, Cronin Star.

Steve Mizen, forward, and Richard Cronin, center, starred for the champions. Mizen scored three field goals and two free throws, while Cronin contributed three baskets and one free throw. Proviso led at the end of the first half, 10 to 8.

Proviso, winner of the Pontiac tournament last December, now will seek the state championship. The Maywood quintet automatically qualified for the regional tournament at Elmhurst, which opens on March 3, by winning the league championship.

Here's the Record.

State title hopes of the squad are based on the easy manner in which it captured its second successive league championship. With Mizen and Cronin leading the attack, Proviso experienced no trouble against its suburban rivals, the closest battle being the second game with Morton, which the champions won by 28 to 21. Here's the way the Provisos bowled over league opposition:

To Meet Moline Quintet.

Proviso, coached by Selmar O. Storby, will oppose Moline, also one of the favorites to win the state title, Friday night at Moline, Ill. The Moline squad is one of the strongest in the state.

Oak Park and Morton of Cicero were victors in the two other games on the league schedule. Oak Park, with MacDowell sinking four baskets and three free throws, defeated Highland Park, 23 to 19, while Morton overwhelmed Waukegan, 44 to 26. Morton led at the intermission, 26 to 15.

Dodgers Find Lavagetto's Contract; They're Surprised

CAUGHT OFF GUARD BY THE CAMERAMAN

Texas House Committee Pass Race Repeal Bill

Austin, Tex., Feb. 9.— (AP) —The state affairs committee of the house of representatives tonight favorably reported a bill to repeal the law which four years ago legalized pari-mutuel wagering on horse racing. The vote was viva voce.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE sport pages are beginning to boil with news of the big fight. . . . The centennial committee gives the cold shoulder to the sundry promoters. . . . The promoters say it makes no difference. . . . Meanwhile reporters become purple with excitement over the advent of the principals in Chicago to sign contracts for the benefit of the new reels and the fellows who manage to crowd into the camera's range. . . . Actually, the contracts are already signed and stored away for safekeeping. . . . The fact that contracts are signed does not necessarily mean that Braddock and Louis ever will square away in a Chicago ring. . . . Contracts apparently are that way in professional boxing. . . . Madison Square Garden has in its vaults contracts calling for Braddock to meet Max Schmeling, but almost every one except Joe Jacobs, Jewish manager of the Nazi fighter, is convinced nothing will come of them. . . .

Joe Gould, manager of the champion, calls in New York writers and says: "You can tell the folks out in Chicago that we'll be there to sign them papers Saturday." . . . In another minute or two this word is flashed around the country, tension snaps, stocks go up, the sitdown strikers rise and call for nine tigers and a Clyde Beatty, and the White House issues a proclamation. . . . This department shudders to think what would happen if a heavyweight championship fight was arranged without making a public ceremony of the signing of contracts. . . . We are too devoted to the traditions of the trade to think that nothing at all would happen and that nobody would care whether they saw pictures of Joe Gould, Julian Black, and the others who manage to elbow their way in front of the lens. . . .

Johnny Moir, whose brilliant work at forward has helped Notre Dame to defeat the No. 1 and No. 2 Big Ten basketball teams in succession, holds every scoring record in his school's history except one. . . . That's Ed Krause's three year mark of 547 points. . . . In a season and a half Moir has scored 435 points. . . . If he continues to average 17 points a game as he has for the last five games he will have a new record before the end of his second season. . . . Joe Cronin is getting a share of the $250,000 purchase price his father-in-law, Clark Griffith, got for him from Boston at the rate of ten cents a hole on a Florida golf course. . . . Visiting ball teams at Comiskey park will have a new clubhouse at their disposal this season. . . . Plans for the new quarters are being drawn up and President J. SOUTH SIDERS JOIN TWO OTHER GROUPS TONIGHT

Finals Scheduled at Madison A. C.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Two more nights of boxing are necessary before the winners in the northwest division can be determined. These lads started fighting last night at the Marigold Gardens, Grace street at Broadway.

And at White City, boys from all sections of the south side and from the southern suburbs, will begin their sectional struggle tonight.

Thus you can see there will be fighting all around the town tonight in three of the great Chicago sectional centers. So many fighters will be on the move that it may be actually dangerous to talk out of turn in any part of the city.

Northwest Tourney Opens.

Opening battles were fought in the northwest sectional tournament last night before a crowd that packed the arena. The semi-final fights on the west side also attracted another capacity crowd.

The field of 200 west section qualifiers was reduced to 53 boys—21 in the open division and 32 in the novice—after three hours of competition in the second session last night.

There are 32 contests scheduled in the west side finals tonight, 12 in the open class and 20 in the novice.

In the outlying territory, teams that are to go into the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 22 will be picked tonight by the Davenport Times, the Quincy Herald-Whig, and the Danville Commercial News.

The tournaments in Milwaukee, in Bloomington, Ill., in Dayton, Cedar Rapids, Gary, Nashville, Atlanta, and Huntington, will reach the semi-final rounds tonight.

Halderson Scores K. O.

The northwest sectional tournament is a new one in the Chicago Golden Gloves field. Numerous fighters who gave great promise appeared in the opening round bouts. It is certain that this section will come into the Tournament of Champions with a powerful team.

The best heavyweight to show his wares came to the front there last night. Oliver Halderson is the big kid's name. He's 20 years old and is a student at North Park Junior college. He stands 6 feet 3 in his socks.

Halderson slapped down William Garvey of the C. Y. O. in less than a minute. The big collegian swarmed all over Garvey from the time the gong sounded. A slashing left to the chin, followed by a right that carried even more power in it sent Garvey down for the full count. A Mexican kid, Pancho Vida, scored the first triumph of the evening. After a spectacular battle, he got the nod of the referee and the judges. His victim was Stanley Chucko. Later on Vida took a thumping.

Robert Drexler Advances.

Robert Drexler, 921 Addison street, registered a thrilling knockout. He put away Ray Borg, lightweight from the Allerton Club in the second round.

Walter Priemann, 4753 North Avers avenue, a tall 135 pounder, knocked out Stanley Sokol, of the 24th Ward Sportsmans club, in another thriller.

The terrific punching sent the crowd into an uproar soon after the program opened and the situation became more tense as the program neared the finish.

Dick Strauss Wins.

Dick Strauss, a student at Roosevelt High school, who battled in the middleweight division, won the cheers of the fans. He whipped Bobby Boyle, a tough, hard punching lad from 1642 Warren boulevard, a three exciting rounds.

Strauss weighed 175 pounds a year ago. He decided that was too much tonnage for a 16 year old boy to tote around. He went into training

PARK DISTRICT ISN'T SO SURE IT WANTS BIG BOUT

It's Matter of Policy; Defer Action on Rental.

Cold water was doused on the fires of ballyhoo for the proposed James Braddock-Joe Louis fight yesterday when the Chicago parks district, displaying none of the magnanimity the Sporting Club of Illinois, the state boxing commission, and the loquacious cauliflower merchants in New York had expected, intimated it was not anxious about having the bout held in Soldiers' field.

Acting on a request for the lake front arena, made by Sheldon Clark, president of the Sporting club, the park commissioners deferred final decision until next week after a report by President Robert J. Dunham had outlined the pitfalls in an agreement with the promoters.

Question of Policy.

After the meeting President Dunham issued the following statement:

"The problem which presents itself here is one which almost daily confronts officials of the park district in connection with the use of fieldhouses and other centers. We endeavor to eliminate the use of park facilities to individuals who intend making money unless it materially furthers recreation and the good of the community."

In his written report to the commission, President Dunham said:

"This is the first application of its kind since park consolidation. It necessitates a decision as to policy:

"When tickets of admission for a proposed attraction are priced at levels beyond the means of our average citizens, should facilities erected by public tax funds be leased to users among whose motives that of profit may be included, and if so, to what share in such profits is the taxpayer entitled as a rental fee for the use of his property?

What to Do?

"For the proposed fight," the report continued, "it is reported that seats are to be priced from $25 to $3. If it is argued that the low priced seats are within the means of the average citizen for such an attraction, the location of such seats, remote from the ring as is unavoidable because of the architecture of Soldiers' field, will not afford the occupants a satisfactory view of the contestants and we shall again be subject to the complaints voiced after the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

"Other and better facilities are said presently to be under consideration, owned by private individuals with whom it might be thought inappropriate that we should compete, as they contribute to the support of our parks, as taxpayers, from funds acquired in the ordinary course of their business.

"Should we lease the field at our customary rental, conditioned upon admission fees made reasonable to our citizens?

"Or should we disregard the interests of our citizens and lease the field purely on a business basis, for the sake of revenue which in part would defray the cost of our corporate operation? Following such a policy, on a purely business basis, we might well be justified in asking 25 per cent of the gross receipts, this percentage to be reduced correspondingly as the scale of admission fees is reduced."

Louis Is Served.

While the hullabaloo over the site and date was continued yesterday, Louis opened sparring drills at Trafton's gymnasium by going three rounds with Bobby Millsap. After the workout he was served with a summons by United States Deputy Marshal Charles Glaser in the $100,000 libel suit brought by Sheridan A. Bruseaux, private detective on the south side. Julian Black and John Roxborough, partners in the management of Louis, also were served.

The suit grew out of charges and counter charges which followed the Louis-Max Schmeling fight last June. Joe and his handlers previously had sued Bruseaux because of a published affidavit signed by Bruseaux, charging that Joe had been "doped." This was denied in a second affidavit signed by Louis, Black and Roxborough.

JOE MEDWICK IS GOLF VICTOR AT ORMOND BEACH

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Joe Medwick, star outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, defeated the defending champion and medalist Isaac Lincoln Merrill, in the first round of the Ormond Beach golf championship today. Medwick routed the former Maine state amateur champion by 5 and 4 by taking the last four holes in succession.

Leo Durocher, teammate of Medwick and shortstop of the Cardinals, also advanced into the second match round by registering an easy victory over P. E. Mead of Scarsdale. As in Medwick's case, Durocher took the final three holes in order to win, 6 and 5.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—For the fifth time since he relieved Tony Canzoneri of the lightweight championship, Lou Ambers will step into the ring tomorrow night in an overweight match. He will meet Davey Day of Chicago in the Hippodrome's ten round windup.

Knockouts Are Frequent.

Harry Aronowitz, unattached middleweight, defeated Charlie Amy, colored fighter from Herzl Junior High school, in one of the most exciting of the west side battles last night. Aronowitz piled up points in the first and second rounds, but a series of blows to the jaw had him staggering when the match was ended.

The Maxwell Street Y. M. C. A. delegation advanced to the championship round. The boys are Clarence Williams, featherweight, and Emmet Jones and Dan Robinson, welterweights. Robinson knocked out Herman Winz, C. Y. O.; Jones stopped Singfield Brunson, and Williams whipped Herbert Appel, Franklin Park.

FERGUS PLACED AT DEFENSE POST ON RAMBLER TRIO

Bill Fergus was picked yesterday to play the defense position for the Chicago Ramblers Polo team against the 122d Field Artillery Saturday night at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Fergus, a regular member of the Ramblers, played the No. 1 position in their first Metropolitan league game, in which they lost to the 124th Field Artillery.

The defense position is familiar to Fergus. He played it at Pennsylvania Military college, but while with the Cleveland Riding club, he was at No. 2.

Lieuts. Cliff Harrison, Art Zimmerman, and Carl Johnson, the 122d Field Artillery choices for starting positions, are counting upon their smooth team play, developed during the past five seasons, to overcome the individual brilliance of Hammond and Fergus Saturday night.

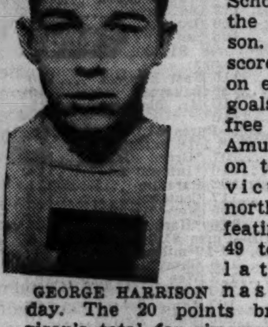
George Harrison, Amundsen's sharpshooting forward, is getting ready to tuck away the individual scoring championship of the Chicago Public High School league for the 1936-'37 season. Harrison scored 20 points on eight field goals and four free throws, as Amundsen went on to its fifth victory in the north section, defeating Sullivan, 49 to 17, at the latter's gymnasium yesterday. The 20 points brought Harrison's total for six games to 109.



GEORGE HARRISON

Amundsen, in second place in the north division, led, 13 to 4, at the end of the first quarter and 28 to 8 at the half. Sullivan scored only five points in the third quarter and was held to two field goals in the final quarter. Harrison was removed from the game in the fourth period.

Tuley Clinches Title.

The undefeated Tuley junior quintet clinched the west section championship, defeating Kelvyn Park, 39 to 25. Sid Levin led the champions' attack, scoring six baskets and one free throw. Tuley held a 19 to 17 advantage at the intermission.

Manley and Harrison Tech remained tied for first place in the central section by scoring their fifth victories. Manley triumphed over Dusable, 24 to 13, while Harrison routed Kelly, 39 to 28. Fenger defeated Morgan Park, 43 to 22, for its sixth triumph in the south division.

ST. PHILIP WINS

St. Philip high school's heavyweight quintet, holder of second place in the west section of the Catholic league, scored a 30 to 28 victory over St. Patrick at St. Philip gymnasium last night. Cody starred for the winners, collecting eight field goals. St. Philip led at the half, 15 to 7.

Mount Carmel, St. George, and St. Mel heavyweight teams also triumphed. Mount Carmel won from Leo, 30 to 27; St. George routed Weber, 43 to 28, and St. Mel defeated St. Ignatius, 38 to 27.

Leading St. George to its victory over Weber was Tierney, forward, who scored ten baskets and two free throws. St. George held a 13 to 8 advantage at the end of the first quarter and was in front, 27 to 12, at the half. The lineups:

MOON MULLINS—THE TONGUE TWISTER

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 9.—Dear Wake: Recent demise of Martin [Farmer] Burns, once heavyweight champion wrestler, brings to mind an incident that occurred over forty years ago. Burns was training at a Chicago gym for his pending match with Evan Lewis [original Strangler], then champion. Burns paid particular attention to developing his neck to cope with Lewis' viselike grips.

Accordingly about ten of us who were visiting the gym one day were invited by Burns to "choke" him. We tried, but it was a useless test. His neck was hard as a young tree trunk and almost as large around. Lewis also found Burns' neck too tough to "strangle" and lost his title. Wm. Weitzel.

My first knowledge of baseball was when I was 4 or 5 years old, in the '60s, watching the older boys play bulldog. It took seven to make up a full game. They had a rock for home plate and another back of the pitcher's position as far back as agreed upon, the older the boys the farther back the rock.

The main purpose was to stay "in"—at bat—as long as possible, and the one who stayed in longest and made the most runs was winner. If you gave the ball a good lick with your bat you could make a home run by running to the rock and back. If you just got on, you had to get home on the next fair ball. Often double plays were made, pitcher to catcher to player covering the far rock.

All foul balls were out on the first bound. Third strike also was out for the first batter. When you were out, your started at the bottom of the list in left field, pitcher went to bat, catcher to pitcher and so on. "Jim" Stewart.

Editor's Note—William Scott Stewart acquired the nickname "Jim" when he first came to Chicago and was well known to frequenters of Mussey's billiard room where he wielded a mean cue at three cushion or balk line.

I was born and brought up near the old Cub park on the west side where, as a boy, I saw many games with my father in the days of Capt. Anson.

The Wake recently referred to Big Bill Lange, which recalls one of his pranks in the late '90s. One night I was sitting on the front porch and saw a number of fellows running toward me. Jimmy Callahan, Jimmy Ryan, and "Wild Bill" Dahlen were in the group. Back of them was Lange with a basket of tomatoes. He could run like a deer, once led the league in base stealing, so he gained on the objects of attack, then stopped, took aim and let fly a tomato. Lucky for the boys his aim with tomatoes was not as good as with a baseball, although a few found their mark. It was just "boyish fun." An Old Fan.

Editor's Note—Bill Lange now lives in a suburb of San Francisco. He is a prosperous business man, specializing in real estate and investments.

Boy Meets Girl on Bus.

I whistle a tune . . . for my heart is free!
As we rattle along, the bus and me.
We glide through the park and the beaches where
I wave at some girls who are staring at me,
She said that she spoke to people she knew,
Then I say, "I think that's great, don't you?"
Well, she's talking at last and now there are three,
The prettiest girl . . . and the bus . . . and me.
I'm riding on air and my head feels light,

Mandao 2d Leads Miami Yacht Race

Miami, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Under ideal conditions that put a premium on close hauled sailing, 19 yachts headed for the Bahamas tonight in the fourth annual Miami-Nassau race. They encountered a 22 knot southwest wind and white capped rollers on the first part of the crescent shaped course of 184 miles. The weather bureau forecast no change in the weather.

Advices from the coast guard cutter Mojave tonight said D. Spencer Berger's 17 foot Mandoo 2d was first past Great Issacs Light at 6:14 eastern standard time.

Sixty Miles Out.

The remainder of the fleet was strung over the calming sea about five miles back of the leaders as the sun went down, ending observation until daybreak.

Great Issacs Light is about 60 miles east by north of Miami.

From Great Isaac the yachts must sail close hauled for the next third of the course to Great Stirrup bay, but from there it will be a beat into Nassau if the wind holds.

Expect 19 Hour Run.

The skippers expected to reach the Bahama capital in about 19 hours. The record of 17 hours for elapsed time was set last year by Vadim S. Makaroff's Vamarie. Makaroff recently presented the boat to the Annapolis Naval academy.

He sailed today in the afterguard of Harkness Edward's 64 foot yawl Winsome Too, one of three racers equipped to pick up a radio direction beam from the official convoy boat, the coast guard cutter Mojave. Others using the beam were D. Spencer Berger's 71 foot Mandoo II. and Col. Albert E. Pierce's Sunny of New York.

EXPERIMENT WITH THREE RULES IN NIAGARA GAME

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Three experimental changes in basketball rules will be tried Monday when Niagara university and St. Bonaventure college meet here.

The changes, drawn up by John J. Gallagher, Niagara coach, are:

1. The center jump is to be eliminated except at the start of the first and second halves, and after double and technical fouls.

2. The present 3 second rule will apply only between the broken line arc of the free throw circle and the end line. A player will be permitted to stand indefinitly in the free throw circle until he secures possession of the ball, when the 3 second rule will be effective.

3. On all jump balls, the ball will be tossed up at one of three points, either foul circle or the center circle, whichever is nearest the point

Westminster Kennel Show Opens Tonight

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Boasting a record entry list of 3,144, the Westminster Kennel club's annual show, blue ribbon event for dog fanciers, opens for three days in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

This, the sixty-first Westminster show, will be the biggest in history. The entries will include the pick of kennels throughout the United States, Canada, Germany, and England. Nearly 100 breeds will be judged before the six variety winners are selected and the "best of show" is crowned Friday night.

The cocker spaniels top all others in number of entries with 205. Other breeds topping the 100 mark include the dachshunds with 198, the Scottish terriers 134, Boston Terriers 124, and wire haired fox terriers 114.

Working Division Gains.

As a group the terriers remain most popular with 859 entries, but this number represents a decline from the record figure of 914 last year. The working division shows the biggest group gain, reaching a total of 616. Following are the gun dogs with 601, hounds 431, nonsporting 366, and the toys 271.

Back again to bid for another "best in show" title will be the great Sealyham Champion St. Margaret Magnificent. Also seeking to repeat 1936 triumphs will be the Irish setter Champion Milson O'Boy in the gun dog division, the German shepherd Champion Dewet von der Starrenburg in the working dog class, and the greyhound Champion White Rose of Boveway in the hound group.

This year, for the first time, the annual hound show of the Masters of Foxhounds association and the National Beagle club will be held under the same roof with the Westminster. It will share the judging rings in the main arena with the Westminster's variety judging on Friday, final day of the show. Participation in the hound show is limited to hounds or beagles registered with recognized packs.

One of the most unusual entries is a pigmy Scottish terrier owned by Dr. Alyce Snitjer Burke. The dog, Blackie of the Desert, was found by three prospectors in the Mojave desert more than two years ago. Her pedigree is unknown, but there is no doubt Blackie is a pure bred Scotty of adult years, although no bigger than a 9 month old puppy.

Hawks Drill New Line for Ranger Game

Manager Clem Loughlin devoted yesterday's Blackhawk practice to tutoring the new defense line of Earl Seibert and Andy Blair, preparatory to the New York Rangers' game tomorrow night at the Stadium. Loughlin rehersed maneuvers designed to perfect the defense without sacrificing Seibert's offensive string which has been an important factor in the Hawks' goal making recently.

Most of Seibert's rushing yesterday was done while the Pete Palangio line was on the ice, for it is becoming more apparent with each game that the hard shooting Italian works exceedingly well with Seibert, who is creeping up on Ebbie Goodfellow and Babe Siebert, the two leading point makers among the league's defense men.

Pete Palangio has been the Hawks' leading forward since he joined the team Dec. 20. He not only is one of the best pass receivers in the league, but also possesses one of the speediest shots. He has made twelve points in the last eighteen games.

BROOKS WINS SECOND AMATEUR CUE MATCH

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Lewis Brooks of Philadelphia, the defending champion, rallied tonight to score his second victory in the National Amateur Pocket Billiards meet. Brooks defeated Charles Oliva of Chicago, Illinois state champion, 125 to 109, in 32 innings.

Earlier J. Howard Shoemaker, New York veteran, scored his second victory; while Edwin C. Rogers, former champion from Glen Cove, L. I., and Herbert Courtney of New York rallied to win after losing yesterday's opening matches.

CHICAGO DENIES WEARILY IT'LL DEPART BIG TEN

Committee Appointed and Rumor Starts.

Reports that the University of Chicago is considering withdrawal from the Western conference were denied, a trifle wearily, at the Midway yesterday.

The latest conjecture was based on a report in yesterday's Daily Maroon, campus news organ, announcing the appointment of a subcommittee of the board for the coördination of student interests to consider the university's athletic problems. There was no reference to discussion of the possibility of Chicago relinquishing its Big Ten charter.

T. Nelson Metcalf, athletic director, who is chairman of the subcommittee, stated yesterday that the group will not discuss withdrawal. "I do not feel that withdrawal from the conference is the answer to Chicago's athletic problems," Metcalf added.

The committee was explained as one of a series of subcommittees of the major coördination body which periodically survey undergraduate activities. Its membership, in addition to Metcalf, includes Dr. Dudley Reed, head of the student health service; Prof. Jerome Fisher of the geology department, former Maroon athlete and coach; Leon P. Smith, assistant dean of students, and W. V. Morgenstern, director of publicity.

Young Turns Down Second Pay Adjustment by Pirates

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Floyd [Pep] Young, Pittsburgh Pirates second baseman, said today he was displeased with terms offered him for 1937. Young said President Bill Bernswanger had increased the pay twice this year, but still "it hasn't reached the figure I want."

STATE TO SERVE CROW MEAT AT SPORT EXHIBIT

Aims to Induce Hunters to Shoot Pests.

BY BOB BECKER.

Crow meat sandwiches will be ready for visitors to the National Boat and Sports show when the exhibition opens Feb. 28 on the Navy pier. According to an announcement from A. J. Tomasek, state forester of Illinois, who will be one of the state men in charge of the Illinois department of conservation booth at the show, the meat of thousands of crows from the orchards and farmlands of the southern part of the state will be ready to serve. And it won't cost a cent.

The department of conservation hopes that sportsmen will find crow meat so delicious that they will be encouraged to hunt crows which are far too numerous in Illinois for the good of crops and song and game birds.

He Likes Crow Meat.

"I have eaten crow meat sandwiches many times and it really is delightful," said Mr. Tomasek. "Some people think it tastes like turkey, others like chicken and others like duck. But almost every one agrees that it is good.

"The object in serving crow meat is to interest sportsmen in conducting anti-crow campaigns and we feel this will stimulate the efforts we have made for years to reduce the number of crows in this state. The crow destroys farmers' crops, preys on song and game birds and generally is a pest. But the meat of the bird is good to eat as we will prove at the show."

Campaign Gathers Force.

This department has been stressing the conservation value of reducing the crow population for many years. In fact it has been something of a pioneer in the middle west in spreading the word on the depredations of the big black birds. The Illinois department of conservation launched its anti-crow work several years ago and since then has made other states take notice of its effective work in bombing and shooting large rookeries of crows. Recently one roost near Pawnee, Ill., was bombed and shot with small cannons, 25,000 crows being killed in one night.

Besides free crow meat sandwiches the National Boat and Sports show will have another interesting free feature . . . the casting tournament to be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE sports department. There will be casting events for fishermen, women, boys and girls, during the show with trophies to be awarded by THE TRIBUNE.

WALLACE CROP TINKERS STIR IRE OF CONGRESS

Assail Indifference of Cabinet Chief.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—The ire of members of the house committee on agriculture mounted rapidly today as they watched the progress of the conferences between Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and farm leaders in mapping out a new program of farm legislation.

Committee members were smarting under the indifference toward them that has been displayed by both Wallace and the farm leaders. The august congressmen seem to feel that as representatives of the people they should have something to say about what the new farm legislation should be, but Secretary Wallace has maintained a magnificient indifference toward their views and is evolving his own plans in his own way.

Many Voice Feelings.

Several of the congressmen were so put out that they expressed themselves on the subject with some force.

Representative Andersen of Minnesota said it was "a sad commentary" on national legislative procedure that the Wallace conferences should be held without the knowledge of congress generally. He made his observations during a hearing on farm tenancy.

"They're shaping a farm program," Andersen said, "so why shouldn't this committee have the benefit of the views of farm leaders?"

Can't Soothe Tempers.

The chairman of the committee, Congressman Jones, Texas Democrat, attempted to soothe the feeling of the members by explaining that the agriculture department officials were merely investigating to determine what legislation should be recommended. This did not accomplish its purpose.

Congressman Fulmer [D., S. C.], sponsor of the Agricultural Adjustment act, declared that he had been refused admittance to the farm conference for a time Monday.

"Perhaps," suggested Congressman Hope [R., Kas.], "these farm leaders do not know that we are going to write the farm legislation."

SKEPTICAL OF PLAN.

Chicago grain men were highly skeptical yesterday of the practicability of the Wallace "ever normal granary" scheme as a means of insuring against shortages and excessive surpluses.

Harvey S. Williams, crop expert of Harris, Upham & Co., pointed out that the farm board efforts to stabilize prices between 1929 and 1932 were followed by the lowest price for wheat since the time of Queen Elizabeth. The present plan, he said, "disregards the disastrous experiences of the farm board."

R. O. Cromwell, statistician of Lamson Bros. & Co., said the plan might have some merit as an "emergency measure," but added that it would "create its own emergencies because of man's inability to forecast weather and other factors affecting world supply and demand."

Ignores Foreign Conditions.

The Wallace plan calls for loans to producers which would permit storage of surplus supplies in years of bumper crops. No allowance is made for the possibility of similar surpluses in other countries, and foreign buyers would be encouraged to withhold purchases as long as the United States had a visible surplus of any commodity.

Chrysler Corp. Lifts Wages 13 Millions a Year

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Chrysler corporation announced a wage increase today which it estimated would aggregate "approximately 13 to 14 million dollars a year." Estimates based on a previous increase last June placed the average increase for each employé at 10 per cent.

A company representative said about 60,000 hourly wage workers would receive the increase. The company has 70,00 employés, including clerical workers.

Recently it announced that its total production of passenger cars and trucks reached 1,040,000 units in 1936, the first calendar year in which production exceeded the million mark.

Fourth Since August, 1933.

The increase was the fourth general advance in wages for Chrysler employés since August, 1933, when wage rates of hourly workers were advanced 20 per cent.

When a 10 per cent increase was granted in March, 1934, President K. T. Keller announced that wages were "somewhat above" the predepression level.

A 5 per cent increase on June 1, 1936, for shop employés added an estimated 5 to 6 millions to pay envelopes. In addition, a revision of the wage system from piece work and group bonuses to hourly rates was begun in March, 1934, and completed in April, 1935, which company officials said brought increases to most shop workers.

A company announcement said then that the minimum rate for men, excepting apprentices, was 60 cents an hour and for women 52 cents an hour.

Seeks 75 Cent Minimum.

Today John L. Lovett, manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' association, said he believed the objective was a 75 cent minimum for men and 65 cents for women.

"While I do not know of any general increase now contemplated by any other manufacturer," he said, "there is a tendency to approach an average minimum of 75 cents an hour for men and 65 cents for women employés among Detroit manufacturers generally. I believe the Chrysler wage increase is based on this general average.

"It is believed this tendency is justified by the increased cost of living and in view of the fact of Detroit's reputation for paying the highest wages of any manufacturing district in the country."

Includes Seven Divisions.

The Chrysler corporation embraces the Dodge, Plymouth, Chrysler, and De Soto passenger car divisions, Dodge and Plymouth truck divisions, and marine engine division and the Air-Temp division at Dayton, O.

Last year the corporation distributed $8,300,000 over and above regular wages. A $2,300,000 bonus was distributed Feb. 14 to 59,000 employés. Another 2 million dollar bonus was given Aug. 10 to 65,000 employés and 4 millions were distributed in December to 67,000 workers.

RAIL LABOR ACT ARGUED BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The Supreme court heard clashing arguments today as to the validity of the railway labor act—the New Deal law guaranteeing collective bargaining to rail employés.

Counsel for the Virginian Railway company called the law "unconstitutional" and "unreasonable." The government argued that it was well within the constitutional powers of congress to regulate interstate commerce. At the conclusion of the argument, the justices took the case under advisement. A decision by March 1 is possible.

The case came to the Supreme court after the District Court for Eastern Virginia and the Circuit Court of Appeals had upheld a petition of shop craft employés. This petition asked that the railway be compelled to negotiate with a union and to refrain from interfering with the employés' choice of representatives for collective bargaining.

President Asks Why U.S. Navy Can't Get Steel

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked detailed explanations today of the navy's inability to obtain sufficient supplies of steel.

Persistent refusal of domestic manufacturers to offer bids on the metal—now urgently needed for the current warship building program—has been blamed by navy officers on opposition to the Walsh-Healey government contract law. That act requires all manufacturers filling government orders in excess of $10,000 to comply with stipulated minimum wage and maximum hour standards.

Navy Obtains Little Steel.

Since the act became effective last year, the navy has advertised for bids on 25,000,000 pounds of steel but has been able to place orders for only 7,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Roosevelt announced at a press conference that he had asked complete reports on the situation from both the navy and labor departments. He added, in response to inquiries, that he knew nothing more at the moment than that the navy is not getting the steel it needs.

The navy department already has asked the nation's principal steel producers for formal explanations. A circular making this request was sent through the labor department, which administers the Walsh-Healey act.

Need 25 Million Pounds.

Navy department spokesmen asserted that 25,000,000 pounds of steel were required for present construction and normal reserve stocks. They indicated no further bids would be asked until the industry has recorded its position or unless the labor department moves to relax the labor standard provisions of the law.

Officers acknowledged that new submarine and destroyer construction in east coast navy yards might be affected unless new supplies were forthcoming by mid-March, or at least unless definite orders have been placed which would justify use of present reserve stocks. It was stated authoritatively, however, that the navy was not yet embarrassed for lack of steel.

France Plans Law to Pay Foreign Loans in New Franc

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies today voted to change the monetary law specifying the method of payment of foreign loans negotiated before the franc devaluation of last autumn. The change, embodied in the January deficiency bill, specified that foreign loans will be paid in the new devalued francs unless they carry specified clauses calling for payment in gold francs or foreign currencies.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS GLAD GLASS STRIKE IS OVER; GETS NEW BANK

Opening of the Arlington Heights National Bank of Arlington Heights, Ill., is scheduled for Feb. 20. Opening of the bank has been delayed for some time because of the strike in glass manufacturing plants. Bulletproof glass installation could not be made and consequently held up remodeling of the quarters for a time. Merchants of the town will hold special sales events in connection with the opening of the town's first bank since 1932.

The new institution will occupy the building formerly used by the Peoples' State bank, and will have a capitalization of $50,000.

Officers and directors of the new bank are: President, Herman H. Franzen; vice presidents, Carl W. Ewert and Hugo J. Thal; cashier, Arthur H. Franzen. Directors are Henry L. Hagenbring, Carl W. Lussman, and Joseph G. Wagner, in addition to the above named officers.

SEEK TO BROADEN LIFE INSURANCE INVESTING RULES

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—[Special.]—Louis H. Pink, state superintendent of insurance, indicated here today that the insurance department may recommend to the legislature that investment regulations on life insurance companies be liberalized.

At present, he pointed out, the demand for legal investments by New York life insurance companies exceeds the supply. The program under consideration would permit the companies to invest in certain classes of debentures and preferred stocks, which, although rated conservative investments, are not eligible under the present stringent law.

Reports show that 40 New York life insurance companies, or 83 per cent of the total in terms of assets, had more than $800,000,000 in idle cash at the end of last year. There is close to a billion dollars in idle life insurance company money seeking good debenture issues or preferred stocks provided present restrictions are relaxed, he said.

Estimate U. S. Gold Output Last Year 17% Above 1935

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The bureau of mines estimated today the country's 1936 mine production of gold at 4,329,273 fine ounces, an increase of 640,364 ounces, or 17 per cent, over that of 1935. At $35 an ounce the 1936 output was worth $152,424,555, or $22,412,740 more than the preceding year. Silver production in the United States in 1936 totaled 62,842,000 fine ounces, American bureau of metal statistics reported today. Output in 1935 was 38,322 ounces.

Factory Sales of Autos Second Best in January

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Factory sales in January of members of the Automobile Manufacturers' association, including all major producers except Ford, totaled 269,839 units, the association reported today. This represented the second highest January factory shipment figure on record, being exceeded only by January, 1936, when the aggregate was 276,451 units. The figure was 67 per cent above the five year January average, but 33 per cent under the total for December, 1936.

STOCKS FOLLOW VARIED PATHS; AVERAGE LOWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—Mixed movements characterized dealings in stocks today, with the general list moving irregularly lower. Losses in the main body of shares did not often exceed fractions and an assortment of miscellaneous issues managed to work forward to new highs.

Volume of trading dwindled on the decline, but turnover was heavy in miscellaneous low priced industrials. Large blocks of meat packing, mining, and amusement issues changed hands.

Buying Flurry Near Close.

A flurry of buying in the last hour, with nothing in the news to explain the rally to observers, turned prices higher and for awhile changed the complexion of the market. It did not last, however, and the final bell found the three major groups off in the averages.

Special issues were strong for almost the entire day. Rubber issues especially displayed buoyancy on new demand created by optimistic earnings and dividend news from tiremakers. Goodyear issues were a feature, rising 2 to more than 9 points, while gains of a point or more were registered by Goodrich and U. S. Rubber. Lee Tire and Firestone made smaller gains.

Steels Active at Close.

Steels were quiet until the last hour. U. S. Steel then moved to its best price of the day, equaling its highest price in six years, but the rise was short lived and a fractional loss followed its final quotation. Ludlum was buoyant and Bethlehem converted an early loss into a slight gain.

Chrysler strengthened a bit in the motor section on dividend hopes, but General Motors did little, as the conferences to bring about a settlement of the strike remained deadlocked. Graham-Paige was exceedingly active.

Some divertissement was provided for traders by a sudden rush to acquire Warner Brothers shares after the company announced cancelation of its common stock plan. Buying orders poured in so fast that the specialist temporarily closed his book and stopped trading for about an hour. There had been some trading by brokers at around 16, but all sales over 15⅞ were canceled. Resumption of trading witnessed a block of 20,000 shares at 17, up 2 points.

About two weeks tgo it was reported Warner Brothers would offer stockholders rights to subscribe to 950,000 additional shares of common in the ratio of one for four at a price of around $12.50.

Aviation issues sagged, Boeing losing over 2 points and Douglas giving up more than a point. Carriers softened, as did utilities and coppers.

Rail equipments were quiet and irregular. Chemicals were mixed. Farm implements scored gains.

Vote to Extend Roosevelt's Power to Make Trade Pacts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—A resolution extending for three more years President Roosevelt's power to negotiate trade treaties with foreign governments, irrespective of congressional approval, was passed by the house today by a vote of 284 to 100. The resolution now goes to the senate.

REP. WM. P. CONNERY JR.
[Acme Photo.]

The great body of loyal Democrats in the chamber shivered—half in horror, half in admiration—as a few of their number staged a revolt against extension of Mr. Roosevelt's great powers. The Republican lonely minority applauded.

The Democratic rebels were led by Representative William P. Connery [D., Mass.], and Representative J. Mark Wilcox [D., Fla.]. Mr. Connery comes from a textile town and Mr. Wilcox from a vegetable district.

Admit Treaties Hurt Industries.

Both were frank in admitting that their opposition was based upon complaints from their constituents that the President's trade treaties were hurting local industries.

"I know I am just a lone voice crying in the wilderness," remarked Connery, "but we should amend this bill to protect American industries from foreign competition by imposing duties on imports so that they may not be sold for less than they can be purchased in the United States. Give Americans an even break with the Japs, who pay girls in their textile mills 4 cents a day. I predict that within five years most of you here will be hollering for a protective tarif."

Connery's amendment to equalize differences between imported and domestic products was defeated, however, 135 to 77.

Asks Justice for Farmers.

"Let's not permit foreign countries to dump their agricultural products in this country at prices less than Americans can produce them for," he pleaded. "I'll admit I have a selfish interest in the people who elected me, but it is none the less true that the treaty with Cuba has driven hundreds of previously prosperous Florida farmers into bankruptcy and thousands more will follow them if the treaty remains in effect."

But Wilcox was beaten, 134 to 67.

Similarly defeated were amendments from the Republican side designed to require congressional approval of the trade treaties.

The resolution extends the President's powers to negotiate trade treaties until June 12, 1940. His power under the present act will expire next June 12. Fifteen treaties with foreign countries have already been entered into.

U. S. TESTS MONEY BY 'TRIAL OF PYX'; SOME FOLKS JUST BITE IT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—This country's "trial of the pyx," in which a "jury" determines whether coins contain the correct percentage of silver or other metal, will be held at the Philadelphia mint tomorrow.

This historic ceremony originated in England long ago, when "goldsmiths of the City of London or other competent persons" assayed the coinage once a year.

Coins were chosen to represent, fairly, all coinage since the last test, and, "while awaiting trial," were kept in a box known as the "pyx."

In this country, certain coins produced by each mint during the year are reserved for the test, which is conducted by the "annual assay commission," appointed by President Roosevelt. These coins are sealed in envelopes and locked in the "pyx" box until the test.

TWO BIG UTILITY COMPANIES BOW TO SEC CONTROL

No. American, Am. Water Works Act.

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Dropping a court battle pending more than a year, two of the nation's major power systems today announced plans to register with the federal Securities and Exchange commission under the public utility holding company act of 1935.

The North American company and the American Water Works and Electric company, top units in big utility systems operating in many communities, announced plans to register and opened a breach in what has been regarded in financial circles as a united front in a fight against the act.

Immediately there was speculation whether other major holding units would fall in line, notably Electric Bond and Share and its affiliates, the Associated Gas and Electric system, Cities Service, and Commonwealth and Southern.

Will Withdraw Suits.

North American and American Water Works also announced withdrawal of suits in the District of Columbia aimed to test eventually the constitutionality of the holding company act. This cleared the road for a suit brought by the SEC against Electric Bond and Share and its affiliated companies to force compliance. In a decision handed down last week in a District court here, Federal Judge Julian W. Mack upheld the government and ruled they must register or refrain from doing business in violation of the act.

While Electric Bond and Share has made no announcement, many utility men expected it would carry the suit to the higher courts on appeal for a test of the legality of the controversial provisions, particularly that giving the SEC wide authority to force corporate simplification and geographical integration of operating units.

North American and American Water Works indicated their decisions

IN THE CARE OF ESTATES

DUE to the many recent changes in economic life, The Northern Trust Company is called upon for a high degree of knowledge along specialized lines. Because it is impossible for any one individual to be versed in all of the complexities of trust administration, there are here at the immediate disposal of this company the experience and combined knowledge of men who keep abreast of current trends in taxes, securities, real estate and other fields. Each group is constantly engaged with the problems arising in its own respective line.

The combined judgment of these coordinated groups in matters affecting estate management provides a system of effective checks and balances. What this accomplishes is manifestly evident. Such organization contributes in large measure to the confidence this institution merits in its work as executor-trustee . . . It enables The Northern Trust Company to administer with thorough-going care the estates which it serves.

Estate owners who seek sound and conscientious attention for their holdings are invited to inquire further about the trust services that are offered at this institution.

PLEA TO REVAMP CAPITAL FILED BY GREENEBAUM

Ask Reorganization Under 77B; Plan Offered.

Greenebaum Sons Investment company, 111 South La Salle street, oldest mortgage banking house in Chicago, yesterday filed a voluntary petition for reorganization under section 77 B of the amended bankruptcy law. Federal Judge William H. Holly entered the petition and authorized the company to continue in possession of its property. The petition listed liabilities of about $1,000,000 and assets of approximately $500,000.

Edward R. Johnston, attorney representing the company, filed a plan of reorganization along with the petition. The plan proposes the issuance of 15,000 shares of $5 par first preferred stock to provide working capital; issuance of an undetermined number of shares of second preferred stock to creditors, and issuance of 30,000 shares no par common stock.

Banks Chief Creditors.

Present creditors include the First National Bank of Chicago with a claim of $240,000; the Chase National Bank of New York with $250,000 in claims, and the receiver for the Central Republic Trust company, Chicago, with a claim of $150,000.

Judge Holly ordered all objections to the plan and claims to be filed with Special Master Charles True Adams by March 8, and set March 17 for a hearing on these matters.

Capitalization of the company consists of $107,619 in collateral trust notes and 300,000 shares of no par common stock. Stockholders total about 3,500. In 1935 the company had a deficit of $44,700.

Tells Company's Position.

Edgar N. Greenebaum, president, said yesterday:

"When the earnings of real estate declined so drastically and owners were unable to pay interest and principal maturities on their bond issues, this company made tremendous inroads into its capital and incurred large obligations to protect the holders of the real estate bonds it had underwritten and sold.

"In addition, my father, M. E. Greenebaum, then president of the company, and his brother, James E. Greenebaum, sacrificed their personal fortunes to save the house and assist the bondholders."

HUTTON HEARING HALTED AS SEC PROBE SHIFTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Testimony in the government's stock manipulation case against W. E. Hutton & Co., members of the New York exchange, halted suddenly today when the affairs of Art Loom, a Philadelphia concern, were brought into the questioning. Herbert J. Adair, a witness, had just identified the Hutton firm as purchasers of Atlas Tack corporation stock, which the government contends was "rigged."

"And when Hutton dropped Atlas Tack, after selling out at the top of the market, he took his customers into Art Loom for the very same purpose, didn't he?" demanded Jacob Gruber, securities and exchange commission counsel.

David W. Peck, attorney for Hutton, immediately moved to quash all subpenas in the case if Art Loom were not excluded from the record. He also demanded a recess of three to six months to prepare answers unless his motion were sustained.

The commission's trial examiner indicated that he would study the present memoranda and be prepared to argue the motion to quash tomorrow morning.

SHOE MANUFACTURERS RAISE PRICES AS COST OF MATERIALS CLIMBS

Leading shoe manufacturers yesterday advanced wholesale prices 5 to 25 cents a pair, effective immediately. The action, it was explained, was necessitated by recent sharp upturn in hides and leather.

Some manufacturers indicated that further advances in shoe prices might be expected. The present advance, it was said, reflects only part of the rise in raw material prices.

Companies announcing price revisions included the International Shoe company and Brown Shoe company, St. Louis, and the Endicott-Johnson corporation, Endicott, N. Y.

A spokesman for the International Shoe company said he did not know what the effect would be on retail prices, but "it seems inevitable retail prices will finally have to reflect the increased costs." He said retail prices already had been advanced in some cases in the last thirty to sixty days.

The wholesale price increase was the first of a general nature since the current spring shoe season began in December. Price advances had been forecast at the National Shoe Dealers' convention in Chicago early last month.

COURT APPOINTS FOX TRUSTEE FOR LOTT HOTELS, INC.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday appointed John J. Fox, an architect, trustee for the Lott Hotels, Inc., which is undergoing reorganization under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law. Fox was formerly state court receiver for the company's properties—the Belden-Stratford, Parkway, and Webster hotels—before the company came under federal court jurisdiction.

Several weeks ago the company filed a voluntary plea for reorganization. In its plea is said the property had been in state courts since 1928 and that fees of $400,000 had been paid out during the period. Judge Sullivan, in his order appointing Fox, took cognizance of the fees, which he termed "enormous," and said he would handle the matter from a practical instead of a legal standpoint.

Principal indebtedness of the corporation consists of $5,000,000 first mortgage bonds, $800,000 in second mortgage bonds, and $500,000 in back taxes.

THREE BUILDINGS TO BE RAZED IN DOWNTOWN AREA

Bids are being taken for wrecking the seven story building at 24-28 North Dearborn street, just across the alley to the north from the Covenant club. J. E. Evans is owner. The property is 41 by 90 feet. It has not yet been decided whether to use the property for open air parking or erect a two story "taxpayer." It is planned to have the present building razed prior to April 1.

Wreckers started yesterday tearing down two old buildings at 4-6 North Franklin street and 308-10 West Madison street. One is six and the other five stories in height. The cleared space will be used for parking.

CHICAGO FIRMS LOSE SUITS FOR PROCESS TAXES

Court Rules Return Barred by Revenue Act.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday dismissed five suits directed at Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue in the Chicago district, to recover approximately $14,000,000 from the federal government in connection with processing taxes paid before the Agricultural Adjustment act was declared invalid by the Supreme court. The court declared it lacked jurisdiction.

JUDGE WILKERSON

Two of the suits were filed by the Cudahy Packing company to recover $11,908,983, and the other three were filed by Sears, Roebuck & Co., Marshall Field & Co., and the Morton Salt company to recover an aggregate of $2,000,000. The payments were made in the period from November, 1933, to March, 1935, into a special fund supervised by the court.

Recovery Barred by Act.

Judge Wilkerson ruled, in effect, that the amendment of June 22, 1936, to the revenue act, which barred recovery of such taxes unless the plaintif could prove that it bore the burden of the tax and did not pass it along to the consumer, was tantamount to a withdrawal by congress of the right to sue the government.

"The sections in question prohibit the making of refunds, in pursuance of court decisions or otherwise, unless there is compliance with the rules there stated," Judge Wilkerson ruled. "One of these conditions is that the taxpayer must establish that he had borne the burden of such amounts, or that he has repaid unconditionally such amounts to his vendee who bore the burden thereof.

Attempts to Prevent Fraud.

"In enacting the legislation of 1936, congress was attempting to prevent the perpetration of a great wrong, if not a downright fraud. It was not to be tolerated that a taxpayer who has not borne the burden of the taxes, but has so conducted his business that the money with which the tax was paid was actually contributed by others, should take out of the public treasury for his own benefit the amount of the tax."

The actions dismissed involve refunds already obtained by many concerns, including Chicago packers, through injunction proceedings, while the constitutionality of the AAA was being contested before the courts. The federal government sought, under the windfall tax, to collect 80 per cent of the processing taxes which the packers obtained when the AAA was declared invalid.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan last December dismissed three suits against Chicago packing companies seeking to enjoin them from paying the windfall tax.

TWO BIG UTILITY COMPANIES BOW TO SEC CONTROL

No. American, Am. Water Works to Register.

had been influenced chiefly by the ruling in the Electric Bond and Share case and a desire to do new financing. Several hundred million dollars of new financing were estimated in Wall street to have been blocked when holding units representing the bulk of the industry balked at registering late in 1935.

H. Hobart Porter, president of American Water Works and Electric, in a letter informing shareholders of the registration plan, said:

"The company expects to proceed promptly with plans for simplification of its capital structure and for extensive refinancing, which when they have been approved and carried out, should improve the position of the company and result in substantial economies.

Will Expand Facilities.

"Such plans also will provide for additional funds for the expansion of facilities to meet demand for electric energy, which increased rapidly in territory served last year."

"The use of electric power is steadily growing and the possibilities of continued growth are, in our opinion, large," J. F. Fogarty, president, informed North American shareholders: "It is possible to eliminate duplicate taxes, which have been substantially increased under present tax laws, through certain corporate simplification now feasible under amendments of state corporation laws made since the holding company bill was introduced and the effect savings through refundings.

"In our opinion such steps can be promptly and effectively taken only in coöperation with the Securities and Exchange commission."

Company's Rights Not Waived.

"The company's opposition to the act as passed," explained Porter, "was not because of any fear that it would not be administered with the utmost fairness by the commission entrusted with the duty of administration but because of the provisions which might be construed to leave the commission no alternative but to impose severely burdensome restriction upon the company. The effect of Judge Mack's decision is that a company registering will not waive its right to question in the courts the validity of such provisions."

Porter said only in event of threatened injury would American Water Works go to the courts again. He made his announcement after a special meeting of the company's directors.

Concerns Cover Broad Field.

American Water Works controls directly or through subsidiaries many operating properties supplying electric, gas, and transportation services in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and Ohio. It also controls engineering and farming companies and water service concerns operating in sixteen states in the east. It has assets of about $500,000,000.

North American's leading operating subsidiaries serve the District of Columbia and parts of Virginia and sections of Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa. It has assets of approximately $1,200,000,000.

COTTON MARKETS RALLY AFTER AN EASY OPENING

Cotton markets were easier during the early trading yesterday due to scattered liquidation by holders of contracts. However, a moderate rally followed later when good trade buying was encouraged at 12½ cents a pound for May delivery.

Closing trades on cotton futures in leading American markets were .02 cents lower to .07 cents a pound higher. New Orleans was closed for "Mardi gras."

COFFEE

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures today sold at the highest level since September, 1934, and final prices on most forward positions were at or above the 11c level in the Santos contract.

Today's buying continued an upward movement which has been in progress for the last two weeks and which has suffered only short-lived recessions since the first of the year despite the fact business has not been particularly active during this period.

Aided by Brazilian and European support, the market moved forward on a more favorable statistical rating than has been the case since Brazil launched her coffee destruction program in 1931. Only recently advices from Brazil disclosed the coffee department in control of the country's production is now prepared to destroy the beans at the rate of 100,000 bags a day as against a former capacity of that many bags each month.

Santos opened unchanged and closed 2@6 points higher. Sales, 17,750 bags. New No. 7 opened 1 point lower and closed 2@6 points higher. Sales 5,500 bags.

LARD LOWER; CORN, HOG PRICES OFFSET EACH OTHER

Easiness in the hog market more than offset the effect of the strength in corn as a market influence in lard yesterday. Scattered commission house liquidation developed, and while there was some buying attributed to packing interests the close was at net losses of 5 to 10 cents.

Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 5 to 10 cents lower. Cash lard was quoted at $12.77½; loose, $12.12½; leaf, $11.62½, and clear bellies at $15.75 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

I. C. C. OPPOSES LONG-SHORT HAUL CLAUSE REPEAL

Eastman Tells House Group of Commission's Stand.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission went on record today as opposed to repeal of the "long-and-short haul" clause of the interstate commerce act regulating railroad rates.

Joseph B. Eastman, member of the commission and chairman of its legislative committee, told the house interstate commerce committee at a hearing on the Pettengill repeal bill that he had been authorized to express the regulatory body's disapproval.

Blames Roads for Clause.

Eastman, in reciting a history of transportation legislation, said railroads, through practices of favoritism and discrimination, had brought about enactment of the clause. It forbids the charging of higher rates on short hauls than on longer ones on the same route in the same direction.

"Until the time of the depression, the agitation was for more stringent rail regulation," said Eastman. "The complaint was heard that the commission was not strict enough with the railroads. But since the depression, the agitation has been the other way. The complaint is now heard that the commission is too stringent."

Cites Earlier Discrimination.

He said that before enactment of the clause in 1920, intermediate points on transcontinental lines were discriminated against in the matter of rates. Much of that discrimination had been eliminated since that time, he asserted.

"Rates to the intermediate points have been reduced, while in many cases those to the previously favored points have been hiked, giving the railroads about the same amount of revenue," he said.

Eastman's statement, unfinished when the day's session was ended, was expected to conclude presentation of the case of the opposition. Proponents were to be given an opportunity to present rebuttal testimony Thursday and possibly Friday.

This Industry Is Pinning Up Some New Records

The hair pin industry is flourishing, according to the Illinois Manufacturers association. The association reported yesterday that Illinois, the leading producer, is now turning out more hair pins than ever before with the daily output running in the neighborhood of 20 millions a day. Employment in the industry is also at a high level. Illinois hair pin factories are currently employing 500 persons, 80 per cent of whom are girls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 9.—Dealings today in listed bonds were the dullest session of the year. Prices drifted to moderately lower level, although final quotations were highly mixed.

Traders remained on the side lines pending more definite indications of the effect of higher bank reserve requirements and the trend of money rates.

Transactions amounted to only $10,808,000, compared with $11,601,000 on Monday.

Federal Group Listless.

Trading in United States government obligations was practically at a standstill. Closing quotations showed gains of 1-32 to 2-32 point, and declines of 1-32 to 4-32 point. The market ignored the slightly lower rate obtained on this week's issue of discount bills, which marked the first decrease in about twelve weeks.

High grade corporation bonds were fractionally lower for the most part. Declines were shown by Chesapeake and Ohio 3½s, Brooklyn Edison 3¼s, Santa Fe general 4s, Consumers Power 3½s of 1965, Detroit 3½s and 4s, New York Edison 3¼s of 1965, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and Virginian 3¾s.

No Definite Trend.

Second grade bonds followed no uniform trend and were dull. Lower prices were recorded in American Type Founders 2½s-5s, Utilities Power and Light 5½s, Manhattan first 4s certificates, and Rutland 4½s.

The foreign list was generally firm, with gains of a point or more in Yokohama 6s, Silesia 7s, Montevideo 6s, Jugo-Slav mortgage 7s, Greek 7s, and Fiat 7s.

From Autos to Ale.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Peerless corporation. —R. J. M.

Answer: Once a well known automobile manufacturer, this company turned to the brewing of ale, beer, and malt liquors upon repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment. Only a part of its two plants in Cleveland was converted into a brewery. The rest, still equipped for automobile manufacture, has been offered for sale.

The backbone of the new business was an agreement with Brewing Corporation of Canada for the exclusive right to manufacture and distribute Carling's ale. Production of ale began in April, 1934.

On Jan. 26, 1937, the president of the company said business is better than expected and predicted 1937 sales volume of $4,000,000. A $575,000 expansion of facilities is expected to be completed in April, increasing annual capacity from 250,000 to 400,000 barrels [12,400,000 gallons].

Sales were $2,275,000 before federal and state excise taxes, and net sales were $1,214,000 in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1936, compared with net sales of $548,000 and $181,000 the preceding two years. The company reported net income of $162,000 in the 1936 year, compared with losses of $224,000 and $173,000 the preceding two years.

Giving effect to sale of 265,210 shares in October, 1936, to provide funds for expansion and other corporate purposes, capitalization now consists of 772,226 shares of $3 par common stock. The company has no funded debt.

Current assets were $297,000 and current liabilities were $449,000 on Sept. 30, 1936.

Income Tax.

Investors' Guide: I have about $500 worth of common stocks listed on the New York Stock exchange, but my income is nowhere near to that specified for making out a federal income return. Will it be necessary for me to file a federal return because of this stock holding, even though my income is not large?—M. W. U.

Answer: No. The law requires only that dividends and gains or losses on sales of securities [to the extent recognized for income tax purposes] must be included as income on your tax return. Stock holdings are not subject to income tax.

ARGENTINE ISSUE OF 70 MILLIONS OFFERED TODAY

Several Other Offerings of Bonds Announced.

Offering will be made today of $70,000,000 Argentine republic bonds, one of the largest foreign issues to be sold since the depression, also $6,000,000 Holly Sugar corporation bonds, $16,000,000 Dallas Power and Light company bonds, and $5,000,000 of Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad trustees' certificates.

Another development in the security market was an announcement that for the first time in the history of the present corporation, which dates back to 1896, the Santa Fe railroad will sell as issue of equipment trust certificates.

Argentine Issues at 91.

The Argentine issue, which is being offered by a syndicate headed by Morgan Stanley & Co., consists of a sinking fund external conversion 4 per cent loan, due in 1972. The offering price is 91 and accrued interest.

Proceeds will be applied to the redemption of 6 per cent bonds. The new bonds will be redeemable at par.

The Holly Sugar issue consists of first mortgage bonds, due $500,000 annually April 1, 1938, to April 1, 1942, inclusive, and the balance of $3,500,000 due April 1, 1947. Interest rates range from 1½ per cent on the 1938 maturity to 4 per cent on the 1947 maturity. The bonds are priced at 100 for the maturities from 1938 to 1942 and at 98 for the 1947 maturity. The selling group consists of the Central Republic company, Halsey, Stuart & Co., Glore, Forgan & Co., Dominick & Dominick, and Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used to retire the present funded debt, to reduce current bank indebtedness and to increase the company's working capital.

Utility Issue Pays 3½ Per Cent.

The Dallas Power issue consists of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds which will be offered by a syndicate headed by the Lee Higginson corporation at 102¾. Proceeds will be used for refunding and other corporate purposes.

The Denver & Rio Grande issue consists of 1⅛ and 2⅛ per cent certificates which will be offered by Stone & Webster and Blodgett. The certificates will be marketed on a yield basis.

The Santa Fe has invited bids to be submitted Feb. 24 on $13,800,000 of 2¼ per cent equipment trust certificates of 1937. The railroad in the past has paid for equipment out of cash, but at the present it is desired to conserve cash resources.

Once during the world war, when the railroads were under federal operation, the Santa Fe was required to assume a share of an issue of $100,000,000 of equipment trust certificates issued for all the railroads, but as soon as federal control ended it bought up its share.

WHEAT RECEDES, CORN RISES IN ERRATIC TRADE

Germany Buys More Grain to Avert Famine.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Yesterday's closing prices on grain for delivery in May, with comparisons, follow:

	Yester-day.	Mon-day.	Week ago.	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.34⅞	$1.35⅛	$1.28⅛	$1.34¼
Corn	1.10¼	1.09¾	1.05¼	1.11½
Oats	.51	.51¼	.49⅞	.53¼
Rye	1.11⅝	1.12¼	1.10	1.12½

Grain markets fluctuated erratically yesterday. Wheat prices averaged lower in sympathy with declines in the Liverpool and Winnipeg markets, while corn was strong, reflecting a continued active shipping demand.

Closing trades were around the best prices of the day, with wheat a small fraction of a cent a bushel lower and corn about ½ cent higher. Price changes in oats were unimportant. Rye was as much as a cent a bushel lower, due to some selling on reports of further heavy snowfall in the northwest. The aggregate trade in grain futures was rather light.

Wheat Rallies from Decline.

Wheat declined more than a cent a bushel early but met commission house buying around $1.34 for the May delivery. This absorbed the surplus in the pit, and short covering later, induced by the strength in corn, caused a strong rally. Liverpool declined 1⅞ to 2½ cents a bushel, due to a slower United Kingdom flour demand and selling attributed to Australia.

A serious food situation in Germany was revealed yesterday. Paris cables reported that country had purchased 1,500,000 bushels of cash wheat through two of the largest French grain firms on irrevocable credits payable in cash against documents. This was construed as indicating that Germany had been forced to dip into its limited holdings of foreign exchange or its gold reserve to obtain food.

Germany Buys Argentine Wheat.

In addition, 250,000 bushels of Argentine wheat were bought yesterday by Germany. Rumors that country had purchased 250,000 bushels from Canada could not be confirmed. All purchases of wheat through London for shipment to Spain, according to Paris cables, were being made through the Russian trade agency in London.

Prospects of a further reduction in the local and visible supply of corn and the refusal of the country to part with its remaining surplus of that grain dominated the action of that market yesterday. Cash and commission houses were fair buyers. The September delivery showed independent weakness, due to reports of highly beneficial rains in the main Argentine corn belt.

Trade in oats, rye, and soy beans was relatively slow, with the action of other grains the main influence.

COFFEE JOINS METAL PRICES IN UPWARD CLIMB

Export Copper Advances to Seven Year Peak.

Metals, favorites of commodity traders in recent weeks, were joined in an upward price march yesterday by coffee contracts as new highs for several years were established. Export copper assumed leadership in the rise, adding .10 cent to its recent advance to reach 13.37½ cents a pound, a top since April, 1930, and .37½ of a cent above the 13 cent domestic level. Foreign speculative and armament buying were price spurs, it was reported.

Domestic copper men were said to be tense over the situation, with the foreign price at so sharp an advantage over the American quotation. Most leading producers continued to maintain that a lift in prices in this country is not justified at present.

Zink Hits Three Year Peak.

Zinc futures touched a peak since July, 1934, when trading began, with the May delivery reaching 6.50 cents a pound, bid.

Copper futures gave a little ground at the finish, but at one time during the session touched the best price since dealings were inaugurated in 1930. The final bid for July delivery was 12.30 cents a pound.

Coffee futures went to levels last seen in September, 1934, in a continuation of a general upward movement under way since the beginning of the year. The market's turnover, however, was not particularly brisk.

Prices of cocoa, hides, and rubber, which have scored substantial appreciation recently, were the targets of profit taking sales and closed lower.

EGGS RISE HERE DESPITE LACK OF FEDERAL BUYING

Egg prices were slightly higher here yesterday despite the fact that the government made no purchases in any market for the first time in two weeks.

Eggs for immediate delivery advanced ¼ to ¾ cent a dozen, with graded lots here quoted at 21¾ to 22¼ cents a dozen. Egg futures closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

Profit taking caused a decline of 4 to 5 cents a hundred pounds in potatoes, with Idaho russets grading U. S. extra No. 1 for delivery in March closing at $3.95 a 100 pounds. Sales of potatoes were 38 cars.

Hair Stylists Are in Demand Everywhere.
The Chicago Hairdressing Academy receives a great many requests each week for men and women who have been trained as HAIR STYLISTS under the internationally known John Mueller and his proven academy system.
This famous system develops natural talent for creative hair and beauty work. Every effort is made to allow the student to follow natural inclinations instead of a cut and dried course to study.
As a result these Academy graduates are not just operators—they are qualified HAIR STLYISTS, leaders in their field.
You are invited to visit our school without obligation. See for yourself the fine quality of our student body and the definite advantages of our superior training.

You've Got Something There
They say it in the Follies—and they say it when they visit our building. True, we have running ice water, elevator, lake view and all that, but we have other attractions in our two, three, and four room unfurnished apartment suites at moderate rentals. A courteous manager will gladly show.
